FOUR JAPANESE OFFICIALS ARE BOMB VICTIMS

MINISTER TO CHINA IS ONE OF TARGETS

Shanghai (Friday), April 29 (A.P.).—Four of the highest Japanese officials in Shanghai, including Gen. Yoshinori Shirakawa, commander of the army here and leader of the Japanese forces in the Shanghai fighting, were seriously injured by a bomb explosion here today.

The two most seriously injured were Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japanese minister to China and director of the recent peace parleys here, and Consul General Kuramatsu Murai.

Also among the injured was Maj. Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda, who began the Shanghai battle as commander, but was replaced by Gen. Yoshikawa.

The bomb was tossed by an unidentified man, believed to be a Korean, into the speakers' stand at a big military review in Hongkew Park in honor of the birthday of Emperor Hirohito of Japan.

Following the blast the huge crowd closed in on the man accused of hurling the bomb. Japanese military officers attending the review sought to establish order. They rescued the man accused, but it was not known immediately whether he was dead or alive.

Officials said Gens. Hoshizawa and Uyeda were not fatally hurt.

Drys Will Counter Parades for Beer

Plans for Enforcement Rallies Are Announced by Dr. Wilson.

Atlantic City, N. J., April 28 (A.P.).—Dr. Clarence True Wilson told the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church today the drys of the Nation will counter Mayor James J. Walker's beer parades next month with rallies throughout the country two days after the wet demonstrations.

He said the largest of the gatherings to refute the stand of the New York Mayor will be held in the municipal convention hall here as the major event of the church conference. He said he hoped Mayor Walker would be "exhibit No. 1" and lead the New York parade, adding that the "prohibition element of the Nation is inexpressibly grateful to Mayor Walker for vindicating truths they have espoused for years."

Bear Quiz Witness Faced Fraud Count

Edward P. Knight Called Figure in Account Juggling Case.

New York, April 28.—The Herald Tribune says Edward P. Knight, recent Senate stock inquiry witness, was disclosed as a figure in a 1929 brokerage account juggling case today when he visited a court probation bureau and reported the loss of his job.

Knight, the Tribune related, was arrested in 1929 for juggling accounts of the brokerage house of Dean, Onativia & Co., and pleaded guilty to first degree grand larceny, receiving a three-year suspended sentence.

He has been employed since November as an accountant in the New York office of the Tariff Commission, but was suspended today. The paper said it was understood his suspension was ordered by the commission's headquarters in Washington. Knight appeared before the Senate committee last week as an expert in brokerage accounting.

Mystery Veils Death Of Canoeist in River

Body of J. C. King, 27, Is Found in Potomac Above Key Bridge.

J. CALVERT KING.

Pending investigation into mysterious circumstances surrounding the drowning of J. Calvert King, 27 years old, former employe of the United States Bicentennial Commission, who yesterday afternoon was swept to his death while paddling a canoe in the treacherous waters of the upper Potomac River, Deputy Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald last night refused to release the man's body until police had cleared up several conflicting angles.

As far as can be learned, only two unidentified men were actual witnesses to the drowning. Police were not informed of the case until more than an hour after these men were alleged to have seen Mr. King sink below the surface of the water after his canoe had capsized.

Shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon Mr. King went to the boathouse of Mrs. Bessie Trunnell, in the 4300 block of Canal road northwest, where he had stored a newly purchased canoe. Leaving his overcoat in her custody, Mr. King donned a light leather jacket, launched his craft in the water and paddled away.

What took place during the following three hours is the subject of the police probe. It is known that about 3 o'clock Mr. King stopped at a boathouse on the District side of the river and made a telephone call. Persons who overheard his conversation said he called Metropolitan 9900, asked for a branch number and made an engagement to meet some one in front of a downtown theater at 8

STIMSON HOPEFUL OVER ARMS PARLEY

Reports to President That Satisfactory Progress Has Been Made.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Secretary Stimson has reported to President Hoover the satisfactory progress that has been made in the course of his conversations with other world statesmen at Geneva, it became known here yesterday. The opinion prevails here after reading the cabled account of Col. Stimson's conversations with Prime Minister MacDonald, German Chancellor Bruening, Italian Foreign Minister Dino Grandi and the French Premier Andre Tardieu that the Secretary of State has accomplished the purpose for which he went to Geneva. The general disarmament conference will not break up in failure but will continue its negotiations.

A marked improvement in the trend of European sentiment toward the various international problems of the moment was noted by the Secretary. There has been a conspicuous development toward a more conciliatory outlook on the following problems: Disarmament, the Far Eastern situation, the Danubian confederation and other matters relative to international cooperation.

The matter of reparations and war

Hoover and Roosevelt Alaska Pledges Seen

Juneau, Alaska, April 28 (U.P.).—Incomplete returns from the Territory of Alaska primary election tonight indicated that delegates to the national conventions would be pledged to support Herbert Hoover and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Several former Republican strongholds voted Democratic, the latter ticket obtaining more votes than ever before. Anchorage was overwhelmingly Democratic, while the vote was fairly even at Seward and Fairbanks.

BANKHEAD IS UPHELD BY SENATE, 64 TO 18

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Turning vehemently on J. Thomas Heflin, the Senate yesterday declared Senator John H. Bankhead (Democrat), Alabama, duly entitled to his seat.

The vote was overwhelming—64 to 18.

When the roll was called, old-timers at the Capitol concluded that an ancient adage had been exploded—that oratory could change votes after all.

It was agreed that Heflin, in his five-hour harangue in the Senate Wednesday, had changed plenty of votes. He did not exactly talk himself out of a victory. He was doomed to lose from the outset, but the expectation was that the vote would be rather close.

Then came Heflin's marathon speech and the landslide toward Bankhead was on.

Heflin, a picturesque figure at the Capitol for a generation, did not wince when the verdict was announced yesterday. He just sat there for a moment as though stunned, and then

Dry Defeats Chindblom In Illinois Primary Vote

Chicago, April 28 (A.P.).—Nomination of Ralph E. Church, State representative, supported by the W. C. T. U., as Republican candidate for Congress from the Tenth Illinois District was announced today by the official canvassing board.

Church had a 73-vote margin over James Simpson, jr., son of a wealthy Chicago merchant, who ran as a wet. Carl R. Chindblom, incumbent, was 5,500 votes behind. The district includes part of Chicago and fashionable North Shore suburbs.

5 Hurt as Lion Runs Wild At Boston Hotel Broadcast

"Leo," Veteran Film Performer, Excited by Crowd at Radio Studio, Crashes Through Glass Partitions; Stampede Results in Injuries.

Boston, April 28 (A.P.).—A huge lion ran wild on the fifth floor of a downtown hotel tonight and sent 200 persons who had gathered to watch him in a radio broadcast fleeing in a panic. Five persons were hurt slightly.

The lion plunged twice through heavy, double plate glass windows from one room into another. A squad of police, armed with long whips and aided by a trainer, finally placed the animal in a cage.

The trouble started soon after the lion, known to the movies as "Leo," a veteran film performer, was brought into the studio. He walked around the studio, saw persons in the control room, and then leaped through a window into that section of the broadcasting department.

Three girls and two men, in the small control room, ran out. The crowd in the reception room, hearing the crash, also tried to get out. Elevators were not able to take them all off the floor at once and part of the crowd was taken into adjoining studios.

Three girl employes were injured in the disorder. Two of them were cut by glass and a third knocked down in the attempt at a general exodus.

Guests were locked in the studios where they had been directed and a police guard was maintained, temporarily, to prevent any attempt to leave.

The lion was soon brought back into the broadcasting chamber, and after an announcer related what had happened, the beast emitted a few grunts and jumped through another window into the reception room.

About two dozen of the more courageous visitors, who had returned to witness the broadcast, heard the crash of breaking glass, saw the lion again, and a second dash for other parts was begun. Women fell down and others tripped over them while the lion made his way along a corridor.

The animal's trainer and police finally cornered the lion in a small room and returned him to his cage.

SEVEN JURORS IN HAWAII CASE QUIT CHAMBER

SPECTATORS UNABLE TO UNDERSTAND ACT

Kelley Rejects Suggestion Verdict by Less Than 12 Be Accepted.

Honolulu, April 28 (A.P.).—A break in the inscrutable silence about the room in which twelve men labored to reach a verdict in the Joseph Kahahawai lynching case came late today when the seven jurors of Nordic blood left their five colleagues to come out on a balcony and stand in a light rain.

Except for the racial make-up of those who emerged the act was not significant to watchers below. Those remaining in the juryroom were three Chinese, a Hawaiian and a Portuguese.

The Caucasians stood in a little knot and conversed a few moments. Their words could not be distinguished.

Public Prosecutor John C. Kelley tonight rejected a suggestion of defense counsel that an agreement be made whereby a verdict reached by either ten or eleven of the jurors would be acceptable to both sides.

Disagreement Is Seen.

The leaving of the seven jurors from the room came near the end of the first 24 hours to elapse since the "melting pot" jury took into its hands the fate of Lieut. Thomas H. Massie and three others charged with slaying the young native to avenge his asserted participation in an attack upon Mrs. Thalia Massie, wife of the naval officer.

Whether the racial factor was entering the deliberations could only be surmised. It was recalled that defense and prosecution took diametrically opposed positions in building the jury—the defense holding to the Caucasians and the prosecution trying to keep Orientals or Polynesians in the jury box.

Clarence Darrow, aged defense leader, still was holding out hopes for acquittal, but a general belief that a jury disagreement would result was growing among the watchers. The juryroom is isolated from view and there has been no hint of what has transpired therein.

Walk Straight Ahead.

The faces of the jurors were set straight ahead and did not turn to right or left as they marched past newspapermen and into the court house to resume their deliberations this morning.

In reply to questions, Circuit Judge Charles S. Davis said he would keep the jury deliberating "a reasonable

Reichers Makes Canada-Cuba Hop

Completes 1,786-Mile Trip in 9 Hours; Testing Ship for Atlantic Flight.

Havana, Cuba, April 28 (A.P.).—Lou Reichers, American flier, landed here at 8:25 o'clock tonight after a nonstop flight from Montreal, Canada, made to test the airplane in which he intends to attempt the transatlantic flight this summer.

He made the trip in 9 hours 3 minutes, having left St. Hubert Airport at 9:22 a. m. Reichers had explained that the length of the Montreal-Havana flight—1,786 miles—was approximately the same distance he would have to fly over water from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, to Ireland in the two-stop flight he plans to make to Paris in the summer.

The fuel tanks of his low-wing Lockheed Altair monoplane carried 470 gallons of gasoline when he left Montreal.

SENATE GROUP TURNS ON TAX BILL TARIFFS

BALLOTING CLOSE ON ALL PROPOSALS

New Drive for Coalition by Advocates of Duty Due as Result.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

The fight over tariffs in the $1,000,000,000 tax bill, which has been sorely plaguing Republican and Democratic leaders, but particularly the latter, flared anew yesterday when the Senate finance committee reversed itself and eliminated oil, coal and copper tariffs from the bill.

By close votes the committee previously had approved the oil and coal tariffs, written into the bill in the House, and had agreed to put in a tariff on copper also.

The about-face in the heated session behind closed doors yesterday followed the first appearance of Senator William H. King (Democrat), of Utah, in the executive meetings of the committee. He has been absent because of illness.

New Drive for Coalition.

Striking of the tariffs from the bill will signal a renewal of the efforts of tariff advocates to build up a tariff coalition through mutual tickling agreements. Republican leaders have sought to prevent the building up of a tariff coalition because they feared inclusion of several tariff items would delay passage of the budget-balancing bill.

Democratic leaders have fought the tariff movement because they have had their eye on the coming political campaign. They want to blame the Republican Hawley-Smoot tariff law as a major cause in the business depression, something they could not do gracefully if every Democrat who wants a tariff on something in his State gets it or tries for it.

Voting Is Close.

After estimating the strength and determination of the various groups it was decided that oil and coal should be left in, copper should be added and the door closed. The committee defeated a proposal to put lumber and forest products in, but the determination of the oil, coal, and copper tariff advocates to have those in the bill may result in their combining with the lumber advocates and possibly with some others to force their will.

The tariffs were voted down by

Gov. Olson Delays President's Dinner

Serving Waits 15 Minutes; Executive Later Located at His Hotel.

(Associated Press.)

White House officials last night sought hurriedly for Gov. Floyd B. Olson of Minnesota after he failed to appear at President and Mrs. Hoover's dinner for members of the governors' conference.

The Minnesota governor was located later at a hotel. He explained to newspapermen that a rush of business in the Capital and the necessity of leaving Washington on an early train last night had forced him to decline the White House invitation from Richmond, Va., while the governors' conference was still in progress.

In the press of preparations for the function, Olson's declination apparently was overlooked and dinner was delayed for about 15 minutes.

HOUSE KILLS FURLOUGH PROPOSAL IN REFUSING TO END HALF-HOLIDAYS

De Valera Gets Labor Support on Oath Bill

Norton, Party Leader, Assures Backing as Dail Members Near Blows in Vitriolic Debate Verging on Fights Preceding Decision.

Dublin, Irish Free State, April 28 (A.P.).—The last barrier in the path of President Eamon de Valera's bill abolishing the oath to the British crown was cleared away tonight when William Norton, Labor party leader, announced at a tumultuous session of the Dail Eireann that his followers would vote for the measure.

With the backing of Labor's nine members, the government should be able to put the bill through with at least 81 votes against a combined maximum opposition of 72 members of former President William T. Cosgrave's party and the independents.

Debate of the measure on second reading, which opened yesterday, was resumed by oppositionists, who made blistering attacks on it, and by vehement defenders.

Dan Breen, long an outstanding Republican leader, asserted that during "the trouble" more than ten years ago he went out for the purpose of killing Lord French (the Earl of Ypres), who was then lord lieutenant of Ireland, in the hope of severing the link with Britain.

"I would do the same again if the occasion arose," the Fianna Fail deputy declared.

Deputy B. O'Connor aroused wild excitement by asserting that in 1916 members of the Irish party in the British House of Commons cheered an announcement of the execution of Irishmen.

"That's a damned lie!" shouted Deputy John Dillon, who sat in the House of Commons, and Deputy Coburn, an independent, rushed up to Mr. O'Connor, caught him by the coat and cried: "If you were a younger man I'd kill you where you stand."

There was a great uproar of voices and the speaker's bell clanged incessantly. Peace was restored when Mr. Cosgrave, in calm but determined tones, appealed to Mr. O'Connor to take back his statement. Thereupon both Mr. O'Connor and Mr. Dillon withdrew their remarks, and the debate ended, to be taken up again tomorrow.

SMITH IS LEADING IN NUTMEG STATE

Early Returns Give Former Governorr 239 Delegates, Roosevelt 12.

New Haven, Conn., April 28 (A.P.).—Alfred E. Smith piled up an overwhelming lead over Franklin D. Roosevelt tonight for instructed delegates to the State Democratic convention, on the basis of returns from nearly half the town caususes and primaries.

Smith received the pledges of 239 delegates to 12 for Roosevelt, although the latter's supporters claimed a large number of the uninstructed groups and asserted their forces would control the convention.

Virtually all the large cities went on record for the 1928 standard bearer.

Roosevelt's backers expected to win many of the smaller communities, however.

The State convention May 16 and 17 will have 968 members. A candidate will need 485 votes to receive the support of the 16 Connecticut delegates.

The Roosevelt-Smith fight has been complicated by a battle between Archibald McNeil, of Bridgeport, and David M. Fitzgerald, former New-Haven mayor, for the post of national committeemen now held by the former.

Fitzgerald has been a leader of the faction supporting Smith, but a number of the delegations instructed for the former New York governor also were ordered to work for McNeil's reelection.

Berlin, April 28 (A.P.).—Germany today accepted the invitation of Great Britain to hold the European debt conference at Lausanne, Switzerland, on June 16. Germany also agreed with suggestion to invite the smaller powers.

POLICE KILL WOMAN AS THRONGS WATCH

Slayer of Patrolman Routed From Home by Tear Gas and Shot Down.

Los Angeles, Calif., April 28 (A.P.).—Maddened because a neighbor mowed a lawn, Ella May Thompson, 26-year-old mental case, today shot and killed Policeman Paul Donath, maintained a siege against 50 officers at her home, and, driven out with tear gas, was slain by blasts from police shotguns and revolvers.

She came from the house with pistol cracking. As she fell she clasped to her breast a photograph of J. V. Baldwin, automobile man, who was sued last October for $125,000 for alienation of affections by Luther Alger, Mrs. Thompson's former husband. She formerly was Baldwin's secretary.

Mrs. Thompson had been under the care of a nurse at the house. Patrolmen Donath and Percy D. Gunby went there in response to a complaint that Mrs. Thompson, objecting to the sound of a lawn mower, had fired a shot at her neighbor, Mrs. Pauline Phol.

"I'll teach you to come to my house without a warrant," Mrs. Thompson screamed as Donath mounted the

Wet Attorney Seeks Mrs. Ruth Owen's Seat

West Palm Beach, Fla., April 28 (A.P.).—Mark Wilcox, West Palm Beach city attorney, today announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the Fourth Florida District, a seat now held by Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen. Mrs. Owen has announced her candidacy for reelection.

Wilcox said he favored repeal of the eighteenth amendment, and State option on all liquor laws.

Adams and Moffett Ride Akron on Night Test Trip

Lakehurst, N. J., April 28 (A.P.).—The Navy dirigible Akron left its hangar tonight on its first trip since it was disabled by an accident two months ago. It will cruise northward as far as New York, turn south and pass over Philadelphia and return here about dawn tomorrow.

Ninety-one persons were aboard the big silver vessel. Among them were Secretary of the Navy Adams and Rear Admiral William A. Moffett. Lieut. Comdr. H. V. Wiley, the ship's executive officer, was in command.

When the nose of the giant craft pointed skyward at 7:45 p. m., Eastern standard time, it was the first time the Akron had been in the air since it cracked up on February 22 as members of a special congressional committee waited to board it. A strong wind caught its tail and sent it smashing to the ground. The congressional committee was to inspect the craft during the flight in an effort to counter criticisms leveled at its airworthiness.

Connery Loses in Attempt to Drop All Pay Slashes; $2,500 Clause Stays.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

A House out of all control yesterday turned down the President's enforced Federal furlough plan, refused to eliminate Saturday half-holidays, and generally disrupted the economy committee's $200,000,000 retrenchment program.

Rebellious throughout, resenting the driving methods of Democratic leaders, members voted themselves and hour and a half recess denied them last night by Economy Chairman John McDuffie, then returned to fresh controversy.

A last-minute effort to eliminate all pay reduction on motion of Representative William P. Connery, jr. (Democrat), Mass., failed by a vote of 183 to 84, at an extra night session. The Connery motion was to strike all of Title 1 of the bill, containing 11 per cent pay slash, with $2,500 exemption.

Several Reversals.

The "Federal employes block" suffered several reversals at the special night session.

Adjournment found the following vital provisions affecting Federal personnel approved:

1. An 11 per cent cut in Government salaries, the first $2,500 exempted.
2. No pay for overtime, night work, or work on Sundays or holidays.
3. No salary increases with promotions.
4. No promotions and no filling of vacancies without written consent of the President.
5. Provision that married workers be discharged first, where husband and wife both work for the Government.
6. Compulsory retirement of superannuated employes; all extensions prohibited.
7. Curtailment of travel allowances.
8. Retired officers actively employed, drawing more than $3,000, must choose between retirement pay or compensation from civil employments.

One Minor Amendment.

Although a spirited fight was put up against most of these clauses no voice was raised against pay increase and filling of vacancy restrictions, or the married worker provisions. Only one minor amendment, out of more than a score proposed, passed the night session.

Members, however, were more chary where provisions closely affected their own interests. Not only did they avoid further cuts in their pay, but defeated by a vote of two-to-one a motion to deny representatives the right to hire relatives and members of their families as clerks and secretaries.

Motion to abolish the practice of nepotism was put by Representative Grant E. Mouser, jr. (Republican), Ohio. He charged members used this means to increase their own salaries. His amendment was rejected, 88 to 46.

An amendment proposing optional retirement of Federal employes after 30 years of service was proposed by Representative William I. Sirovich (Democrat), New York.

Unexpectedly, it was supported by Economy Chairman McDuffie, after its author claimed a saving of from

ROOSEVELT, IN CITY, WORKS ON CAMPAIGN

(Associated Press.)

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, leading candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, held political conferences at his hotel here yesterday, but declined to discuss the Massachusetts or Pennsylvania primary results for publication.

"The governors' conference is still on," he told newspapermen.

He referred to the governors' meeting in Richmond which he attended and where personal politics had no place on the calendar, although many spoke on political subjects.

The New Yorker motored here from Richmond, preceding a score of other State chief executives. All were guests at a White House dinner last night.

Roosevelt conferred with Senator Hull (Democrat), Tennessee, one of his leading adherents in Washington, and a few other political associates, but spent most of the afternoon writing letters.

In talking to newspapermen, the New York Governor did touch on the necessity for governmental economy stressed by President Hoover Wednesday in his address to the conference at Richmond.

"The most important thing the Federal Government can do at this time is to reduce expenditures," he said, adding:

"Every governor I talked to indicated that he had already moved to scale down State government costs."

He smiled when informed he was leading former Gov. Smith by more than 20,000 votes in the Pennsylvania presidential preference voting, but offered no comment.

At the office where the author of the Monroe Doctrine began the practice of law, Gov. John Garland Pollard of Virginia read a message from President Hoover in which he said: "His enunciation of the Monroe Doctrine has had the most benign effects upon the whole Western Hemisphere, and was a service to our own country of the most far-reaching value."

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, leading aspirant for the Democratic nomination, placed a wreath sent by President and Mrs. Hoover under the tablet on the house commemorating the fifth President.

Vare Machine Carried State, McBride Claims

(Associated Press.)

P. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Antisaloon League, said in a statement yesterday "the returns in the Pennsylvania primary show that the Vare machine carried the State in the senatorial fight."

"At the same time," he continued, "with one exception, no congressman who voted dry on recent roll calls was defeated for renomination. In the case of Mr. Grady, who failed to be renominated, the result was undoubtedly because of the addition of wet territory to his district by the reapportionment.

"It is interesting to note that Pennsylvania gave a larger number of dry votes in the present Congress than any other State, and the returns indicate that the State will again lead in the total number of drys in the lower house.

"The senatorial vote shows the absolute domination of the Vare machine. On the other hand, the vote in the various congressional districts was the independent vote that is not hogtied or hamstrung by machine politics."

Roosevelt Men Spent $150,000, Is Charge

New York, April 28 (A.P.).—A charge that the Roosevelt forces spent $150,000 in their unsuccessful fight for national convention delegates in Massachusetts was given out at Alfred E. Smith's office today and promptly ridiculed by Roosevelt campaign leaders.

The accusation was made by Frank J. Donahue, chairman of the Massachusetts Democratic State committee, in a telegram relayed through Smith to P. M. Abbott, leader of the "happy warrior's" California campaign.

It said the 3-1 Bay State victory for Smith was accomplished with the expenditures of less than $3,000, "against $150,000 spent by our opponent."

Managers of Gov. Roosevelt's campaign ridiculed the charge and said only $5,000 had been sent from here to Massachusetts.

Columbia, S. C., April 28 (A.P.).—Hambright Republican faction, popularly known as the "Lily White" Republicans of South Carolina, will have two Negro delegates and two Negro alternates in their representation at the Chicago convention.

They selected these delegates at the State convention here Tuesday, but until today it was not generally known this was the case. The Negro delegates are J. M. Maxwell, of Orangeburg, and S. D. Brown, of Spartanburg. Alternates are James A. Brier, of Greenville, and W. M. Rosemond, of Spartanburg.

They are delegates at large. Two other delegates at large were elected and six delegates named previously at district meeting were confirmed at the State convention. The entire slate of ten was pledged to President Hoover. The list of delegates handed to the press at the meeting did not differentiate whites and Negroes. There were no Negroes on the convention floor.

Educators Appointed To London Conference

Dr. Thomas H. Healy, of the Georgetown University School of Foreign Service, and Dr. Leverett S. Lyon, of Brookings Institution, were designated by the State Department yesterday as United States delegates to the fifth triennial congress of the International Society for Commercial Education to be held in London, July 25-29.

This is the second time that Dr. Healy has been named a delegate. In 1929 he attended the conference held in Amsterdam. Dr. Lyon is director of educational activities and public relations at the Brookings Institution.

Being in Congress Costs $4,893 Year, Data Show

LaGuardia, Foe of Salary Cut, Shows Added Burdens Representative Must Bear in Study of Expenses Listed in Survey.

(Associated Press.)

What he terms "a composite portrayal of the economic worries of a congressman" was collected yesterday by Representative LaGuardia (Republican), New York, foe of the salary slash.

He ran at random down the list of his fellows, excluding only the small "millionaire bloc," whose ornate establishments would increase living cost averages out of balance.

One hundred and fifty names he chose to receive his questionnaire, and a large proportion answered.

Thus he got some definite figures on rents, traveling expenses, entertaining and education costs to back up his anticutting contentions.

They pay, on the average, $138.80 a month rent here. The lowest report was $60, the highest, $225.

For entertaining constituents in Washington "without splurge," LaGuardia specified, the average cost to each representative was $440 a year.

The representative is big hearted by about $910 a year. This figure was computed on what he pays in donations, contributions and assessments by reason of being a representative, in exclusion of what he would pay ordinarily.

If the representative has children, it costs him $547 a year additional to educate them, due to shift of residence or maintaining a different home.

Traveling costs him about $955 a year over the mileage he receives from the Government.

The home letter writer would gasp at the added stationery cost of a representative. Some with large districts to circularize, reported as high as $2,000 spent on this a year. The average was $374.

Taking LaGuardia's figures, the average representative's $10,000 salary is thus cut by $4,893.34 before he starts budgeting with the $10,000-a-year man in his own home city. The Washington rent is included in this figure.

HOUSE KILLS FURLOUGH PLAN; CONTINUES HALF-HOLIDAYS

$10,000,000 to $30,000,000 from the plan. Amendments to the disability clause were offered by Representative McDuffie and Representative Frederick R. Lehlbach (Republican), New Jersey. The perfected amendment was voted down.

Cochran Plan Loses.

An effort was made by Representative John J. Cochran (Democrat), Missouri, to strike the entire clause prohibiting pay for overtime work. Several amendments were offered, affecting employment of substitutes on overtime work, but all were doomed, together with the Cochran plan.

Representative Samuel Dickstein (Democrat), New York, succeeded in amending the overtime provision to prevent its application to Government owned steamship and railroad lines.

Representative Clyde Kelly (Republican), Pennsylvania, declared the overtime clause the most "unjust" provision in the bill. He charged it was equivalent to a 10 per cent pay cut for employes in the lower brackets.

Coast Guard Vacancies.

Amendments voted down during the few minutes before adjournment included proposals to prevent filling of vacancies in the Coast Guard, to throw out compulsory retirement provisions, to require retention of veterans in preference when ordering retirements, to reduce mileage allowances of members by 50 per cent, and to abolish the 25 per cent mileage cut provided in the bill.

The House last night completed consideration of two titles of the bill. Eight titles remain. Technically, the committee's orginal 11 per cent pay cut plan, with $1,000 exemption, and the President's enforced furlough plan, are only laid aside until consideration of the bill is completed. Both faction then will move to recommit the bill to write in one or the other plans.

The furlough plan was voted down, 176 to 159, after four attempts to amend it had failed. One perfecting amendment, raising exemptions from $1,500 to $2,000, succeeded. The economy committee split in the vote on furloughs.

Cut to $136,000,000.

Democratic economists watched omnibus savings dwindle from the $200,000,000 originally claimed to something like $136,000,000. In striking provisions eliminating Saturday half holidays, economies were reduced $9,000,000. Previously $55,000,000 had been lost by revision of the pay-cut plan.

Representative C. William Ramseyer (Republican), Iowa, led the fight for President Hoover's substitute furlough proposal. For a time it looked as though he might win, as one liberalizing amendment after another fell by the wayside.

Mr. Ramseyer at the outset raised the total of salaries exempted from $1,200 to $1,500. Before the House rejected the plan in toto, it raised exemptions another $500, on motion of Representative Fred A. Britten (Republican), Illinois.

For the third time in 24 hours House members refused to cut their own salaries out of proportion to slashes provided for other Government employes. Representative John G. Cooper (Republican), Ohio, sought to amend the furlough plan to cut congressional pay 20 per cent instead of 10 per cent. His amendment lost, 144 to 25.

Slash of 25 Per Cent.

Later, Representative Edward W. Goss (Republican), Connecticut, attempted to reach congressional salaries by offering an amendment to the committee pay-cut plan, proposing 25 per cent cuts in compensation over $7,500.

This too, went down to defeat, after Representatives Fiorello H. LaGuardia (Republican), New York; Paul J. Kvale (Republican), Minnesota, and Kent E. Keller (Democrat), Illinois, talked against it. Mr. LaGuardia gave estimates from "an average congressman's budget" in an effort to prove members need all they get "unless they were born with silver spoons in their mouths."

He said they spend an average of $138.81 a month for rent in the District, $1,231 a year for taxes in their home districts; $900 a year for contributions, $950 for necessary traveling, and $400 for stationery in excess of that furnished by the Government.

The assault on the President's furlough plan was launched by Representative John J. Cochran (Democrat), Missouri, who early in the debate proposed to compromise with the White House "by cutting each of the furlough provisions in two." His amendment was defeated, 172 to 112.

Representative LaGuardia declared it the "fairest" proposal advanced.

Five-Day Week Proposed.

"It would have given the five-day week to the Government worker without putting all of the burden on him," said the New York representative. "At the same time it would have set an example for trade and industry everywhere.

The New York Progressive proposed an amendment of his own, raising exemptions under the furlough plan to $2,500. His amendment was overwhelmingly defeated, as was a substitute put forward by Representative James M. Mead (Democrat), of New York, to fix the exemption at $2,400. It remained for Representative Britten, whose $2,500 exemption was accepted for pay cuts the night previous, to win House support for a $2,000 exemption figure. But it was to no avail, for the House immediately afterward threw the whole furlough plan in the discard.

An amendment by Representative Sam D. McReynolds (Democrat), Tennesse, providing a sliding scale of salary reductions above $2,500, was defeated by the House on its return from supper recess.

The economy committee made some progress during the day. Recommendations that annual salaries of the Shipping Board, the Federal Reserve Board, the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Farm Board and the Board of Mediation be cut to $10,000, were approved.

Reduction in Judges' Pay.

Unless fixed by the Constitution, salaries of all Federal judges would be reduced to $10,000, under additional items agreed to. Permission for President Hoover, Cabinet officers and Supreme Court members to remit any portion of their salaries to the Treasury also was granted.

The House cut in half salaries of International Joint Commission members, from $10,000 to $5,000.

While the House was fighting economy battles, Senator Hiram W. Johnson (Republican), California, launched a broadside at appropriation reductions in a Senate speech. He appealed against further cuts that would send Government employes "out on the street with their homes half paid for."

Earlier the House passed the $326,000,000 naval supply bill, $14,000,000 under budget estimates. It defeated a motion of Representative John C. Schafer (Republican), Wisconsin, for an arbitrary additional cut of 10 per cent in the bill. The Darrow amendment for a $1,000,000 hospital in Philadelphia was voted down.

Head of Printers Raps Pay Cut Bill

A letter was mailed to members of Congress last night by Clyde M. Mills, president of the Columbia Typographical Union, No. 101, calling their attention to the fact the economy bill now pending in Congress will vitally affect employes of the Government Printing Office.

Section 207, title 11, of this bill proposes elimination of extra pay for night work, overtime work and holidays, and, according to Mr. Mills' letter, the Government Printing Office employs 1,000 men at night, who receive 15 per cent additional, and this differential between day and night work has been and is considered fair by employers in industry.

Mr. Mills claims such proposals are unfair to the worker and do not justify consideration by the members of Congress.

New Railway Loan Approval Is Seen

St. Louis-San Francisco Line to Get Aid From Finance Corporation.

(Associated Press.)

E. N. Brown, chairman of the board of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway, announced last night that the Interstate Commerce Commission has approved and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation will make a loan to care for the immediate requirements of the line.

Brown's statement did not give the amount which he expected the corporation to advance and he would not elaborate. No announcement has come from either the commission or the finance corporation yet upon approval of the new loans to the carrier.

It had asked to borrow $12,700,000.

25 GOVERNORS VISIT WASHINGTON TOMB

Pinchot Speech Lauds First President; Party Sees Other Historic Spots.

Mount Vernon, Va., April 28 (A.P.). Twenty-five State governors stood before the tomb of Washington today and heard one of their number—Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania—plead for a "rebirth of liberty in America."

"As Washington and Lincoln and Roosevelt understood liberty, this Nation is not free today," Gov Pinchot said, adding:

"How can a nation be free when the policies of its government are dictated by a handful of Midas—men at whose touch everything of ours turns into gold for them?"

Continuing, he said Americans had lost the liberty gained by Washington, made sure by Lincoln, and applied to modern problems by Roosevelt.

Raps Leadership Lack.

"But today," he said, "there is no Washington to lead us against autocracy—against the suffering that goes with tyranny—against government without consent of the governed. There is no Lincoln to free modern slaves. Theodore Roosevelt is not here to warn us of the tyranny created by concentrated wealth—a concentration our Government has the right and the means to stop, but which, instead, it has promoted by every means in its power."

The Pennsylvania chief executive said while the American people "can not turn" to a living Washington, Lincoln or Roosevelt for leadership in "this crisis of today," they could "turn to the ideals they hold and the principles they love."

Pinchot spoke after Gov. Stanley C. Wilson of Vermont laid a wreath on the tomb of the first President on behalf of the governors. They stopped off in Mount Vernon en route to the White House dinner tonight from their annual meeting in Richmond. They also paid a visit to Gadsby's Tavern in Alexandria, which George Washington frequented on many social occasions.

Gov. Roosevelt of New York preceded the others on the motor trip to Mount Vernon and went on to Washington after a picnic lunch with Mrs. Roosevelt without waiting for the ceremony here.

Meets Old Friend.

He commented it was his first trip to the Washington shrine "by land" in the fifteen years he had been visiting here. As Assistant Secretary of the Navy in the Wilson administration, he recalled, he made all his trips here on the naval yacht Sylph.

While here Gov. Roosevelt met and talked with an old friend of his days in Washington—Harrison H. Dodge, superintendent of Mount Vernon since 1885.

Fredericksburg, Va., April 28 (A.P.), Governors of more than a score of American Commonwealths today joined in a tribute to Mary, the mother of George Washington, praised by Gov. Henry S. Caulfield, of Missouri, as typifying the finest example of American motherhood.

A wreath was placed on the tomb of the mother of the first President by Gov. Blackwood of South Carolina, at the conclusion of the memorial services.

Visit to Kenmore.

From the memorial exercises the governors went to Kenmore, home of Betty Fielding Lewis, sister of Washington, for luncheon as guests of the Kenmore Association. There Gov. Richard Russell of Georgia planted a tree on the lawn of the old mansion in honor of Mrs. Vivian Minor Fleming, a native Georgian, and president of the Kenmore Association since it was founded in 1922.

The governors arrived in this historic city, known to the boy Washington, at 10:30 o'clock and were received at the old law offices of President James Monroe by Mrs. Gouverneur Hoes and her son, Lawrence, descendants of the former President and owners of the shrine.

Pennsylvania Election Returns Summarized

General.

Returns, still incomplete, indicate total Republican vote of about 1,500,000. The Democratic total may not reach 200,000.

Republicans.

United States Senator James J. Davis increases lead over Gen. Smedley D. Butler to nearly 390,000 in senatorial contest.

Allegheny County gives Judge Albert Stadfeld, appointed by Gov. Pinchot, lead over Judge Robert S. Gawthrop, for third of three positions on State superior court bench.

Former Senator Joseph I. France, of Maryland, receives undetermined "complimentary" vote in presidential preference while State organization leaders promise "practically all" of State's 75 convention votes to President Hoover.

Philadelphia voters write name of Alfred E. Smith, as well as that of President Hoover, on ballots which carried only Senator France's name.

Democrats.

Gov. Roosevelt's lead over Alfred E. Smith mounts slowly, revised figures showing 20,000 margin, with 1,774 of 8,181 districts unreported.

Roosevelt leaders claim minimum of 58 of 76 convention vote. Smith supporters predict even break for Smith when State delegation casts convention ballot.

Lawrence H. Rupp, "harmony" candidate of State organization, holds two-to-one lead over Lewis C. Cassidy, Smith dvocate, in United States senatorial contest.

EXPORT DEBENTURE PLAN AGAIN REVIVED

Equalization Fee Also Urged by Farm Spokesman in Senate Body Hearing.

(Associated Press.)

Two husky specters of past congressional wars—the equalization fee and export debenture plan—were revived before the Senate agriculture committee yesterday by spokesmen for the farmers as remedies for agriculture's ills.

Coupled with these proposals in a broad program presented by the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Farmers Union and the National Grange was a third idea—to insure the cost of production on a basis of domestic consumption needs.

The program, agreed upon by the three and written into bill form, advances the basic ideas long championed by each singly, and was presented at the committee's conference with farm and Government leaders seeking a relief plan.

To insure the cost of production, the plan proposes an allotment program. The amount each farmer could sell in the domestic market could be fixed and the price established at a point equal to the cost of production, including labor and interest on investment, under schedules arranged by the Farm Board, which would have general supervision.

The balance could be sold for export, but without the production cost guarantee, and the Farm Board would have power to declare an embargo when it considers imports would handicap the allotment plan.

The equalization fee would be put in operation from time to time by the board, while the export debentures would be half the tariff schedules, except on the following:

BANKHEAD'S ELECTION LEGAL, SENATE'S 64 TO 18 VOTE HOLDS

lumbered out. He returned a little later and wrote out a statement.

"I have just begun to fight," he said, but Capitol Hill already had consigned him to the shelf.

Not a single senator sought to console Heflin. Meantime, his rival, Bankhead, was the center of a veritable levee. His brother, Representative William B. Bankhead, father of the beautiful Tallulah, was there, and so were a lot of others.

Forty-one Democrats—all of those in the chamber, voted against Heflin yesterday, and they were joined by 22 Republicans and the Farmer-Laborite, Shipstead.

Two ballots were taken. The first was on a resolution by Senator Daniel O. Hastings (Republican), Delaware, who, as chairman of an election subcommittee, contended that the Alabama election was marked by widespread irregularities. Hastings' resolution to declare the election void was defeated, 68 to 19.

Then came the 64 to 18 vote on the resolution to declare Bankhead legally elected. This was introduced by the two Democrats who had fought Hastings in the elections committee—George, of Georgia, and Bratton, of New Mexico.

Commenting on the vote, Heflin said:

"It is a rank travesty on justice. It is a surrender by the Democrats of the sacred principles so long loved and supported by Democrats in and out of the Senate.

"It marks a sad decline in Democratic leadership and control. It is a triumph for crooked and corrupt practices employed in behalf of a Democrat.

"This strange and unjustified action, when the facts and the law were both ignored, will not in any way weaken my courage or break my fighting spirit for clean and honest politics and clean and honest government.

"I have just begun to fight. I am particularly very much hurt at the unfair and unkind treatment accorded me by Senator Black."

Black's Reelection Forecast.

Heflin is expected to run against Senator Hugo Black, his erstwhile colleague, in the November election. If he does, he will have to run as an independent, the regular Democratic organization having read him out of the party because of his desertion of Al Smith in 1928. Those familiar with Alabama politics say that Black will swamp him in the election.

Senator Joe T. Robinson, Arkansas, the Democratic leader of the Senate, who in 1928 was forced to lambast Heflin for his attacks on the Pope, issued this statement yesterday:

It is most gratifying that the Senate has repudiated the attempt to reflect upon the integrity of the Alabama election in which Senator Bankhead was elected. It is manifest that there is not the slightest reason or excuse for the charges.

Senators George, Bratton and Black are entitled to great credit for the able manner in which they presented the case to the Senate. How any one could have a doubt of Senator Bankhead's right to his seat after clear and forceful arguments of these senators, it is difficult to understand. Alabama is to be congratulated upon the defense of its people made by Senator Black.

Historians probably will deal rather harshly with Tom. But on one thing they will have to agree—he was the best spinner of Negro yarns that Capitol Hill ever knew.

How Senators Voted.

The vote on the resolution to seat Bankhead was:

For:

Republicans (22)—Barbour, Bingham, Blaine, Borah, Carey, Couzens, Dale, Davis, Fess, Goldsborough, Hale, Hatfield, Johnson, Jones, Kean, Keyes, LaFollette, Norbeck, Oddie, Thomas (Idaho), Walcott, White.

Farmer-Labor (1)—Shipstead.

Against:

Republicans (18)—Austin, Brookhart, Capper, Cutting, Dickinson, Frazier, Hastings, Hebert, McNary, Metcalf, Moses, Norris, Nye, Patterson, Reed, Robinson (Ind.), Shortridge, Steiwer.

7,500 Diseased Hogs to Be Killed.

Sacramento, Calif., April 28 (A.P.). Orders for the slaughter of 7,500 animals were issued today to stamp out an outbreak of hoof and mouth disease among hogs on four ranches near Fullerton, Orange County. Dr. Joseph King, supervising the control work, notified the State department of agriculture trenches were being dug and all hogs within the quarantine area would be killed and buried by tomorrow night.

LEAD OF ROOSEVELT IN PENNSYLVANIA UP

Philadelphia, April 28 (A.P.).—While returns marked the slowly rising tide of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's lead over Alfred E. Smith in the Democratic presidential preference contest, factional leaders tonight differed materially in their interpretation of Tuesday's primary vote.

Roosevelt supporters were convinced the developments had sustained their preelection predictions. They cited Roosevelt's margin of 20,434 in the preferential vote and claimed the entire 8 votes to be cast by 16 delegates at large as well as more than 50 of the 68 district delegate votes.

On the other hand, John R. Collins, State chairman, who has advocated an uninstructed delegation and was prominent in the Smith campaign, declared Pennsylvania's 76 votes in the national convention would be "almost evenly divided" between Roosevelt and Smith. He interpreted the vote to show a desire of Pennsylvania Democrats to "insure the selection of the strongest candidate the national Democracy can put forward."

Flexible Promises.

On the face of reports now available, he added, "it would seem that Mr. Smith or some other aspirant will receive at least 34 Pennsylvania votes when the convention ballots."

The flexible nature of the delegates' promises and the possibility of preconvention trading, left the ultimate Pennsylvania vote clouded in doubt. The undebatable facts were relatively few.

The preferential vote totals from 6,407 of the 8,181 districts were:

Roosevelt, 98,797; Smith, 78,363.

The eight leading contestants for that number of delegate-at-large berths included only one man who declined to be bound by the preferential vote. He is Judge Henry C. Niles, York, in eighth place with a scant 1,000 lead over a Roosevelt supporter.

Rupp Leads, 2 to 1.

The personnel of the delegate at large group, as indicated by incomplete totals, was: Eight women and four men, indorsed by both factions and ready to support the popular candidate; three pro-Roosevelt entries and Judge Niles.

Chairman Collins and Sedwick Kistler, national committeeman active in Smith's interest, were running in tenth and eleventh position in the fourteen-candidate contest for the eight places.

Lawrence H. Rupp, of Allentown, running for the Democratic nomination for United States senator, had a 2-to-1 lead over Lewis C. Cassidy, of Philadelphia, with more than half of the State reported. Figures from 4,762 districts of the 8,181 in the State show Rupp had 76,578, Cassidy, 36,775.

In the Republican primary, the lead of Senator James J. Davis for the Republican senatorial nomination continued to mount. Unofficial figures from 7,824 of the 8,181 districts in the State gave him a plurality over Gen. Smedley D. Butler, the former Marine Corps officer, approaching 400,000 in a total vote of more than 1,380,000. The vote, with 357 districts missing, was: Davis, 883,211; Butler, 496,761.

Four Incumbents Defeated.

Complete Republican returns in the congressional contests showed four incumbents defeated and five practically elected by gaining the Democratic nominations also. Those defeated were: Benjamin M. Golder, Fourth District; Frederick Magrady, Thirteenth; J. Mitchell Chase, Twenty-third, and Patrick J. Sullivan, Thirty-second.

Members of Congress gaining both major nominations were: Harry C. Ransley, Republican, First; Patrick J. Boland, Democrat, Eleventh; Louis T. McFadden, Republican, Fifteenth; George F. Brumm, Republican, Thirteenth, and M. Claude Kelly, Republican, Thirty-first.

Two congressmen still confronted a battle in November for a single seat, created by the redistricting, which cut the State delegation from 36 to 34. They are Henry W. Watson, Republican, and Norton L. Lichtenwalner, Democrat, both unopposed in the new Ninth District primary.

CURTIS ON NEW TRIP TO MEET KIDNAPERS

Paper Says Part of Ransom Has Been Deposited at Norfolk Bank.

Norfolk, Va., April 28 (A.P.).—Slipping away from the city on another of his many mysterious missions, John Hughes Curtis was believed to be engaged tonight in some final effort toward the recovery of the stolen Lindbergh baby.

The Ledger Dispatch said today it learned that a part of the ransom agreed upon for the return of the baby had been deposited, subject to the order of one of the three Norfolk intermediaries, in a Norfolk bank.

Hopewell, N. J., April 28 (A.P.).—The official search for the kidnapers of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, jr., has extended to 20 countries in Europe and South America, it was disclosed on this, the fifty-eighth day of the crime.

Preceding this revelation by Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, of the New Jersey State police, came an announcement that Salvatore Spitale and Irving Bitz, underworld intermediaries in the case, had withdrawn from the quest because of the payment of $50,000 in ransom by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Justice Session Convenes Sunday

Program for Conference Completed by Leaders at Chamber Parley.

Final details for the American Conference on International Justice, which will be opened in Washington Sunday with services at the National Cathedral, were worked out yesterday at a meeting of the general committee at the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Dr. Arthur D. Call, director, announced that registration was proceeding rapidly and arrangements were completed for 30 cars to take the delegates to Mount Vernon Monday. The conference will continue through Tuesday.

The session Monday will be opened at 3 o'clock at the United States Chamber of Commerce. Speakers will be Dr. Ellery, professor of international law at American University Graduate School, and Dr. Daniel A. Prescott, professor at Rutgers University.

A preliminary statement on the conference was issued yesterday by Dr. Thomas A. Healy, of the Georgetown School of Foreign Service. "Statesmen and persons imbued with ideals which are the heritage of all normal humans, all too often have allowed their ideals to run away with their common sense and overlooked concrete facts which make complete realization of these ideals seem as far away as the end of the rainbow. They have signed agreements which subsequent events showed that the nations were either unable or unwilling to carry out in a practical way."

Democrats Split In California Fight

Roosevelt, Garner and Smith Factions Seek Triumph Tuesday.

San Francisco, April 28 (A.P.).—A bitter three-cornered fight for control of the delegation to the national convention and internal dissension over party control embroiled California Democrats today as each faction appealed for support in next Tuesday's presidential primary.

Goaded by a record Democratic registration, Republican leaders, with an uncontested Hoover slate of delegates on the ballot, urged a heavy vote to "encourage" President Hoover and to show there has not been a marked defection to the Democratic party.

Lively campaigns, characterized by charges of political treachery and "whispering," have been conducted in behalf of John N. Garner, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Alfred E. Smith for the Democratic preference. Under the law, California delegates are bound to support the candidate for whom they are pledged until he releases them.

Hoover Educator Warns Of Referendum Plank

(Associated Press.)

Dr. Levi T. Pennington, president of Pacific College, Newberg, Oreg., at which Herbert Hoover obtained part of his education, expressed the opinion yesterday that "if President Hoover comes out on a referendum platform it would mean his defeat politically."

The President attended Pacific College during his youth, when it was a smaller and more elementary Quaker academy. Pennington made his statement to newspapermen in response to questions, adding his belief that "the country won't stand for a straddler on prohibition."

Senator Cohen, of Georgia, was given assignments yesterday by the Senate on the naval, appropriations and immigration committees.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, gave the new Georgia member his own place on the naval committee. The other assignments were held by the late Senator Harris, to whose place Senator Cohen was appointed.

Boulder Dam Builders Win Writ.

Carson City, Nev., April 28 (A.P.).—Three Federal judges granted a temporary injunction today to the Six Co.'s, Inc., Boulder Dam contractors, to enjoin the State of Nevada from enforcing the provisions of its mining laws in the Boulder Dam Reservation. FAR EAST ESPIONAGE SYSTEM IS CHARGED Soviet-Japanese War Is Seen by White Russian Chiefs, Ready to Fight.

Tokyo, April 28 (U.P.).—Charges of a vast Russian espionage system in Manchuria, China, and Japan, coupled with continued military activity against the Japanese in Manchuria, increased tension over the Far Eastern situation today.

At Kwangchengtze, in south central Manchuria, officials of the new Manchukuo government arrested several Russians and confiscated a radio set and documents which they said indicated Soviet plotters had similar headquarters at Pogranitchnaya, Manchouli, and elsewhere. The stations were in regular wireless communication, they said, and were plotting a general outbreak on May 1.

Advices from Changchung said further examination of the arrests indicated secret radio stations in Harbin, Tokyo, and Osaka, as well as at Shanghai and other principal Chinese cities, with which high officials contacted their agents and transmitted their reports to Habarovsk, Siberia.

Moscow, April 28 (U.P.).—Developments in Manchuria caused undisguised alarm among Soviet officials today.

Speeches at the Trade Union Congress meanwhile continued to emphasize the danger of war and the necessity for preparedness.

Paris, April 28 (U.P.).—White Russian leaders in Paris hopefully predicted a war between Russia and Japan today and said a formidable force of White Russians would be ready to come to Japan's aid.

They said 2,000,000 White Russians all through the world were following events with close attention, and a formidable secret fighting force was ready to join against Russia.

Scientists Discuss Quakes And Recently Found Gene

Bureau of Standards Expert Explains How Radon May Be Used for Many Purposes; Has Same Curative Rays of Radium.

Locating the origin of earthquakes and measuring the size of genes were two of the problems discussed before two scientific gatherings here yesterday.

The gene, unit of heredity present in all living things, has a diameter of almost eight-millionths of an inch, Dr. Oswald Blackwood, of the University of Pittsburgh, reported at the opening meeting of the American Physical Society at the Bureau of Standards.

The gene, the existence of which was recently verified at the Carnegie Institution here, was measured by Dr. Blackwood by means of X-ray experiments.

At the meeting of the American Geophysical Union in the National Academy and Research Council Building, Father V. C. Stech-Schulte, S. J., of Xavier University of Cincinnati, reported the tracing of an earthquake to its source.

The Japanese temblor of March, 1928, he said, originated 250 miles below the surface. The quake's beginning at this extraordinary great depth was traced by seismologists from correlation of the time taken by waves generated by the shock to reach instruments all over the world.

At the Bureau of Standards, Holbrock J. Botset told how radon, a by-product of radium, may be used in prospecting for mineral wealth.

Radium, decaying in the earth, he said, gives off a gas called radon. Radon is especially prevalent in soils rich in heavy minerals and near oil deposits, he has found.

Radon has already a use in hospitals. It has the same curative rays of its parent, radium, and is collected in tubes and used for treatments instead of the actual radium.

Dr. G. Failla, at the Bureau of Standards meeting, showed how it had been proven that radium and high voltage X-rays were more effective in the treatment of cancer than ordinary X-rays.

Formerly it was believed that all X-rays had similar effects, but Dr. Failla's experiments at Memorial Hospital, New York, showed that more effect was observed in rays of shorter wave length. The wave length decreases with the increase in voltage, he said.

SENATE COMMITTEE REVERSES STAND ON TAX BILL TARIFFS

close votes yesterday. Senator David I. Walsh (Democrat), of Massachusetts, brought the oil tariff to question again. He moved to strike it from the bill. His motion carried 10 to 8. Those voting for elimination were: Democrats, Senators Pat Harrison, of Mississippi; King, Walter K. George, of Georgia; Walsh, Edward P. Costigan, of Colorado, and Cordell Hull, of Tennessee; Republicans, Senators James Couzens, of Michigan; Henry W. Keyes, of New Hampshire; Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, and Jesse H. Metcalf, of Rhode Island.

Coal Tariff Eliminated.

Those voting to keep the oil tariff in were: Republicans, Senators James E. Watson, of Indiana; David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania; Samuel Shortridge, of California; Hiram Bingham, of Connecticut; John Thomas, of Idaho; Wesley Jones, of Washington; Chairman Reed Smoot, of Utah; Democrat, Senators Tom Connally, of Texas and Thomas P. Gore, of Oklahoma.

The tariff on coal was eliminated by a 10 to 9 vote also. Senator Harrison moved that it be stricken out. Those who supported him were Couzens, Keys and La Follette, Republicans; and Harrison, King, George, Walsh, of Massachusetts; Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky; Costigan and Hull.

Those voting to keep the coal tariff in were: Republicans—Watson, Reed, Shortridge, Bingham, Thomas, Jones, Metcalf and Smoot, and Connally, the lone Democrat.

Senator Barkley did not vote on the oil motion and Senator Gore, who voted for the defeated oil tariff, did not vote on coal.

The proposal to put a copper tariff in the bill was advanced as a committee amendment inasmuch as it had been previously approved. Senator King switched over to the side of the protectionists on this vote, but the protectionists who had been beaten by his vote beat him when Senator Reed switched, too, and the motion was lost on a tie vote, 10 to 10.

Copper Duty Advocates.

Those voting to put copper in were: Republicans—Watson, Shortridge, Couzens, Bingham, Thomas, Jones, Metcalf and Smoot; Democrats—King and Connally. Those voting against copper were: Republicans—Reed, Keyes and La Follette; Democrats—Harrison, George, Walsh, Barkley, Gore, Costigan and Hull.

Senator Couzens made an effort to have the automobile excise taxes stricken out of the bill, but the committee approved the House rates by a vote of 12 to 6. Those who voted to eliminate the automobile taxes were the following Republicans: Watson, Reed, Couzens, Keyes, Bingham and Thomas. Those voting approval of the automobile taxes were: Republicans—Shortridge, La Follette, Metcalf and Smoot; Democrats—Harrison, King, George, Walsh, Barkley, Connally, Gore and Hull.

Changes made in the bill by the committee yesterday were estimated to have reduced its estimated revenue production by something like $25,000,000 below the House figures. Other changes made previously were estimated to bring the total reduction in estimated revenues to something like $40,000,000.

Rate Changes in House Tax Bill Are Itemized

(Associated Press.)

Here is what the Senate finance committee did yesterday in the way of rate changes in the House tax bill:

Eliminated—	Revenue.
Import duty on oil	$5,000,000
Import duty on coal	500,000
Candy (5 per cent)	12,000,000
Approved—
Automobile (3 per cent)	44,000,000
Trucks (2 per cent)	4,000,000
Accessories (1 per cent)	8,000,000
Radios and phonographs (5 per cent)	11,000,00
Firearms and shells (10 per cent)	2,500,000
Sports goods and cameras (10 per cent)	6,500,000
Jewelry (10 per cent)	15,000,000

Modified—Matches, wood, 4 to 2 cents a thousand; paper, 4 to ½ cent.

Additional Changes.

Among the changes made by the committee yesterday were: Elimination of the 5 per cent tax on candy, estimated to produce $12,000,000; approval of the 5 per cent tax on chewing gum, committee members arguing against the candy tax because most of the candy is sold in small packages at low prices and the gum tax would be absorbed by the manufacturers.

The House tax of 4 cents per 1,000 on matches was reduced to 2 cents on wooden matches and to ½ cent on paper matches in books. It was estimated that this would reduce estimated revenues by $7,000,000. Elimination of the oil tariff cut out another $5,000,000 and elimination of the coal tariff $500,000.

The committee approved the House tax on radios and mechanical refrigerators, and on cameras with the exception of aerial cameras which were exempted; made pistols and revolvers subject to the 10 per cent tax on firearms. These had been excepted by the House because they are taxed 10 per cent under present law.

End of Work Delayed.

The committee decided they should bear the additional 10 per cent tax. Minor changes were made in the sporting goods tax list. Parts of watches and clocks were made subject to the jewelry tax. The tax on cigarette papers was made one-half cent on books up to 50 papers. The tax on cosmetics was approved but dentifrices, mouth washes and toilet soaps were exempted from the tax on toilet articles.

Hope which had been expressed earlier in the week that the bill would be completed by the committee today and be ready for consideration in the Senate next week were dampened by the renewal of the tariff fight yesterday.

Several controversial features of the bill have been passed over and remain for consideration and it would not be surprising if the tariff fight was brought up again in committee. Defeated tariff advocates have declared their purpose to take their battle to the floor of the Senate.

NICARAGUA DECREES WAR IN THREE AREAS

Congress Declares Siege in East Coast and Northern Departments Also.

Managua, Nicaragua, April 28 (A. P.).—The Nicaraguan Congress today declared a state of war in the departments of Esteli and in the areas about the most important towns of northern Leon and Chinandega departments. A state of siege was declared also in the eastern coast departments and the northern area departments.

The congressional decree was a result of renewed activities by insurgents in recent weeks. The areas affected do not include the regions served by the railroads from Corinto to Managua and Granada, nor the departments of Rivas and Choneales.

Several United States Marines, serving as officers of the Nicaraguan national guard, and a number of enlisted guardsmen, have been killed or injured recently in skirmishes with insurgent forces.

Explorer Is Unreported.

Asuncion, Paraguay, April 28 (A.P.).—Donald S. Wees, who has been exploring the Grand Desert of Paraguay for the Harvard University Museum, has not been reported in nearly a month, although he was due to return here on April 15. His local representatives believed, however, that he would arrive soon from the upper Parana River at the point where he planned to emerge from the jungle on the Brazilian border.

Silent in Parley Delay.

Montevideo, Uruguay, April 28 (A. P.).—The government has taken no action on the proposal to postpone the 1933 meeting of the Pan-American conference. The Uruguayan charge d'affaires at Washington, who will represent the country at the next union council, at which the date for the meeting will be fixed, was instructed that since Montevideo has been chosen as the place for the meeting no initiative can be taken here.

Argentine Loan Approved.

Buenos Aires, April 28 (A.P.).—The Chamber of Deputies has approved the government's bill authorizing a 500,000,000-peso (about $300,000,000) internal "patriotic loan," intended to pay back salaries of public employes and other overdue governmental expenses. The bill was approved last night after a two-day debate and now goes to the Senate.

Chilean Carabineers Mobilized.

Santiago, Chile, April 28 (A.P.).—The government today mobilized the 18,000 carabineers of Chile for emergency duty this week-end to meet possible disorders during the May Day celebration of extremist groups. This precaution was taken when extremist labor leaders called a workers' mass meeting and a May Day general strike for next Monday.

length of time under the circumstances of this particular case," but declined to say exactly how long that would be.

Expressing confidence that the jury was inclining toward the defense, Montgomery Winn, local associate of Clarence Darrow in the case, in his proposal to Kelley asserted that under the laws of the territory it was possible to waive the usual requirement of a unanimous verdict. Kelley, however, flatly denied this could be done.

Out For 25 Hours.

After being out 25 hours, the jury went to dinner at 5:30 p. m. today (11 p. m. Eastern standard time). It was ordered to return two hours later and to deliberate until 10 p. m. (3:30 a. m. Friday, Eastern standard time).

Massie and the other three accused, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, his mother-in-law, and Albert O. Jones and E. J. Lord, Navy enlisted men, who went to Pearl Harbor late last night after the jury had retired, returned to a downtown hotel this morning to await the jury's report.

Cunningham-Reid Wins House of Commons Seat

London, April 28 (A.P.).—Capt. Alex Cunningham-Reid triumphed over Sir Basil Blackett in a straight fight between two Conservatives for a seat in the House of Commons in the St. Marylebone by-election, the result announced tonight giving Capt. Cunningham-Reid a substantial majority over Sir Basil.

Capt. Cunningham-Reid was the choice of the local Conservative party, while Sir Basil, originally the choice of the central office of the Conservative party, ran as a national Conservative. The traditionally Conservative seat was vacated by the resignation of Sir Rennell Rodd, diplomat and Conservative member since 1928.

IN THE SPIRIT OF GEORGE WASHINGTON

By the HONORABLE SOL BLOOM.
Associate Director of the U. S. George Washington Bicentennial Commission.

The City of Washington is the pride of every American, but this year it will be especially that, as the heart and soul of the Nation-wide tribute to the Father of Our Country. Millions of citizens will come here in 1932 when the city, laid out by George Washington himself as the seat of our Government, takes on new power to stimulate patriotism. It, therefore, behooves every Washington resident to see to it that the city of which we are the proud custodians presents its finest aspect to visitors. As George Washington ever improved and beautified his property, every dweller here should do the same. We could not add a finer touch to the celebration, or one more true to the George Washington spirit.

NICARAGUA ELECTION SUPERVISION SLATED

Admiral Woodward Outlines Plans With Officials of State Department.

Plans for supervising the forthcoming elections in Nicaragua were discussed in a meeting held at the State Department yesterday by Rear Admiral Clark Howell Woodward, in charge of the American Electoral Commission.

Officials of the State and Navy Departments reviewed the present political conditions in Nicaragua and the best means of insuring a just and equitable election.

Edwin C. Wilson, chief of the Division of Latin-American Affairs, and Lawrence Duggan represented the Department of State, and the naval officials included Maj. Gen. Ben H. Fuller, commandant of the Marine Corps; Col. Douglas Cassel MacDougal, of the Marine Corps; Capt. Alfred Wilkinson Johnson, U. S. N., and Lieut. Col. Charles F. B. Price, of the Marine Corps.

Confidence in Debayle.

At the same time it was learned here that President Moncada of Nicaragua has given another mark of his confidence in the present charge d'affaires of the legation here, Dr. Luis Manuel Debayle, by declining to accept his resignation. Dr. Debayle resigned as a gesture some time ago in protest against the tactless and anti-American mission of Dr. Carlos Morales, recently special delegate here, to persuade the State Department to approve a revision of the Nicaraguan constitution.

President Moncada, who only recently learned of the attempts which Morales had made to supplant the present popular Charge d'Affaires here, refused to accept the resignation of Dr. Debayle and he will remain.

The presence of Dr. Debayle here as Charge d'Affaires is expected to aid materially in negotiating any problems which may be brought up between the United States and Nicaragua, as Dr. Debayle has succeeded in creating a very friendly sentiment in official circles in Washington toward President Moncada.

Sacasa's Chances of Election.

The supervision of American military authorities in the Nicaraguan elections has been carried on since 1928. This usually entails a force of approximately 1,000 officials, although for the local representative elections which occur every two years the number is appreciably smaller.

This year, however, will be a presidential election year and conventions similar to the form followed in the American elections will be held in eight weeks. There has developed a split in the ranks of the Liberal party.

Dr. Juan Sacasa, former Minister here, seemed to have the best chance of success, but in the face of the division in the Liberal ranks the Sacasa election chances are said to have diminished.

Filing Date Expires For Murder Appeal

(Associated Press.)

Chief Justice Hughes yesterday denied Randolph C. Cox, Negro, Warsaw, Va., further time in which to bring his murder case to the Supreme Court.

Cox is sentenced to be electrocuted at the State penitentiary in Richmond on June 3 for murdering J. N. Wood, a State prohibition agent, on December 19, 1930.

Cox's counsel told the Chief Justice the three months' time in which they might have asked Supreme Court action expired yesterday. The Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals affirmed his guilt on January 28, from which the three months' filing time dates.

porch. She fired through the door window, and Donath fell backward down the steps, mortally wounded.

Gunby shouted to a woman across the street to call police headquarters. A general radio message sent every police automobile in the district to the house. Within a few minutes the street was packed with cars and a throng of excited spectators so large that lines were strung to hold it back.

Suddenly, in full view of a throng that numbered thousands, the front door swung wide and Mrs. Thompson ran out. She was screaming, and her red hair was blowing wildly. One hand held the picture to her breast, in the other a pistol spoke, but without aim.

Lead and steel slugs from sawed off shotguns and automatics struck her in a single roar. Her body whirled about and pitched to the ground.

Board of Education Hearing Set.

Hearings on whether the District should have an elective Board of Education will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon before the Senate District committee. Senator Arthur Capper, chairman, has a bill providing for the change in the method of selection.

URIBURU, PAST HEAD OF ARGENTINA, DIES

Former President Fails to Recover From Operation in Paris; Was 64.

Paris (Friday), April 29 (A.P.).—Former President Jose Francisco Uriburu of Argentina died early today at a hospital where he underwent an operation for stomach ulcers last Saturday.

He was 64 years old.

His condition was complicated by uremia yesterday and physicians applied the latest medical discoveries in a futile effort to combat the infection.

His wife, son and daughter were with him until he died at 1:05 a. m. today.

The ailment which caused the operation on the former dictator appeared shortly after he came to Paris on a two years' vacation. In February he had turned the reins of government over to a duly elected constitutional president, Augustin P. Justo.

Jose Francisco Uriburu, the "soldier president" of Argentina, climaxed a long military career with a successful regime as provisional president of his country from September 8, 1930, until February 20, 1932, when he voluntarily stepped out of office.

Uriburu was born in Salta, Argentina, in 1868, the son of one of the wealthiest and most aristocratic families in Argentina. After being graduated from the military college he served in Germany with the Uhlan and artillery troops of the imperial army. He entered the diplomatic service in 1903 as a military attache with the Argentine Embassy in Spain with the rank of major. Later he became a lieutenant colonel and eventually was promoted to inspector general—that is, the actual head of the army.

In 1928 Gen. Uriburu, then in retirement, was particularly outspoken in his criticism of President Hipolito Yrigoyen.

Dissatisfaction with the Yrigoyen government spread rapidly; and on September 5, 1930, the president resigned, leaving Vice President Enrico Martinez in charge. The next day revolution broke out.

There was some bloodshed before the old soldier, who then was 62, got the army in control of the situation and set up a provisional government with himself as president under martial law.

Hoover Will Journey To Rapidan Tomorrow

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover decided yesterday to journey tomorrow to his Rapidan fishing camp in the Virginia mountains for what one of his aids said would be "his first real rest in seven months." Accompanying the President will be Mrs. Hoover and members of his medicine ball cabinet who gather daily on the south lawn of the White House for early morning exercise.

They will fish, hike, ride or just sit on the porch—anything but work. The party probably will leave here early tomorrow and return late Sunday.

All But 2 States Favor Rum in Poll

3 to 1 Majority for Repeal in 33 Units of Survey by Magazine.

New York, April 28 (U.P.).—Forty-six of the 48 States voted, with varying degree of emphasis, for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, according to the final returns in the national poll conducted by the Literary Digest.

Of these States, 33 returned a majority of more than 3 to 1 against the present constitutional law, and a comparison of the 1932 poll with that taken in 1930 shows, the magazine said, 'a shift toward wetter sentiment."

A total of 4,668,537 votes were returned and counted in the straw referendum. The final figures showed 1,236,660, or approximately 26.49 per cent, in favor of continuance of the amendment, and 3,431,877, or 73.51 per cent, favoring repeal. Kansas and North Carolina were the only States giving a clear majority for prohibition, but the vote was exceedingly close. Prohibition won by 397 votes out of a total of 84,121 ballots in Kansas, and by only 58 out of 64,790 returned by North Carolina.

$185,000 Fire Hits Roosevelt Field

Hangar and 10 Planes Are Destroyed by Flames; Blast Hurts 2.

Roosevelt Field, Long Island, N. Y., April 28 (A.P.).—Fire destroyed a hangar and ten airplanes at this field today with a loss totaling $185,000.

The hangar, formerly known as the John Hay Whitney hangar and later designated as hangar A, was consumed by flames in less than an hour following an explosion of undetermined cause shortly after 9 a. m.

Carl Schneider, former German war pilot, was taken to a hospital at Mineola badly burned. He and John D. Egurre, who also was burned, but not so badly, were the only persons in the hangar at the time of the explosion. Both are mechanics. The fire departments from four nearby Long Island cities were of no avail against the flames fed by gas fumes from the burning planes.

Lightning Kills Man and Child.

Beaumont, Tex., April 28 (A.P.).—Gilbert Moss, 30, and a 1-year-old daughter were killed by a bolt of lightning today 6 miles south of Raywood. Mrs. Moss, who was carrying the baby's twin sister, and several other children were not injured.

MURDER IS CHARGED AFTER 8 WOMEN DIE

Illegal Operations Held Fatal to 2 Oklahoma Coeds; Athlete Testifies.

Oklahoma City, April 28 (A.P.).—A murder charge was filed tonight against Dr. J. W. Eisiminger, Oklahoma City osteopath, as Lewis R. Morris, county attorney, investigated deaths of eight young women, including two University of Oklahoma coeds, alleged to have been caused by illegal operations.

Dr. Eisiminger, accused in the death of Miss Virginia Lee Wyckoff, 21, University student, who died Saturday, pleaded not guilty and was ordered remanded to jail without bond pending preliminary hearing May 6.

Dr. Richard E. Thacker, physician and surgeon, is sought on a charge of murder in the death last week of Miss Robbie Lou Thompson, 21, a telegraph company employe.

School to Conduct Probe.

He also is accused of performing a criminal operation on Mrs. Frank Lee, 17, university student and secret bride of a university football star, who died here Monday.

Four other deaths under investigation were those of Mrs. F. S. Roach, who died Saturday; Mrs. Isobel F. Ferguson, who died April 14; Ruth Hall, of Bethany, who died April 15, and Marie Epperson, who died two years ago.

Dr. Eisiminger said in a signed statement he treated Miss Wyckoff April 3 at his office but did not believe she was an expectant mother. He said he treated her for another ailment.

The university discipline committee announced an independent investigation would be made. It probably will include a general inquiry into conditions at the institution at Norman, near here.

Incomplete Death Certificates.

County Attorney Morris said early investigation had disclosed that several homes here have been used as hospitals for girls. He said his office had been looking into the matter even before the deaths of the coeds came to light yesterday, as a result of incomplete death certificates.

Lee related events leading up to the death of his girl bride at an inquiry in Norman.

County Attorney Morris, joined by operatives of the State Bureau of Criminal Investigation and university investigators headed by President W. B. Bizzell, of the school, sat in a university office and heard the athlete's story.

His eyes red, Lee, who drove all night from his bride's burial place at Bonham, Tex., told of the secret wedding February 2, at Wichita Falls, Tex., and declared "we returned to school and did not live together because we were afraid our folks would have it annulled if they knew about it."

Athlete Tells of Worry.

He went on to describe the illness of his bride last week; how "we worried about it a lot;" and of the visit to Dr. Thacker's office here on the advice of student friends.

"We were both nervous; we didn't know what we were doing," he declared. He told Morris the physician made no physical examination of the girl; that he (Lee) did not witness the operation himself.

Lee paid Dr. Thacker $30, he said, put his bride under the care of a nurse here whom the physician suggested and returned to school.

Mrs. Lee became violently ill, was moved to a hospital and died there Monday night. The Wyckoff girl died at the same hospital this week.

Annapolis Cruise To Europe Is Off

Midshipmen's Cruise Will Be in Waters Close to Home.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., April 28.—The annual summer practice cruise of the Annapolis midshipmen will extend to waters close to home rather than to continental Europe as originally planned, it was finally announced by authorities of the Naval Academy. The fact that only one ship will be available brought about the curtailment.

The vessel to be used will be the battleship Wyoming, and the embryo officers will make the cruise in two sections. In other words, members of two battalions of the regiment will make the first jaunt, while those of the other two will be given leave to visit their homes throughout the country, and vice versa. The new first and third classes, after graduation in June, will be the contingents to take the trips, the second classmen remaining here a large part of the summer for aviation instruction.

The Wyoming will leave Annapolis June 3 with the first group and proceed to Galveston, Tex., arriving June 23. Leaving there June 24, she will proceed to Ponce, arriving July 8, and after a stay of five days will return to Annapolis July 25. The itinerary for the cruise of the second division follows: Leave Annapolis August 1, arrive Ponta Delgada August 13; leave August 16, arrive Halifax August 29; leave Halifax September 7, arrive Hampton Roads September 13 and Annapolis September 21.

R. E. Maust, Policeman, Marries Third Time

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., April 28.—Miss Elizabeth F. Cunningham, 31, 45 New York avenue northwest, and Raymond E. Maust, 31, 147 R street northeast, both of Washington, D. C., were married here by the Rev. A. R. Snedegar, Tuesday. According to the records, Maust is a policeman and a bridegroom for the third time. He was a widower by his first marriage and the second was annulled.

The bride, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Cunningham, was divorced from her first husband in Loudoun County, Va., in February, and resumed her maiden name. They said they will reside at 121 Seventh street southeast, Washington.

Exchange Rules Tighter On Security for Bonds

New York, April 28 (A.P.).—The New York Stock Exchange, it became known today, has tightened its requirements for reports on changes in collateral securing listed bonds, and corporations henceforth will notify the exchange immediately of any change or removal of collateral deposited under any of its mortgage or trust indentures under which listed securities are outstanding.

The new rule is believed to have been inspired by the substitutions revealed recently in the collateral behind the 5 per cent debentures of the Kreuger & Toll Co.

200 Police Too Late To Capture Suspect

Man Sought for Murder Flees as Constable Calls for Aid.

Farmingdale, N. Y., April 28 (A.P.).—A Negro sought for murder today threw this Long Island countryside into a furore during which about 200 police officers armed with machine guns and tear gas bombs converged on this village, but the suspect disappeared in the scramble.

Willie Jackson, the Negro, is wanted for fatally stabbing another Negro in Corona two months ago. Today he was seen on the old brickworks road and a constable followed him. Jackson ran into an abandoned house. "Come and get me," he shouted. "Not me," said the constable, and went off to telephone for reinforcements. Police automobiles thundered along the quiet roads from two counties and about 200 officers armed and ready for battle approached the abandoned shack. They found the constable sitting in the doorway, smoking his pipe.

"Jackson must have gone out the window while I was telephoning," said the constable. "He was gone when I got back."

Turkish Official Party Is Greeted in Moscow

Moscow, April 28 (A.P.).—The harmonious relations between Soviet Russia and Turkey were celebrated today by the arrival in Moscow of Ismet Pasha, Turkish premier, and a party of 34 Turkish officials who are here on a visit of state.

The premier was much impressed by the cordial character of his reception. Friendship between the U. S. S. R. and Turkey, he said in an interview, is the outgrowth of the common interests and aspirations of the two nations.

CANOE UPSET FATAL TO MAN IN POTOMAC

o'clock. The number he called is a direct line to the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co.

About 4:30 o'clock, less than three hours after Mr. King left the wharf at Mrs. Trunnell's, a man and two women appeared at Fletcher's boathouse, some distance up the river, and told of having seen a number of persons searching the waters for the body of a man who had apparently been drowned. They carried Mr. King's leather jacket, which they said had been found floating on the water.

The trio, who a short time before left Fletcher's place in a rented row boat, wore wet clothing and appeared to be excited. The man, when asked by Joe Fletcher, proprietor of the boathouse, to give his name, said he was "Johnson" and lived at an address on H street northeast. Police learned that both the name and address were fictitious.

After giving this information the trio disappeared, leaving Mr. King's jacket at the boathouse. They explained their wet clothing by saying their boat had slipped from under them as they effected a landing at the Fletcher wharf, plunging them into the river. Police said this was possible, as the water at that point is extremely shallow.

According to what could be learned, the actual drowning took place at least an hour before the man and two women reported the incident to Mr. Fletcher.

A launch from the Harbor Precinct was then summoned. Their call, received over the telephone, was:

"Persons at Fletcher's boathouse know of a drowning and will direct you to the spot." They had gone, however, when police arrived.

En route up the river, the harbor launch was hailed by a group of persons about a half-mile below Fletcher's place. They were told that it was at this point where the man drowned.

The only actual witnesses to the drowning were two men sitting on a rock on the Virginia side of the river. After shouting to them, police learned that Mr. King was seen to go down when his canoe overturned. He did not reappear. The two men left before the police obtained their names. The body was found a short time later.

Mr. King was the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Harry King, of 1623 Thirty-fifth street northwest. He was said to be an expert swimmer.

Educated in Mount St. Mary's College, Mr. King had lived in Washington all his life. Until recently he was in charge of the addressograph division of the United States Bicentennial Commission.

Besides his parents, he is survived by a brother, Harry King, a sophomore at Georgetown Medical School, and two sisters, Miss Madeline King and Mrs. J. Lawlar.

BLAINE FLAYS STOCK TRADING PROFESSION

Market Dealers Are Likened to Racketeers and Pickpockets by Senator.

(Associated Press.)

Professional stock traders were compared with "racketeers, gangsters and pickpockets" by Senator Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, yesterday in the first Senate echo of its investigation of the stock market.

"Professional traders never lose to the public," Senator Blaine said. "They may lose among themselves, but their main purpose is to gouge, cheat and defraud the public."

The Senate banking committee was going ahead with the preparation of its secret plans for carrying on the investigation as Senator Blaine, one of its members, called the developments so far to the attention of the Senate.

"The stock exchange, with the practices that have already been disclosed before the committee," Senator Blaine shouted, "can be justly chraged with having the leprosy of crime spotted all over it."

Read Hoover Article.

"President Whitney, of the exchange," Senator Blaine said, "undertook to place the characteristics of angels about the operators on the exchange, and yet they are similar in character to the racketeer and the gangster."

Senator Blaine read to the Senate a magazine article he said was written by President Hoover in 1912 on "The Economics of a Boom," in which promoters and brokers were described as "insiders" and the general investing public as "outsiders."

In this article, published in the London Mining Magazine, Senator Blaine quoted Mr. Hoover as describing a hypothetical case in which 120,000 pounds was invested in a mining project and 1,000,000 pounds of stock sold to outsiders by the insiders.

"'But the 880,000 pounds, representing the difference, is not itself an economic loss,'" he quoted from the article.

Means Transfer of Wealth.

"'It simply means this much of the national wealth was transferred from one individual to another. * * *

"'Further, from an economic point of view, this 880,000 pounds of capital in the hands of the insiders is often invested to more reproductive purpose than if it had remained in the hands of the idiots who parted with it.'"

Senator Blaine cited this as an illustration of what is going on in the stock exchange, and proposed that the committee get experts trained by President Hoover to aid it in finding "how much money has been taken by insiders out of the pockets of the innocent, unsuspecting public."

7 Large Florida Hotels Placed in Receivership

Jacksonville, Fla., April 28 (A.P.).—The Florida Peninsular Hotel Corporation, formerly the Florida Collier Coast Hotels, Inc., operator of seven large hostelries in this State, was placed in receivership today by order of Federal Judge Alexander Akerman.

Henry W. Dew, of Jacksonville, was appointed receiver. Suit for receivership was brought by the Tabard Press, of New York, which claimed the hotel company owed a bill for $3,140.70 for stationery. Hotels of the company are located at Tampa, West Palm Beach, Lakeland, Bradenton and Sarasota. Dew was ordered to continue operating them.

Hart Crane, Poet, Is Drowned at Sea

Whether Death Was Suicide or Accident Unknown.

New York, April 28 (A.P.).—The death at sea, under unexplained circumstances, of Hart Crane, Cleveland poet, who was on his way here from Mexico City on the liner Orizaba, was confirmed today by officials of the Ward Line. A radiogram, dated yesterday and signed by the ship's captain, read:

"Hart Crane went overboard at noon today. Body not recovered."

Whether the death was an accident or suicide could not be learned. The ship is due to dock here late tomorrow. Crane, 33 years old, had been for some months in Mexico City where he went after receiving a $2,500 Guggenheim Foundation fellowship last year to enable him to carry on his work in creative poetry. His friends there said he had been deeply affected by the death of his father, Clarence A. Crane, wealthy candy manufacturer last summer. They said last week he had threatened to kill himself and a friend had gone with him on the Orizaba to guard against a possible suicide attempt.

Selinsky Liberty Bond Case Put Off to May 12

Perth Amboy, N. J., April 28 (A.P.).—Frank Selinsky, held on a charge of bringing a stolen Liberty bond into the District of Columbia, appeared today before United States Commissioner John A. Delaney and was granted a continuance of the case until May 12. Bail of $10,000 was continued.

Walter Reilley, counsel for Selinsky, maintained the procedure of the Government in attempting to obtain a transfer of the case to the Washington district was improper because his client had not been notified of the reason for his appearance before the commissioner.

ROAD BUILDERS URGE RELIEF FOR JOBLESS

Association, in Session Here, Asked to Act; Sustained Program Sought.

By WILLIAM ULLMAN.

That two of the gravest problems confronting the Nation today—unemployment and the improvement of street and highway safety—can best be sovled by the single remedy of road construction is the theme of the annual meeting of the American Road Builders Association now in session here.

Yesterday's gatherings which brought to the Capital several hundred of the industry's outstanding figures, including many prominent State highway officials, left little doubt as to one of the most radical changes brought about by the present economic situation. It is that, for the first time in history, the paramount importance of good roads to the development of motor transportation has become secondary to the need for highway construction to give employment. Speaker after speaker expressed this opinion.

W. R. Smith, retiring president of the association, summarized the industry's position today when he said that the outstanding objective of highway work now is to create jobs.

Figuring on Losses.

"You may be sure," he declared, "that the contractor is taking his full share of the burden under present conditions. We do not know of any highway work let in the East since last July that will show a reasonable profit. For weeks we have been bidding to secure employment for our organization, not figuring profits, but losses. The highways of the United States are not overimproved, but underimproved. The present is the most necessary and advantageous time to make these improvements at a minimum outlay and a maximum betterment of unemployment conditions."

The association reiterated its unqualified opposition to diversion of motor-vehicle revenue at the present time as representing a double loss to the country. Motorists suffer because diverted funds, if devoted to the purpose for which they are ostensibly collected, would create a greater mileage of good roads due to reduced construction costs. At the same time the Nation's road builders are convinced that unemployment relief is handicapped by unbusinesslike use of these sums, running into the millions.

The whole principle of diversion was assailed by the convention as undermining and retarding the growth of highway transportation by afflicting the motor-car owner with evermounting and inequitable taxes. That the present movement will defeat its own ends by making motor-car ownership less desirable, with a consequent reduction in revenue, is the unanimous sentiment of the road-building industry.

Urged Passage of Bill.

Interviews with delegates to the convention from all parts of the country left little doubt as to the unanimity with which the $136,000,000 emergency Federal appropriation for highway construction is regarded as necessary to this year's State road programs. Even those officials whose own States are not handicapped in getting their maximum construction and maintenance schedules started at this season are convinced that work for thousands of men can be assured only by enactment of the measure now before the Senate and already passed by the House.

Yesterday's business sessions were climaxed by the installation of new officers. The new president of the organization is T. H. Cutler, chief engineer of the Missouri State Highway Commission. The city officials' and county officials' divisions of the association are headed, respectively, by R. B. Brooks, of St. Louis, and W. O. Washington, of Brownsville, Tex. Charles M. Upham, of Washington, continues as engineer-director of the organization, a position which he has held for many years.

W. R. Smith, of Meriden, Conn., retiring president of the association, was honored last night at a reception and dance at the Willard Hotel. The event was attended by several hundred persons.

The newly installed boards of directors of the main organization and its two divisions will meet today to outline their programs for the year.

TRAIN CRASH KILLS 2; LABOR ROW BLAMED

2 Others Injured as Baggage Coach Leaves Elevation and Crashes Home.

South Bend, Ind., April 28 (A.P.).—Anger aroused by a controversy over the extension of a railroad track elevation project is believed by authorities to have motivated the wrecking today of the Grand Trunk Western's Maple Leaf Limited.

The limited, en route from Montreal, Canada, to Chicago, was derailed as it came into this city this morning over the recently completed elevation. The engineer and fireman were scalded to death. A baggage coach plunged from the tracks and landed on a house, injuring two persons.

Police Chief John B. Kuespert, a veteran railroad man, started an immediate investigation in which he was joined later by county officials, railroad officers and representatives of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Previous Finding.

"I am convinced that the train hit something," said Chief Kuespert. "It didn't just topple of its own accord." Kuespert said it had been reported only two weeks ago that a New York Central track walker had found an angle iron fastened down with a steel stake on the tracks of this road. The New York Central and the Grand Trunk use the elevation jointly.

Tonight, however, officials of the New York Central and Grand Trunk Western lines said they were inclined to believe the accident might be attributed to excessive speed. They theorized that as the train rounded the curve the tender began to sway, probably prompting the engineer to make an emergency application of his air brakes, overturning the engine.

The trainmen who died in the wreck were James Groves, engineer, and Walter C. Schinning, fireman, both of Battle Creek, Mich.

Albert Bradburn, 32, and his 5-year-old son, Marshall were injured in the house that was crushed by the baggage coach.

Train Was Entering Station.

The derailment occurred as the train slackened speed to enter the Union Station here. The locomotive left the rails and overturned. A baggage coach immediately behind the engine became uncoupled and hung over the wall of the elevation. A second baggage coach hurtled off the elevation and lit on the Bradburn home. Two sleeping cars and a day coach remained upright. The passengers were shaken up but no one was seriously injured.

Loew's COLUMBIA—TODAY

STIMSON TO DELAY GENEVA DEPARTURE

Decides to Remain Longer to Continue Discussions on Armaments.

Geneva, April 28 (A.P.).—Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, who had intended to leave Geneva for home tomorrow because his plans for a "big five" conference had collapsed, announced today he would postpone his departure until Saturday or later.

Col. Stimson decided to stay in Geneva a little longer in order that he might have an opportunity to continue his disarmament discussions with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain, and Chancellor Heinrich Bruening of Germany, and to hold further conversations about the Sino-Japanese conflict with various statesmen now assembled here.

He talked with Mr. MacDonald and Dr. Bruening during the morning and met both of them again this evening at a dinner given by Norman H. Davis, a member of the American delegation to the disarmament conference.

Although Mr. Stimson changed his mind about the day of his departure from Geneva, there was no indication he would alter his arrangements to sail from Cannes next Wednesday on the liner Vulcania. He announced his sailing date yesterday after having been informed that an attack of laryngitis would make it impossible for Premier Tardieu of France to meet here tomorrow at the Stimson villa with the British, German and Italian ministers.

At a press conference today Chancellor Bruening reiterated Germany's demands for equality in armaments and urged the necessity of haste in arriving at measures to deal with the financial crisis. The chancellor pledged the good will of the German people in the peaceful adjustment of the Franco-German differences.

The German disarmament thesis, presented at the Geneva conference February 18, called upon the other nations to cut down their arms just as Germany was forced to cut them down by the provisions of the Treaty of Versailles.

The committee of nineteen of the League of Nations Assembly announced a plenary assembly session for Saturday to ratify the committee's program to expedite the Sino-Japanese armistice negotiations at Shanghai.

Capital Physician Faces Tax Charge

Income Evasion Is Alleged in Indictment Against Dr. Lester Neuman.

Baltimore, April 28 (A.P.).—Dr. Lester Neuman, Washington physician, was indicted here today by the Federal grand jury for defrauding the Government out of $8,178 by making false income tax returns in 1928 and 1929.

The indictment, containing two counts, charged the doctor derived an income of $30,651 in 1929, but reported in his return an income of $30,264 and paid a tax of $425. The tax was $6,995 less than what should have been paid, the Government contended.

The second count alleged the physician made $65,850 in 1929, but reported an income of $22,111 and paid no tax when he should have paid $1,180.

STIMSON HOPEFUL OVER ARMS PARLEY

debts was scrupulously avoided by the Secretary and no attempt was made by any of the delegates at the open meetings to bring up the subject in contradiction to the Secretary's known wishes and the announced instructions of the President himself.

Preparations for the home-coming of the Stimson party have already been tentatively made, although they will depend on some last-minute conversations that are scheduled for today and tomorrow at the Chateau de Bessignes, the estate rented by the Secretary during his stay in Geneva.

There was no disguising the genuine regret that was felt by the Secretary in the inability of French Premier Tardieu to keep his engagement in Geneva for today. The conference of the French statesman with the representatives of the other four powers now sitting was intended to lay the groundwork for an important step in international understanding. Agreement between the Italians and French on the basis of the London naval treaty, which has been the subject of considerable negotiation by the Secretary, might have taken a step nearer realization at that meeting. However, it is believed that the most important effect of Secretary Stimson's presence in Geneva will begin to make itself felt as soon as the results of the French elections Sunday have been ascertained.

The illness of Premier Tardieu caused him to cancel several important political engagements at the same time that it prevented him from going to Geneva, but the conferences which took place previously between him and the American statesman at the disarmament conference will serve as valuable foundations for more important agreements.

Pessimistic Last Lear.

Last year after his European visit, the Secretary of State returned with a rather pessimistic outlook on the general future there. This year, it is understood, he has been able to detect a marked change. The continued effects of the world-wide depression have gradually contributed in effecting a slow but definite breaking down of nationalistic prejudices. Recent political changes, such as the elections in Germany and in Prussia, have caused temporary upsets in the return to normalcy, but the Secretary is understood to see more hopeful indications after the results of the French balloting have become known next Sunday.

The Secretary will continue to follow closely the progress of the Geneva negotiations from this side after he returns, and it was conceded as possible here that he might return to Geneva again at the end of the session in the autumn, when the final details of the disarmament program will be ready for acceptance.

The other details of his conversations which concerned the Far Eastern question and the economic recovery of Europe can be handled by him here in Washington or by the American diplomatic agents still functioning at the seat of the conference.

Rail Merger Case Ends Before I. C. C.

Commission Takes Four-Road Proposal Under Consideration.

(Associated Press.)

The Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday took under consideration the question of consolidation of Eastern railroads into four great systems.

Arguments for and against the proposal of the Baltimore & Ohio, the Chesapeake & Ohio, the New York Central and the Pennsylvania plan for consolidation of Eastern roads closed late yesterday before the entire commission.

Henry W. Anderson, of Richmond, Va., speaking for the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, closed the argument. The New York Central, represented by Clyde Brown, its veteran general counsel, did not participate in the arguments, although a party to the action. The last day of the arguments was taken up principally by the plea of H. T. Newcomb, vice president and general counsel of the Delaware & Hudson, a Loree line, against the plan.

Parker Not Yet Decided On Georgia Campaign

(Associated Press.)

Representative Homer C. Parker yesterday said he had not as yet given the matter of making the race for the Georgia governorship any serious consideration.

"While a number of my friends have suggested that I make the race, I have not yet arrived at the conclusion that there is any especial demand for me to enter the campaign," he said. "Unless I am made to feel that the majority of the people in Georgia would like me to make this race, I certainly shall not do so."

New York Woman Leaps to Death.

New York, April 28 (A.P.).—Pauline Lodge, 45 years old, a clerk in the employ of the Amtorg Trading Co., fiscal agents in the United States of Soviet Russia, leaped to her death today from the eighteenth story offices of the company at 261 Fifth avenue.

NEW BILL ON TARIFF SENT TO PRESIDENT

House Accepts Amendments of Senate; Veto by Hoover Is Expected.

(Associated Press.)

That ever-blossoming political issue—the tariff—yesterday took a sudden spurt with Democrats sending to the White House for an almost certain veto the bill which they expect to make a talking point in the presidential campaign.

On a party vote of 202 to 171 the House accepted Senate amendments to the Democratic measure intended to shear the President of power to change duties without congressional approval. Thirteen Republicans, however, deserted their party leaders, while two Democrats jumped the fence.

Final passage of the measure followed an hour's debate in which the Republican leader, Representative Snell, of New York, accused Democrats of having taken it up "under the worst gag rule" he had ever seen.

Representative Crisp, Georgia Democrat, did not object to that charge, simply answering that since the Democrats were going to have to accept the responsibility for his bill they should be allowed to pass it as they saw fit.

Veto Almost Certain.

The prediction that the bill would be killed by a presidential veto came from several Republicans, among them Representative Treadway, of Massachusetts. He said:

"It'll be dead when it reaches the White House at the other end of Pennsylvania avenue, anyway."

And he accepted the campaign issue in this fashion:

"The bill is without merit, and after the Chicago political conventions we'll take it up with you."

Representative Ragon, an Arkansas Democrat, remarked that Republicans had called the White House a "bulwark" against the bill.

"They should have had one against the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill," he said. "Where is all that prosperity that bill was going to bring this country?"

Counsel for Hearing.

In their measure the Democrats propose that the President "initiate a movement for an international conference with a view to lowering excessive tariff duties and eliminating discriminatory and unfair trade practices * * * preventing retaliatory tariff measures and economic wars and promoting fair, equal and friendly trade and commercial relations between nations."

They attached another provision creating the position of a counsel to represent consumers at all hearings held by the Tariff Commission to determine whether production costs at home and abroad make a tariff necessary. At present only the importers and domestic manufacturers or producers appear.

Senate Democrats, with the aid of insurgent Republicans, passed the bill by a vote of 42 to 30 after it had been unfavorably reported by a Senate committee.

Under the law now the Tariff Commission can recommend to the President as much as 50 per cent increase or decrease in duties. If the President approves the recommendations the new levies become effective. The Democratic bill, however, requires congressional approval.

Utah Snowstorm Takes Heavy Toll of Damage

Ogden, Utah, April 28 (A.P.).—A belated snowstorm, declared to have been heavier than any last winter, disabled telephone and power lines in this vicinity, tore down tree branches, and blocked the highway through Ogden Canyon, east of here, last night and today.

More than 2 inches of moisture fell as snow or rain. The storm was reported to have reached across the Wyoming and Idaho borders. It was raining here this afternoon.

Minnesota Pilot to Receive First Air Mail Hero Medal

(Associated Press.)

Mal B. Freeburg, who flies the mail between Chicago and St. Paul, will be the first to receive the air mail pilots' medal for heroism.

The Minnesota-born flier was awarded the trophy for meritorious flying on April 12, 1931, when shortly after leaving Minneapolis one of his three motors shook loose and tangled with his landing gear.

With only two motors functioning and a terrific dead weight dangling, Freeburg flew to the Mississippi River, and, by maneuvering, shook the third motor into the river.

He then returned to a nearby landing field, and in spite of a badly damaged landing gear, brought his plane with its eight passengers and mail safely to the ground.

Freeburg had come to the attention of the Postoffice Department when his quick action kept a passenger train from plunging through a burning bridge.

Flying the night mail, he sighted the burning bridge and remembered he had passed a passenger train a few miles back. Turning, he circled over the engine and signaled his landing lights until the engineer stopped the train a quarter of a mile from the bridge.

Among the passengers on the train that night was Bobby Jones, the famous golfing star.

Rats Become Aerialists To Evade Hungry Cats

Luray, Va., April 28 (U.P.).—Wire-walking rats are adding to the strange things that are happening these days in "Ol' Virginy."

On the farm of Frank L. Koontz the rats travel on a wire clothes line stretched between the corn crib and the smokehouse without even a distasteful glance at hungry cats that wait patiently for the first and last slip of the acrobats.

The best ethics of tight-rope walking are observed by the rats, farmers declare. When two meet on the accommodating wire, one rat retreats to the corn crib to allow the other to pass.

CURRENCY DEBASING ATTACKED BY MEYER

Congress' Hands-Off Policy Would Bring Confidence, He Tells Committee.

(Associated Press.)

Definite word to business that Congress will "not tinker with the currency" was the terse formula for restoring confidence advanced yesterday by Eugene Meyer.

This advice was the kernel of more than two hours' testimony by the Federal Reserve Board governor before the House ways and means committee, and was directed against new-money plans for cashing the $2,400,000,000 soldiers' bonus.

"Flood" the country with undesirable currency and you will tend to drive out gold," Meyer said.

"Debasing the currency will create distrust, disorganization in business; evils and difficulties so much greater than those we now face that I can not believe Congress is going to do this. I can not believe any considerable part of the people will support a policy so contrary to the public interest."

Representatives Patman (Democrat), Texas, and Rankin (Democrat), Mississippi, chief sponsors of cash payment, were attentive listeners and when Meyer concluded Rankin said in a statement:

"The statements of Ogden L. Mills, Secretary of the Treasury, and Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, show that we are in the grip of a financial cabal more vicious and more merciless than that from which Andrew Jackson wrested the country 100 years ago."

Today the opposition will put on the stand Richard W. O'Neill, holder of the congressional medal of honor, who lately resigned as New York State commander of the Disabled American Veterans. Next, Prof. Irving Fisher, Yale University economist, will testify.

To repeated questions, put chiefly by Representative Vinson (Democrat), of Kentucky, Meyer insisted that:

"Currency, artificially injected, would drive gold out of the country and offset the paper.

"The Federal Reserve System has not yet employed the Glass-Steagall act to the extent of issuing currency on Government bonds.

"The country needs a unified banking structure. Bankers have favored maintenance of the dual system in order to play one against the other."

First U. S. Navy Sponsor Is Honored at Ceremony

Edenton, N. C., April 28 (A.P.).—A monument to Joseph Hewes, signer of the Declaration of Independence and sponsor of the Nation's first Navy, was unveiled on the courthouse green here today.

Rear Admiral W. D. McDougall, commandant of the naval operations base at Norfolk, made the principal address. The monument was erected by Congress and the ceremony was part of the Washington Bicentennial celebration.

HOOVER'S PROGRAM PRAISED BY HURLEY

Secretary Tells Publishers President Has Checked Depression.

New York, April 28 (A.P.).—Secretary Hurley said tonight he was convinced that "President Hoover is the only man in the world who has inaugurated any constructive program to overcome the depression."

The Secretary of War told the American Newspaper Publishers Association that Mr. Hoover's program has gone far toward stopping the ravages of depression and inspiring confidence in the people.

The President's plans were formulated, he said, after careful consideration of their every phase with the leaders of both parties and with manufacturers, bankers, transportation experts and farm leaders.

"That program," he added, "is the only worthwhile plan advanced by any one in or out of public life."

Howard Davis, business manager of the New York Herald Tribune, was elected president of the association this afternoon after an all-day business session devoted largely to committee reports.

George M. Rogers, of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, is the new vice president; Walter M. Dear, of the Jersey Journal, the reelected treasurer, and E. H. Harris, of the Richmond, Ind., Palladium-Item, secretary.

Harry Chandler, publisher of the Los Angeles Times, retiring president of the association, was elected to the board of directors.

Report of the special standing committee criticized the unionized departments of newspapers for "flatly refusing to consider any adjustment of wage scales," despite the "obvious emergency."

Railroads in Kansas Plan To Reduce Rates on Oil

Topeka, April 28 (A.P.).—The Public Service Commission authorized Kansas railroads today to put into effect on ten days notice a new scale of rates providing reductions up to 45 per cent in carload shipments of petroleum products between points in the State.

The new tariff, to be published early next week, will be applicable only on shipments of 150 miles or less. The carriers stated in their application that the new rates were designed to permit them to meet the competition of motor trucks.

Conservative Member Of Parliament Is Dead

London, April 28 (A.P.).—Sir Frederick Hall, Conservative member of Parliament from Dulwich, Camberwell, since 1911, died today. He was 67 years old. Sir Frederick was a member of Lloyds and the Baltic Shipping Exchanges, and chairman and managing director of the Mercantile and Marine Finance Corporation.

In the World War he served as a lieutenant colonel, and in 1917 was awarded the Distinguished Service Order and was knighted in 1918. His death creates another vacancy in the house and takes a strong M. P. from Conservative ranks. He was reelected in the last general election by an overwhelming majority.

NO DISARMAMENT.

Premier Laval came to the United States with the profound conviction that he could induce this government to change its mind and forgive the war debts. Secretary Stimson went to Europe with the profound conviction that he could induce the governments to get together on a disarmament program. Each learned that theories formed at a distance are poor material with which to smash realities. M. Laval returned to Paris, making mysterious allusions to imaginary concessions he had obtained. Mr. Stimson is about to return to Washington, but doubtless he will avoid M. Laval's mistake in concealing the failure of his mission.

When the pinch came, Premier Tardieu politely refused to go into a conference in which Great Britain, the United States, Germany and Italy were to unite against France in a disarmament proposal. The nature of the proposal has not been disclosed, and probably it was never clearly defined. Its object, however, was clear. The spokesmen of the powers concerned were anxious to bring about an understanding between Germany and France on the question of disarmament.

That this understanding is an impossibility at this juncture ought to have been apparent. The Hitlerites have made enormous gains in Germany, on the eve of the French elections. Premier Tardieu can not make any concessions of any kind without running the risk of disaster at the elections on May 1. As public sentiment in Germany in favor of revision of the Treaty of Versailles gains in strength, French public sentiment against revision gains still greater strength. No agreement on any disarmament question can even reach the stage of discussion by France when the integrity of the Treaty of Versailles is involved.

Dispatches from Berlin state that the readiness of the powers to apply pressure to France is a favorable sign in the matter of reparations, which will be considered at Lausanne in June. Germans seem to take it for granted that France will be driven into a position in which it can not insist upon execution of the Young Plan. Germany now actually expects to scrap the reparations agreement. But it is reckoning in advance of the French elections, which may tell a very different story. If the Tardieu-Laval group should emerge victorious, as seems probable in view of French fear and resentment of Hitlerism, France will hold all parties to the reparations treaty to their bargain. Nothing is to be gained at Lausanne by discussions of the possibility of inducing the United States to forgive the war debts. The breakdown of the Geneva disarmament conference makes it doubly certain that Congress will not consent to revise the debts. So long as the European powers persist in building up armaments they rob themselves of any argument that might appeal to America in behalf of debt revision.

CREDIT VS. FIAT MONEY.

Secretary Mills appeared before the ways and means committee as a witness on the bonus bill, but his remarks were directed chiefly to financial policies. One sentence disposed of the proposed bonus raid. Mr. Mills referred to the measure as an attempt "to pay an obligation not due, in money that is not honest."

Aside from the bonus measure, inflation of the currency is an active issue on which many people are confused. If the printing presses are to be set in motion to supply the country with fiat money, why should the benefits of that policy be confined to veterans? Why take the trouble to raise taxes when money can be manufactured for merely the cost of ink and paper? The insidious argument for paper money is becoming a greater menace than the threat of the bonus.

Confusion arises because the Federal Reserve Board has embarked upon a policy that is erroneously termed "inflation." Fanatics take note of its credit expansion policy and rush to the conclusion that credit expansion means the issuance of fiat currency.

The measure before the ways and means committee would immediately expand the currency by about $2,400,000,000 with no check or control over the new volume of money. The country would have debasement and not merely inflation of the currency.

On the other hand, the Federal Reserve Board aims at expanding credit, which is the same as money, in accordance with the needs of business and industry. If this program succeeds, it will start prices on an upward trend, which is equivalent to reducing the value of the dollar. But during all stages in the process, the board composed of financial experts will have complete control over the movement. When the forces of deflation have been arrested the board can restrict its policy and maintain an even flow of money into the channels of business without danger of an unmanageable inflation or debasement of the currency.

The credit expansion policy and the arbitrary issuance of currency are not comparable and ought not to be put in the same class. The pumping of credit into industry and commerce under careful restrictions is wholly constructive. All the experience of nations shows that reckless issuance of fiat currency is the road to disaster.

TARIFF ITEMS GO OUT.

The finance committee of the Senate has voted to remove all tariff items from the revenue measure now before it for consideration. Under the guise of excise taxes the House committee on ways and means at the eleventh hour included import duties on oil and coal in this bill. To these two the Senate committee added copper. Since the rates of the imposts meant a virtual embargo upon all three products the incongruity of their presence in a tax measure was apparent. There was no possibility of any one of the articles producing any revenue.

In the House, of course, a Democratic committee accepted the tariffs under pressure from the mid-West oil bloc that demanded them in exchange for support of the sales tax. In the stampede that destroyed the sales tax not all of the oil representatives supported that plan, but nevertheless the inconsistent tariff remained and went to the Senate as a part of the conglomerate tax bill.

In the hearings before the finance committee efforts were made to eliminate the tariff intruders, but with so little success that, with the aid of Democratic votes, copper was added to coal and oil. Now the Senate committee doubles back and removes all three from the bill.

What is the meaning of this, beyond the excuse of avoiding interminable debate when the bill is considered in open Senate over attempts to incorporate more tariff items? It may mean that some Democrats have become alarmed at the scathing criticism that has been leveled at them by members of their own party for the display of inconsistency and bad politics that would nullify their attacks upon the Republican tariff policy. Embargo tariffs in a tax bill simply became too glaring an anomaly for them to explain.

The vote in the Senate committee on the various tariff items indicates that log-rolling tactics fell down. The oil, coal, and copper men failed to keep the logs in line, and all of them went over the dam. But the bill is subject to amendment, both in committee and in the Senate, and there will be plenty of opportunity for good anti-tariff Democrats to vote for a little tariff pork for their States.

PINCHOTISM DEFEATED.

Al Smith's unexpected strength in this week's political contests has overshadowed another important development which indicates the general political trend. Pinchotism went down to crushing defeat in Pennsylvania. In every contest in which Gov. Pinchot and his policy was an issue he was repudiated by the people. Apparently the Keystone State has repented of its folly in 1930 and is ready to complete the work of repudiating its governor at the earliest opportunity.

Radicalism was rampant in Pennsylvania two years ago. At that time the people had seen just enough of hard times to want a change. They were attracted by the fanaticism which Gov. Pinchot and his ilk misrepresent as progressive policy. After two years of Pinchotism sentiment has completely reversed its trend. Gen. Smedley Butler, the governor's candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination, lost to Senator Davis in a landslide vote. Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, the governor's wife, lost to Representative McFadden in a spirited contest in the fifteenth congressional district. Gov. Pinchot's efforts to secure control of the State legislature and the Republican State committee were likewise upset by the will of the people.

This is the reward showered upon Gov. Pinchot for his campaign of pauperism. While all other governors were striving courageously to meet the burdens placed upon State institutions by unemployment and depression, Gifford Pinchot set up a howl for a Federal dole. He told Congress and the rest of the country that Pennsylvania was unable to care for its own people. The wealthy Keystone State was humiliated beyond measure. That in itself was sufficient to turn the electorate away from Pinchotism. But when the governor fought against the relief program which the State legislature adopted, his influence was definitely broken.

The political trend in Pennsylvania is in keeping with the general movement against radicalism which is rising throughout the country. A few weeks ago Wisconsin broke away from the domination of the La Follette clique. Iowa indorsed the common sense program of the Republican administration without regard for the drivel that Senator Brookhart unlooses in Washington. People are beginning to realize that radicalism means only more debts, more red tape, more calamitous panaceas and more politics in private affairs.

The trend of voting in the primaries is a tribute to the sober judgment of the American people. Apparently they are ready to fight their way through the depression on the solid footing of common sense. It is a hard year for peanut politicians, no matter how ingenious their trickery may be.

A HINT TO THE GOVERNORS.

The Governors of States who are visiting Washington are of course preoccupied with the questions of economy and taxation, but it may be that they can find time in which to exchange notes on the question of discouraging crime.

If the States can take concerted action against crime, even to a small extent, there will be reason to hope that still more extensive action will follow.

A suggestion which might well be considered by the visiting governors is contained in the resolutions adopted by the Washington Monarch Club, calling attention to the fact that the majority of crimes are committed by relatively youthful persons who use automobiles in their depredations. The club, with good psychological insight, believes that if youthful criminals were penalized by revocation of permits to drive automobiles they would be deterred in many cases from risking that penalty. It is accordingly proposed that the States and the District of Columbia be empowered to revoke the driving license of any person convicted of kidnaping, highway robbery, robbery by force and violence, automobile theft, burglary, extortion, and bank robbery. The club suggests that disqualification shall apply for three years for the first offense, and five years for the second offense; the period of disqualification to begin after the expiration of the period of imprisonment for the crime committed.

Public safety would be promoted by depriving convicted criminals of automobile permits, and in many cases the danger of revocation of the privilege would cause youthful drivers to refrain from committing crime.

CARING FOR THE CHILD.

Administrative affairs, international worries, and fiscal complications are never so pressing that President Hoover does not find time to further all movements for the welfare of the children of the nation. His latest proclamation is a reminder that May 1 is now dedicated as National Child Health Day, a day on which he invites all agencies and organizations interested in child welfare to unite in the observance of such exercises as will awaken the people to the necessity of unremitting effort for the protection and development of the health of the nation's children.

The President remarks that since the children of the country are our most precious possession and the unfailing source of the nation's vitality, wealth and leadership, the knowledge of how to protect and promote their health, physical, mental and spiritual, is all-important. Fortunately, this knowledge is more accessible than ever before. Reports received at the headquarters of the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection indicate increasing interest in and application of the helpful advice given through direct agencies and through the large amount of literature distributed.

The purpose of the proclamation is to turn the attention of the country on May Day to the special needs of children. The efforts of nation-wide organizations are now directed toward insuring for children sheltered home life, that each child may have the essential food elements, an adequate amount of safe milk, plenty of sunshine, sleep, rest and recreation, and that every infant may be born healthy, of a healthy mother who will live to care for her family.

Child-birth mortality is a standing reproach to this nation. Only a few countries, and those very backward, exceed the United States in this death rate. The organized endeavors that are being made for more enlightened care and treatment are deserving of every support, not only for the sake of mothers themselves, but for the future welfare of the race. The District of Columbia Medical Society and the Dental Society cooperate in public-spirited manner in the organization of Child Health Week. The local May Day chairman is Dr. Joseph Murphy, chief medical inspector of the public schools of the District.

PENSIONS FOR DESERTERS.

In vetoing the bill to grant pensions to 367 soldiers and sailors who can not comply with the general law, President Hoover wrote a message that ought to be printed in every veterans' publication. Congress voted to pension several deserters and others who were discharged without honor because of chronic drunkenness. A widow whose husband served eight days without suffering any disability was included in the benefit list. Disability compensation was provided for several soldiers who inflicted injuries on themselves in trying to commit suicide. All this under the guise of caring for the Nation's defenders who were injured in war!

Since 1927 the cost of benefits to veterans has been increased by 100 per cent. The public is curious to know how much of this increase is due to the extension of benefits to cases like those included in this special bill. It is common knowledge that much of the $1,000,000,000 that Congress allows to veterans every year is squandered on individuals who have no legitimate claim upon the Government.

Members of Congress take the attitude that the veterans' organizations must be appeased. They hand out a basket of plums, like the bill which President Hoover has just vetoed, on the theory that less pressure will be applied to major bills, such as the bonus. It is an outrageous practice which should be more fully exposed for the enlightenment of taxpayers. The surrender of congressmen to lobbyists of this special class is beginning to assume the proportions of a national scandal.

What can New York State Democracy do except to split its vote between two favorite sons, and thus help to beat them both?

The Senate banking committee skillfully reconciles its secret inquiry into bear raids with the necessities of first-page publicity.

The Senate finance committee can change its convictions on tariff items in the tax bill, even when it hasn't any.

Still Hanging Around.

POST HASTE.

Big-hearted congressmen, after immunizing their own $10,000 salaries from cuts, generously raise the amputation level for other Federal employes to one-fourth that amount.

As one aristocrat elucidating another, Gov. Roosevelt explained to the State executives that Washington, too, deigned to take notice of the "little man," Frank also diagrammed George's theory that theories are not practical unless put into practical effect.

The House and Senate are pulling together, the only difficulty being that they are hitched to opposite ends of the tax wagon.

One former and a present governor of New York have figured it out before now that two-thirds of the delegates necessary to nominate in a Democratic convention are 100 per cent more than the one-third required for stopping purposes.

When Democrats force not only tariff items but prohibitive tariffs into an emergency revenue bill, that is out-Smooting Hawley.

Cheap money advocates might have a look at the countries that wiped out from 80 to 100 per cent of their currency values through inflation, and see if they are in better shape than this country today.

PAUL HUDSON.

WORLD'S OLDEST REGIMENT.

London's Honorable Artillery Company, according to the New York Times, goes back to 1537, when it was incorporated with the name of the Guild of Artillery, to practice shooting with longbow, crossbow and handgun for the better defense of the realm. It has never been merely an ornamental organization. In the World War it maintained five batteries and two battalions on active service and supplied officers on other units. It won 42 battle honors and its roll of dead was 1,760.

Six acres, a part of Finsbury Fields, have for nearly three centuries been the training ground of the Honorable Artillery Company. Drills occur every week-day evening. Members of the regiment, mainly products of the public schools, are prominent in hockey and football competitions.

It is said that "no other combatant unit can boast unbroken traditions extending over four centuries." Some of the regiment fought in the wars of Henry VIII, others in the last defense of Calais. The regiment attended the funeral of Sir Philip Sidney. In the English Civil War they fought on both sides. They were at the funeral of Oliver Cromwell and greeted Charles at the Restoration. Longbows gave way to pikes and muskets. The bayonet was adopted when the army acquired it, and every new form of rifle found its place in the armory.

Children Never Use Bad Grammar if They Never Hear It.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE worth of teaching depends on the learning. That sounds banal, but it is a truism frequently overlooked.

Na amount of teaching can force an idea into an unwilling skull. The learner is the one who decides whether he shall learn. And he is by nature resentful of all efforts to force knowledge upon him.

The cave man was free of restraints. Anything that attempted to hinder or impede or direct or control him was an enemy. His natural and necessary reaction was instantaneous resentment. His life depended on fighting back. Hard necessity made resentment of all interference a race habit.

And the habit remains. Our reaction to anything that would coerce or direct us is an instinctive antagonism.

We resent the sign that tells us to keep out. We hate the things that are "good for us." A boy loses all interest in a book when told that it will improve his mind. "Thou shalt" or "you should" are words that arouse instinctive resentment because they threaten our liberties.

And thus it is that any effort to teach us seems a threat. It is an effort to put on harness. And instinctively we close the portals of our mind to defend ourselves against invading ideas.

Reason overcomes this instinct and a thirst for knowledge makes us receptive of ideas, but the young and the ignorant seldom are guided by reason.

Recently a popular writer said that most of the criminals in a certain prison had been given religious training in youth. The statement was untrue. Is a dog trained because its master once gave it an hour of verbal instruction?

A boy isn't trained until he learns. You can't teach him religion or honor by mouthing platitudes at him. He must absorb these things as he absorbs good manners and good grammar.

And the only way he can absorb them is in an environment that affords him constant example.

As we instinctively resent force, so by instinct we imitate; for we have a natural desire for the good opinion of the herd and this desire makes us conformists. Children mimic their elders as naturally as wild creatures do.

Imitation is the natural way to learn. By this method the young learn well, for they learn willingly. It does no violence to nature.

Teaching by precept is a foolish waste of energy unless fortified by example. A little showing is worth a great deal of telling.

If you would have ideal children, keep your tongue still and provide an ideal example for them to absorb.

And They're Sleepy.
Los Angeles Times.

Several Kinds of Pools.
Kansas City Times.

Testimony before the Senate committee is to the effect that John J. Raskob, William F. Kenny and others were engaged in one stock market pool that meant heavy losses and in another that brought substantial profits. The committee would like to ask Mr. Raskob and the others about that, about the whole question of operations. The committee is not familiar with market pools. But it undoubtedly knows all about the political pool that Mr. Raskob, Mr. Kenny and others formed in 1928; how that pool ended with a deficit, and how Mr. Raskob valiantly did his part in advancing loans to cover campaign expenses. The committee would not need to investigate that since it is public information. But it could send Mr. Raskob a note of sympathy.

Why Ask Uncle Sam to Do It?
Minneapolis Journal.

Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania has written to President Hoover urging that the law be amended in a way to permit expenditure of Federal aid funds on State roads outside the Federal highway system. Pennsylvania's most urgent need in the way of highways, he says, is for "additional roads of very much lower cost, built in rural districts for the direct purpose of getting the farmers out of the mud."

If Pennsylvania's farmers are in the mud, why does not Pennsylvania herself get them out, as Minnesota and many other Western States have been doing?

Mobocracy Coming?
St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Clinton W. Gilbert, who wrote "Mirrors of Washington," expresses in Collier's an apprehension that the next Congress is going to give the country a good taste of mobocracy. There is no reason why it should do so, and if a reason remains after the present session of Congress, it will be because privilege won the tax fight.

Candidates Prefer Popularity.
Kansas City Star.

Both parties should work together in balancing the budget and should share jointly "the responsibility and whatever measure of unpopularity" may follow the imposition of new taxes and reduction of governmental costs, Secretary Mills says in addressing the Daughters of the American Revolution in Washington. That is both the ideal and the patriotic view of it, but the fullness of this conception will be difficult of realization. The joint sharing of the unpopularity is a particularly Utopian idea; but the thought is creditable to the Secretary of the Treasury. Unfortunately, there will be no way to make it prevail, as Congress adjourns and as the members thereof go their several ways to drum up votes. It is the people who do the voting, and unpopularity isn't a good vote-getter in a spirited contest. The chances are that buck-passing will be substituted for the courage and frankness that ought to prevail on any unpopular and deeply controversial issue. A closer public scrutiny of the buck-passing practice would make it unpopular, too.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Independent Taxi Drivers Defended by Much-Traveled Reader.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The independent taxicab driver who ekes out an honest living by real work instead of standing on the corner, hat in hand, begging for charity, is to be saved from himself in the Capital City of the United States. He works too hard and too many hours, and the answer is that he should not be permitted to work at all.

Let him and his family exist on public charity while the large organized taxicab companies with many cabs meter out increased charges to the public.

Could anything be more absurd?

One of the largest taxicab companies here in Washington has a monopoly in Pittsburgh. There are no independent cab drivers there. The politicians do not permit it.

There a cab ride costs from 3 to 4 times as much per mile as it does here.

In Havana and in Mexico City, cities as large and larger than Washington, the flat rate in the city proper is almost exactly 20 cents. There are practically no cabs with meters, and distinctive colors, such as black or white or yellow, mean nothing. Owing to high import duties the cabs and gasoline cost much more than they do in the United States, but the independent cab drivers, controlled by excellent traffic police, seem to make out very well indeed.

But then, our Latin brothers of the south have not advanced so far that they consider it the government's duty to save the individual from his own folly, if his folly injures no one else. The result, of course, is there are few if any cab drivers living on charity. WILLIAM McENTEE.

"What Fools These Mortals Be!" Discussed Again.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Eli Appelbaum's letter must have been intended to stir the laughter of Shakespeare's friends.

The phrase against which he complains is not "a brazen defamation of the entire human race." It is not a defamation of anybody or any thing. It is just a delightful summary of the foibles of mankind and a useful corrective of the pretensions of the proud. "Lord, what fools these mortals be!" If Mr. Appelbaum imagines that the remark is inapt, he must be totally bankrupt of the sense of humor which Shakespeare had in such rich abundance and taught his followers to appreciate.

The inscription is not "over the foundation in front of the main portals" of the Folger Library, as Mr. Appelbaum says, but behind the fountain and statue of Puck on the west lawn of the building. And Puck is not any more a mythical character than Hamlet or Macbeth or any other of the bard's creations; and "Midsummer Night's Dream" is not one of the poet's minor plays. Finally, the inscription is not in any respect designed to represent "the quintessence, the fountain of Shakespearean wisdom." Mr. Appelbaum, apparently, has never read the play. Or else he is trying to tease those who have read it.

Reader Dislikes Gas Tanks and Devil's Eyes in Washington Monument.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I agree with the Southeast Citizens Association that the tanks of the Gas Light Company are an eyesore to the Anacostia Park section. I was shocked when I went to see the crab-apple blossoms, to see the indescribable ugliness of the view across the river, Congress and the National Capital Park and Planning Commission ought to go down there to see how the plans of George Washington and Maj. L'Enfant are desecrated by civic ugliness on a Federal park in the National Capital.

I thought the headquarters of the devil had been removed from the Washington Monument. The other night I saw his red eyes glaring at me again. The monument is so beautiful when it is illuminated and stands out white in the evening. Why deface a thing of beauty by having those ugly red lights in the top?

MEMORY.

Out of the friendships of our years,
what comes?
Not trinkets given of silver and of gold,
But memories of the book a comrade thumbs;
Some scene he finds it pleasing to behold.
A footstep on the walk; a bed of flowers.
Friends live in these through all our waking hours.

Lives are enriched by memories far more
Than by high fortune's favors. To the end
He leaves his presence safe within the door
Who once has paid a visit as a friend;
The hearth fire blazes and an unseen throng
Gathers to share the laughter and the song.

I sometimes think death gives them back to be Sublime companions for our common day.
Although no more their smiles our eyes can see,
With us who well remember still they stay.
The living suffer absence, but the dead
May walk with us the loneliest path we tread.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

Short Sleeves Demand Beautiful Elbows.

DURING the winter, long sleeves are called upon to hide unlovely arms and particularly red, rough elbows. But as winter turns to spring and summer approaches every woman knows that before long there will be a sudden change to frocks with short sleeves or no sleeves at all. A pair of red, rough, horny looking elbows are enough to spoil an otherwise dazzling picture of feminine loveliness in an evening gown. And during the summer, when everything is dainty, only soft, smooth elbows have any place in the beauty parade.

Elsie Pierce.

So let us start now to give our elbows the treatment which they deserve and which, alas, most of us neglect. A very good habit and a compensating one, pictorially speaking, is to treat arms and elbows at the same time and in the same way as you treat face and neck. If a softening, liquefying cleansing cream is used on face and neck, the elbows should have a little of it too, then patting with skin tonic will not only tone and stimulate the circulation but most skin tonics have very mild bleaching properties, too. A good, soft, nourishing cream is something the elbows really need. This should be massaged firmly, in a round and round motion, over the elbows every night before retiring, and the elbows may be loosely bandaged in old flannel so the cream will remain as long as possible to do its noble work of softening and lubricating the usually rough skin.

Hot Oil Soaking.

Once a week a warm oil (body temperature is best) soaking is splendid to soften scarfskin. Take two small bowls, pour a little warm oil (olive or mineral oil) into them and dip an elbow in each bowl for 10 or 15 minutes. Amuse yourself the while by reading, or better shut your eyes and rest. Continue this treatment every week until the elbows are very soft and smooth. Then you may eliminate the oil treatment and go back to cleansing and the skinfood massage every night. It will take just a few minutes.

When taking the warm cleansing bath at night do not hesitate to scrub the elbows vigorously. This will remove any dead, horny cells. The natural pumice stone may be used gently on the elbows to remove any scarfskin. This should be preceded by thorough cleansing and the emollient cream should follow.

Emergency Treatment.

Should you receive a last-minute invitation to attend an evening function and your elbows need an emergency treatment, try this: First, powder elbows generously. Then, using a wax depilatory (or epilator—such as used for removing superfluous hair from the face), melt a little of the wax in a small cup or pan, stir and apply according to directions, allow to set and pull off in the opposite direction from that in which the application was made. Then massage with a little emollient cream, allow to remain several minutes, and finish by patting skin tonic or a finishing lotion on the elbows.

If you wish to bleach elbows as well as arms, send for my freckle bulletin.

What Today Means to You

"TAURUS."

IF April 29 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:30 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3:30 p. m., and from 9:30 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger hours are from 6:30 a. m. to 8 a. m., and from 5 p. m. to 7 p. m.

The astrological influences spell gloom and discouragement on this date, but victory may be wrung from defeat through persistent and hard work. Social affairs will not be spontaneous successes, and more than the usual outside stimulation will be needed to create a good time and happy feeling.

The child born on this April 29 will have a sunny disposition, considerable self-assurance, a love of adventure and considerable nervous energy. It will have an abundance of elemental strength and raw material, and only a bright future, from both a material and spiritual standpoint, can be predicted for it.

Born on April 29 you are not a brilliant person, but you are blessed with a comprehending spirit. You have a substantial, rather than a facile, mind. You should be in some sort of business where you are in contact with human beings, not customers or lodgers. You must be of service to humanity in order to be happy; you want to feel that you are needed. You are a pioneer, not a standpatter; you look forward, not backward; you are willing to blaze the trail and to make your own experiments. You have considerable pride, but no self-pity. You are reserved but not self-conscious.

If you like a person you are uncritical and extreme in your loyalty, and you are capable of deep and genuine feeling. You, however, have a saturation point for abuse, and it is difficult for anyone to regain your good graces once they are lost.

You have plenty of grit, are able to grapple with difficulty, and to set yourself to conquer circumstances. From the stars, it is foreseen that you will not always be sailing in calm waters, but you never lose your nerve or allow your spirits to drop too low. You are destined to be the victim of unscrupulous and selfish associates. If you pass by your first loves, a happy marriage is in store for you with an understanding companion.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

The flowers that bloom in the spring, tra-la, and WHERE! (Dah-ray selections.)

NEW YORK, April 28.—The flowers that bloom in the spring, tra la—have something to do with the case. And where they bloom has a lot more.

If anyone doubts that artificial flowers have come back to the mode after a short but complete absence, they, he or she, has only to look around at the flowers here and there and everywhere, oh, so discreetly applied, of course, but nevertheless there.

I selected some flower points of interest to sketch for you today, all delightful, all seen on the very smartest women and in the very best collection. The harness-like one is particularly popular, the one sketched at the very lower left. And this harness continues around and crosses in the back, you know. In the center right, the ever-flattering and popular light top to the dark skirt, takes advantage of flowers of another shade—almost forgot to say that the gown was black, the top pink mousseline and the flowers vivid purple blue with black leaves.

One shoulder, or two, as you wish, in the flower game. As illustrated. And these are only some of the flower ideas! Earlier this week I sketched two others for you, flower ideas, I mean.

And flowers on hats! Deserve a whole article to themselves. Just be sure that you aren't too, too lavish with your selections, that is all. Today's flowers out-imagine nature, and seem to fit in with the mode moderne even better than the old lady herself.

* * * *

House tricks! Oh, delightful ones, things you have never imagined could be done to a house. Our very own ideas, these, too—ideas that we are using at Dawn Mirage this very minute. That's my new ranch, you know—and what I didn't discover when I started fixin' it up! The most interesting discoveries were put into a leaflet for you, because, it being spring, I just knew you would be needing to fix up the house. So if you will send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet which tells you how to make these things, I promise you that you will be delighted—and that all the family will be too. With the leaflet—and the results!

When to Wear What.

Coats usually short, and the preference to velvet.

Shoes of crepe or satin. Stockings so sheer that one wonders if they are there, and a pale rosy flesh tint.

Long gloves in suede, rose by preference. Bag in lace, closed with diamonds or rubies.

Blonde enamel vanity and cigarette case and holder. And jewelry of fine pearls, or little rubies.

And this will end our "What to Wear When" series. Remember, it is only the ideas of a Parisienne elegante I have expressed, not mine, my deahs. So you are at liberty to accept or reject them as you please.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

CYST ON THE WRIST.

A CORRESPONDENT wants to know about a rounded lump which has recently appeared just above his wrist. This is painless, seems to be at a standstill, causes no great inconvenience, but it shows plainly and, in some positions, it is very much in evidence. It is about the size of a pigeon egg when the hand is in one position; in others it seems to disappear. What is it? Is it a tumor or a cancer? What caused it to appear? Can it be cured? Will it interfere with the use of the hand?

This is a good description of a very common disorder. Nearly every person has a swelling of this sort at some time or other, somewhere or other. It is, of course, a tumor, since any swelling may be called a tumor, and this is a swelling. It is not a cancer, nor is it related to cancer. If these tumors were cancerous the human race would have been wiped out long ago. Since the tumor is very prevalent among lower animals, the process of wiping out might have extended well toward the insects.

The common name for the trouble is ganglion. In order to lessen friction the architecture of the human body provides for friction pads over bony points and ridges across which pass moving parts such as tendons. These structures, called bursa, are developed out of tendon sheaths. They are sacilike pads containing a fluid that might be compared loosely to lubricating oil. There are a multitude of these pads distributed around the body. They are similar in purpose to the lubricating cups found in machinery, but their great superiority lies in the fact that they work automatically. They do not require the services of engineers on 8-hour shifts and they belong to no union.

Occasionally they go wrong. Bursitis, or inflammation of a bursa, occasionally causes neuritis. Bursitis around the shoulder joints is one of the more frequent causes of neuritis of the arms. The swollen bursae that appear suddenly and with no recognised cause around the wrist, and are commonly known as ganglia, are of no particular importance. As a rule they disappear spontaneously, but they are not in a hurry about it. They never get very large nor do they seriously interfere with the use of the hand. Probably the cause is some mild injury that did not attract notice at the time of occurrence.

The old-fashioned home treatment consists in bending the wrist over the edge of a table in a way to make the ganglion prominent, and to fix it, and then strike it sharply with the edge of a book. The treatment has been used so often, has cured so many cases and has had so few accidents that it is popular and will remain so. Physicians sometimes draw off some of the bursal fluid and then inject a mild irritant such as is used in the cure of varicose veins. Sometimes they dissect out and remove the bursa. However, when a person with a ganglion goes to a physician for treatmnt there is about an even chance that he will be given the book blow treatment.

RAISINS AND SUGAR.

Mrs. J. K. B. writes:

1. Are raisins fattening?
2. Does the sugar in dried fruit cause skin blemishes?
3. Does the acid in oranges cause blemishes?

REPLY.

1. Probably not, practically. However, the sugar is fattening, so far as the supply goes.
2. Practically speaking, no.
3. No.

CLUB FINGERS.

J. L. writes:

1. What is the meaning of club fingers? I have had them for fifteen years. Some say it means tuberculosis.
2. I have a cough that is similar to the whooping cough, but it is not.
3. Why can't I gain weight? I eat an awful lot.

REPLY.

1. Club fingers are caused by chronic difficulty in getting enough air. It is found among those who have chronic asthma, including heart asthma, chronic bronchitis and chronic consumption.
2. Probably you have bronchial asthma. You should find out.
3. I presume your nutrition is poor because of your chronic disease.

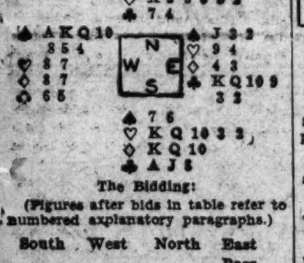
THE PENALTY OF AN UNDERBID.

UNDERBIDDING at the Contract table is a serious fault. Probably, if some mathematician were to keep a record of all the losses, visible and invisible, suffered from underbidding, the total would so amazingly overbalance the losses from overbidding as to cause the habitual underbidder to become the rashest of players and thus cause the present army of light bidders to become even die hards in their conservatism.

This is the story of a hand, played in a recent team-of-four Duplicate match at the Deschapelles Club in New York City, in which, through North's underbidding, a match was lost which determined the club championship.

East—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
			Pass
1♡	1♠(1)	3♡(2)	4♣(3)
4♡	4♠(4)	Pass(5)	Pass
Dbl.(6)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—With a passing partner and the bidding opened by the opposing side, West's best course is probably to defend the hand as well as possible and seek an early Double. The direct bid of four spades would be the alternative.

2—An underbid, at the root of the subsequent trouble. If North decides that the best course is to raise hearts, the hand contains more than enough playing-tricks to justify a Raise to game at once. A bid of four hearts would shut out East's club bid.

3—With a bidding partner, East's hand presents slight possibilities and these are shown by the club bid, which, by inference, implies a willingness to see the hand played in four spades.

4—Satisfied that opponents can score game and that the set should not be more than 2 tricks.

5—Obviously, the hand requires further action. Partner's Rebid and the strength held by North in the heart suit, clearly place honor strength in clubs in the South hand. This pass is a gross example of underbidding.

6—Misled by partner's inadequate Raise and by the failure to take any action after the four spade bid, South accepts a sure penalty rather than continue the bidding.

In the play, the contract was defeated 2 tricks, a penalty of 600 points, less 100 for the honors held. As the game was Duplicate, this was an entirely inadequate compensation. As a matter of fact, North and South have a Slam available at either one of two declarations—hearts or diamonds. The Slam should not be particularly difficult to reach in the bidding, which might well have gone as follows:

South	West	North	East
			Pass
1♡	1♠	4♡	Pass
5♡	Pass	6♡	Pass
Pass	Pass

With the direct Raise to game, South's hand is fully strong enough to suggest the possibility of a Slam, provided North has anything further to say. North, under these circumstances, would have something further to say. North knows that there is but one spade loser and this South probably does not know. With this bidding, which is both safe and sane, but free from the bane of underbidding, the makable Slam might well have been reached.

Today's Pointer.

Tomorrow's Hand.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

PROPAGATING DELPHINIUMS.

THERE is one phase of the culture of delphiniums which I believe many amateurs do not understand. Old seeds never germinate. So sow only fresh seeds. Some advise soaking the seed for 24 hours before sowing, claiming that this will hasten germination.

At their third year of growth delphiniums are usually at their best, after which they should be divided.

There is a question about the time of doing this work. Most commercial men divide their plants in the spring when growth starts. It is exceedingly necessary to do this work in the spring where soils are abnormally wet, for, in that case, fall planting is a trifle dangerous. In the fall delphiniums almost always divide poorly.

Another question on which experienced growers fail to agree is whether there is any real advantage to be gained in cutting back plants after they have finished blooming. One authority of national importance tells us to "keep faded spikes cut out to prevent seeding and cut down nearly to the ground when done blooming. Do not force their second growth, but allow a period of rest, then in August more bonemeal may be applied, being careful not to destroy the fine surface-feeding roots and water generously for a second display." This is the usual advice and the method, I believe, most often followed, but another authority strongly advises against this treatment, believing they had best not be cut back so severely after flowering because the leaves contain much food which should naturally return to the roots. His advice is merely to cut the stems below the developing seed capsules.

The delphinium has, in the past ten years, become one of the most popular of all perennials for the hardy garden.

PLANS INTERESTING WEEK-END MENUS.

FIRST, for tomorrow night a supper menu, the main part of which is to be eggs stuffed into green peppers by way of a baked pepper innovation. And with this we have planned to serve breaded cauliflower, one of the nicest manners in which to serve this vegetable, by the way, and a prune custard for the meal's termination. So here's the menu in the usual order, with our Sunday menu preceding it.

SUNDAY'S DINNER.

Grapefruit Halves Radishes
Scallions Rolled Shoulder of Lamb
Pan-Roasted New Potatoes
Scalloped Asparagus
Tomato and Watercress Salad
Pineapple Dream Coffee

SATURDAY'S SUPPER.

Peppers Stuffed with Eggs
Breaded Cauliflower
Grapefruit Salad
Prune Custard
Ice-Box Cookies
Tea

Peppers Stuffed With Eggs.

Select one large green pepper for each person to be served and allow one egg to each pepper. Mix together one cupful cooked rice, one cupful of carrots and string beans, a seasoning of chopped onion and a dash of red pepper. To this mixture add one whole egg, unbeaten, and mix it in well. Cut pointed end from each egg, remove yolks and mash. Season as for deviled eggs and stuff the egg whites. Place a little of the rice mixture into the center of parboiled green peppers and place the stuffed egg on top of the mixture. Carefully force more of the rice mixture around the sides of the eggs and up over the top, entirely filling the peppers. Bake and serve with a Welsh rarebit sauce, a cream sauce or garnish with parsley.

Breaded Cauliflower.

Wives of Tomorrow

—FRANCES McDONALD—

THEY LIKED HIS VIEWS.

DEAR MISS McDONALD: Three cheers for "Lover of Women!" is the kind of man I consider a real man, and they certainly are few and far between!

In fact, I have failed to meet any so far that could measure up to my ideas of what a real man should be. I admire him most sincerely.

Most of the men I know and meet are rather stupid creatures and for that reason they do not attract me.

I am 23 years old and never have had any love affair, or even real friendships with the opposite sex, for the simple reason that I am disgusted with our young manhood!

I do not smoke, drink, &c., and therefore am extremely unpopular with the boys, although I do not consider myself a "prig," because if other girls want to indulge in the so-called good times, that is entirely up to them. I won't.

It seems very much to me that such is the type the young men of today choose, and more or less ignore the more sensible type.

I am not the worst looking person on earth, and, considering beauty is only skin deep, and love and successful marriages mean more than smoking, drinking, &c. I hope to meet some one some day that will think the same as L. of W. does.

"Lover of Women" is my idea of a real man and has all my admiration.

DOUBTFUL.

Dear Miss MacDonald: I have been a constant reader of your column. You sure do give some wonderful advice. I am a young woman of 20 with a very settled mind, having lost out on my first marriage. I have often wondered if there is such a thing as a real man. I do not go to dances, wild parties, smoke or drink. Very seldom go with any men, so my experience is not so much. I do not wish to praise myself, nevertheless my love is all for the man who proves himself a real man. I have read the letter of the young man of 26, signed "A Lover of Women." According to his statements and my estimation, he is a real man and my ideal.

TRUE BLUE BLONDE.

So the young man is "elected." That is fine. Did you read his second letter? He wants you to tell him what you consider a "Real Woman?" And he promises a very prompt return to the column with his views on the young man of the day! So sharpen the pencils and fill the pens, for he will expect some response to all his interest. You know some of you girls need a little shaking up mentally. It is a good and salutary thing for you to hear what men are thinking about you. This lad declares that every married man he asked concerning marriage had only disappointment to report. That is worse than terrible. He says they one and all declared that if they could only be free they would never marry again. Why? Why should a woman be so different after marriage? Why should all the glamour die? When people in court tell us of their disillusionment we always recall a summer afternoon when we were about 7. Mother took us to see a dear old friend who was German. We were barely settled when a maid appeared with a tray of refreshments which my childish eye catalogued as delicious-looking vanilla ice cream and luscious yellow cake. Being warm and tired we dove right in. And no words can tell our horror. For we had never tasted pot cheese with sour cream, nor could we believe there could be concocted such a viand as the cheese cake in which we tried to sink our chagrin. We almost wept at the discoveries of that summer afternoon.

And as the tearful and the vengeful pass before us now we often remember how we felt when our ice cream turned to pot-cheese! It is so sad when life goes sour!

So get to the pen and tell why Love regrets, and marriage fails. And what you consider makes a man sorry he married.

NEW LAW ON BUSES EXPLAINED BY TICER

Criticism Leads Alexandria Mayor to Issue Statement on Regulation.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Mayor Edmund F. Ticer, of Alexandria, yesterday issued a statement relative to the ordinance adopted by the city council last Thursday in connection with the routing of buses in and through the city, which has caused much criticism, culminating in the circulating of petitions asking that the council repeal the ordinance and give the citizens and competing bus companies an opportunity to be heard.

It is claimed that the ordinance, if placed in effect, will put the Blue line, or Alexandria-Washington buses, out of business, and create a monopoly of bus traffic for the A. B. & W. line, owned and operated by Robert L. May.

The statement sets forth that Ordinance No. 115, regulating bus transportation, was enacted by the council after very careful consideration of the transportation problem. It is claimed, however, by opponents of the ordinance, that such consideration as was given the ordinance was done in executive session, from which the public and newspaper representatives were barred, and the ordinance was introduced and passed at one meeting, no previous notice having been given the bus companies affected, or the general public.

"The State corporation commission," the statement continues, "has granted to the A. B. & W. Bus Line what is known as a Class 'A' certificate, by virtue of which it is given the exclusive authority to engage in intrastate transportation of passengers between the City of Alexandria and the District of Columbia line. Should a showing be made before the State corporation commission that the public convenience and necessity in this area requires an additional carrier, the commission would grant an additional certificate. The carrier known as the Alexandria-Washington Buses has been authorized to engage only in the interstate transportation of passengers. The State corporation commission has no jurisdiction over interstate traffic and could not prevent such an operation. Ordinance No. 115 does not prohibit the operation of the Alexandria-Washington buses. It merely requires these buses to operate over the same streets and highways as all other interstate carriers, thereby eliminating the present dangerous traffic condition, and restricts that company's operation to that class of bus transportation originally contemplated by the company itself."

A mass meeting of the Alexandria commuters will be held in the Maury School building at 8 o'clock tomorrow night, presided over by Harry F. Kennedy, president of the Alexandria Commuters Association. The public has been invited.

The party of 27 governors who met in Richmond at the invitation of Gov. John Garland Pollard of Virginia and yesterday visited Fredericksburg and Mount Vernon, were entertained at tea yesterday afternoon in historic Gadsby's Tavern, Alexandria. Most of the governors were accompanied by their wives and children, and others members of the party brought its number to approximately 100.

An address of welcome was delivered by John Barton Phillips, chairman of the men's entertainment committee, and a short response was given by Gov. Russell of Georgia. The old tavern, which is the home of Alexandria Post, No. 24, American Legion, was inspected by the party and its history explained, after which tea was served by a committee headed by Mrs. Elliott F. Hoffman.

Harry K. Green, of Clarendon, grand master of Masons in Virginia, last night paid an official visit to Alexandria-Washington Lodge, No. 22, of which George Washington was the first worshipful master, in its lodge-room on Cameron street. The lodge also celebrated the 144th anniversary of its institution as Alexandria-Washington Lodge, No. 22, under the Virginia charter, it having previously been known as Alexandria Lodge, No. 39, operating under a charter from the grand lodge of Pennsylvania.

Charles H. Callahan, past grand master of Masons in Virginia, was the principal speaker. Dr. S. Nelson Gray, master of the lodge, presided.

A delegation of members of Mary Washington Council, No. 4, Daughters of America, will leave by bus from the corner of King and Pitt streets, Alexandria, for Fairfax, where they will attend the district meeting and the order with Providence Council.

During the past five weeks, according to a report made by E. E. Carver, manager of the United States Employment office of Alexandria, 301 persons have been provided with work through the agency of that office.

Funeral services for Mrs. Anne Elizabeth Smith, 98 years old, who died Wednesday at the home of her niece, Mrs. A. T. Courtney, 614 South Lee street, Alexandria, after a long illness, will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Courtney, and burial will be in Union Cemetery. Mrs. Smith was the widow of Noble L. Smith.

Jamaica Tourist Tax Defeated.

Kingston, Jamaica, April 28 (A.P.).—The Legislative Council today defeated a proposal to impose a tax of $2.50 on each tourist visiting the island. The opposition argued that such a tax would injure the tourist trade.

Veterans' Bureau Slash Is Opposed

Opposition to reducing the Veterans' Bureau appropriation by $30,000,000 as planned in the omnibus bill now before the House on the ground that it would force upon the destitute war veterans the payment of the foreign debt interest and deprive them of their meager compensation at a time when they most need it, is voiced in a resolution adopted by the Montgomery County Council of American Legion Posts.

The resolution points out that the Government has granted a moratorium to foreign nations on interest payments on war debts for one year and that $2,000,000,000 has been voted to the aid of the bankers of this country.

The council also decided to support the Social Service League drive for funds which begins May 1, provided the league will set aside a portion of the funds collected for relief of former service men and permit a committee from the council to act as advisory committee on distribution of funds to service men.

FARM FIRE SPREADS, JURY AWARDS $700

W. H. Fulks Gets Verdict Against Neighbor in Montgomery County.

9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md.
Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

After 15 hours' deliberation, a jury in Montgomery County Circuit Court yesterday awarded damages of $700 to William H. Fulks against his neighbor, Remus D. Riggs, of Laytonsville, Md., whom, he alleged, had permitted a fire to get out of control and burn property on the Fulks farm.

Through Attorney F. Barnard Welsh, Fulks alleged that on September 2, 1930, a fire started by Riggs to burn over a field spread to his adjoining property and burned down a barn and destroyed sundry equipment. He asked for damages of $6,000. Riggs, through Attorneys Whiteford and Cissel, contended the fire had not started until 24 hours after he had extinguished the fire on his own property.

Dr. J. A. LeClerc, of Takoma Park, yesterday directed Bryan G. Davis, clerk of the town, to withdraw his name from the ballot for town election Monday. Dr. LeClerc, who had been nominated for member of the Town Council, said the withdrawal was because "certain considerations, mostly of a personal nature, have arisen since my nomination on Monday night that will make it impossible for me to serve, even if elected."

This leaves the three incumbents, Peter Remsen, R. G. Sherburne and Irvine H. Ware unopposed for reelection.

A hot battle is being carried on between Mayor Ben G. G. Davis and Frederick L. Lewton, candidates for mayor.

Closing of the road from Redland to Derwood to travel because of construction work on the road was ordered yesterday by the Montgomery County commissioners. Although yesterday was the hearing date for appeals on new assessments, there were no complainants to appear before the board.

Hearing on the suit for injunction filed by Richard M. Osborne and Harry G. Howes, seeking to restrain the Montgomery County commissioners from paying an additional $14,000 to R. G. Rankin & Co., who recently made an audit of the county books, is scheduled for today in Montgomery County Circuit Court at Rockville. The plaintiffs are represented by Attorney F. Barnard Welsh.

The law firm of Whiteford & Cissel, counsel to the county commissioners, will oppose the suit.

McBride Suspect's Plea Passed Over

Man Convicted on Charge of Assault on Wife in Prince Georges.

Among those whose appeals from police court conviction were passed over yesterday in Prince Georges County Circuit Court were Temple Biggs, recently released from jail when the grand jury ignored charges that he was accessory to a murder, and L. S. Rohrer and Joseph P. Tierney.

Biggs was arrested in connection with the murder nearly ten years ago of Barney McBride, wealthy Oklahoma oilman, but the grand jury did not indict him. Rohrer, formerly proprietor of the Lone Star Inn, a roadhouse, is in the hands of the Federal authorities on liquor charges. He also appealed from conviction on liquor charges.

Tierney was convicted in police court of driving while drunk and reckless driving. He appealed, but the driving-drunk case was passed over and because the State's chief witness is a nonresident and could not be reached, the reckless driving charge, brought by a policeman, was dismissed. A liquor charge against Joshua Woods, brought into circuit court on appeal, was nolle prossed, but he still faces another charge of the same sort. Augustus Chaney was convicted of assault and battery on his wife, Annie, after a jury trial.

Fairfax D. of A. Council Meeting Set.

Fairfax District Council, No. 1, Daughters of America, will meet this evening in Fairfax as guests of the Providence Council. The scheduled speakers include Mrs. Maude Crump, past State councilor; Mrs. Viola Dale, treasurer of the State Council; Miss Mary Hirst, of Herndon; Mrs. Mary Robey, of Alexandria, and Miss Bessie Blincoe, of Cherrydale.

ARLINGTON CRUSADE NETS COUNTY DRIVER

Two Arrested on Charge as Clean-Up Movement Is Begun.

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 500. Clarendon, Va.

Waging war on the dumping of trash on private property, Sheriff Howard B. Fields, of Arlington County, reported two arrests yesterday.

D. W. Wheeler was arrested by Officer Ernest Miller and charged with dumping along the Pershing Drive. Officer Miller arrested also W. A. Munger, who, it is alleged, dumped trash along Glebe road. The police report Wheeler was operating one of the county trucks when arrested.

Despite pleas by Munger, who maintained that he did not know dumping was a violation of the law, he and Wheeler are both summoned to appear before Judge B. M. Hedrick today.

Sheriff Fields last night reiterated his determination to stop dumping trash on private property in an effort to cooperate with the county-wide clean-up campaign committee.

Suit for $10,000 damages has been filed in the Circuit Court of Arlington County against Israel K. Hartstein, Brooklyn, N. Y., on account of the death by automobile of Henry H. Rodgers, jr., of Fredericksburg, Va. In addition to the suit, Hartstein's car was attached for the alleged damages of $1,000 to a truck in which the child was riding at the time of the accident.

The suit was filed through Attorneys F. B. Coleman and W. M. King, both of Fredericksburg, by Robert B. Payne, administrator of the child's estate. The father of the child is employed by Mr. Payne.

The child was killed instantly last Saturday morning when the truck on which he was riding with his father, overturned after colliding with the car occupied by Hartstein and his wife at the Virginia end of the Key Bridge. Rodgers was returning to Fredericksburg with a load of cement while Hartstein and his wife were returning to their home from Chattanooga, Tenn.

Due to the illness of Rodgers, the hearing for Harstein, who is held on a technical charge of murder, before County Judge B. M. Hedrick, has been set for May 23. Hartstein is at liberty on $3,000 bond.

Systematic effort on the part of Charles T. Jesse, county treasurer, to collect taxes has been so successful that, despite the fact that no money has yet been received from the bonding companies to cover alleged shortages in the office of former County Treasurer E. Wade Ball and former County Clerk William H. Duncan, the county will be able to carry on its normal functions through May without borrowing, Manager Roy S Braden stated yesterday.

Since March 1, a total of $80,061.71 has been collected, the major portion of which is real estate taxes.

County Manager Braden said the monthly pay roll, which will be presented to the county board tomorrow, will be approximately $20,000.

Firemen to Study Ordinance.

A special committee of the Hyattsville Fire Department will meet tonight to consider the proposed town ordinance strengthening the control of the department by the town council. The committee is headed by C. E. Trott and consists of Chief Noble Rushe, Lloyd Anderson, E. A. Davis, E. Dorrelle and C. A. Proctor. Later the fire department committee will meet with the fire committee of the town council in an attempt to iron out objectionable portions of the law.

THIS new building is the symbol of the modern tendency in store construction. I, as constructing engineer, feel that I have completed a job well done. The plant is made so as to be scientifically perfect. Its excellence in design, created by the prominent architect, ALBERT ATKINSON, OF WASHINGTON, embodies such ultra-modern features as electric refrigeration from a central plant, a glass-enclosed sector for cutting and preparing meats at a temperature of from 50 to 60 degrees, fireproofing, and the total elimination of vermin.

The walls of the building are of limestone and brick and reinforced concrete. A sanitary market shed for farmers is an added special feature. Above all, we have seen to it that there shall be plenty of light and fresh air. This is a primary consideration wherever food is handled.

A pilgrimage to the tomb of George Washington at Mount Vernon and a tour of the loan exhibit of pictures at the Corcoran Art Gallery were Bicentennial ceremonies of the National League of American Pen Women's convention yesterday afternoon.

After the gates of the vault were opened a wreath was placed on the tomb by Mrs. Grace Thompson Seaton, retiring national president of the league, and impressive ceremonies were then held under the direction of Mrs. Charles Fisher Taylor.

Mrs. Clara Keck Heflebower, newly elected national president, read "Washington's Prayer for the United States of America."

Kiwanians Drink Toast to Hoover

Canadians Always Honor King George at Board, Fulkerson Says.

What may become a Kiwanian custom was initiated yesterday at the luncheon of the Washington Kiwanis Club in the Raleigh Hotel. A toast with tinkling glasses of ice water was drunk to the President of the United States.

The action was proposed by Roe Fulkerson, past president, who said that Kiwanians in Canada always toasted the king at their banquets. He read a special greeting from President Hoover to the local group.

John J. Boobar, also past president, read a message from Premier Bennett of Canada. President Edwin P. Hill presided.

THE THEATER

The Mikado.....William Danforth
Nanki-Poo.....Howard Marsh
Ko-Ko.....Frank Moulan
Pooh-Bah.....Herbert Waterous
Pish-Tush.....Allen Waterous
Yum-Yum.....Hizi Koyke
Pitti-Sing.....Ethel Clark
Peep-Bo.....Mabel Thompson
Katisha.....Vera Ross

The Civic Light Opera Company last evening opened the second half of a week of Gilbert and Sullivan classics with the old favorite, "The Mikado," before a meager but extremely enthusiastic audience.

Although "The Mikado" has been seen in Washington times without number the interpretation of the well-known score as given by these players leaves nothing to be desired. Without exception all have fine voices and are admirably suited to their respective roles. The acting is surprisingly good and the costumes and settings form a colorful picture.

Frank Moulan, as Ko-Ko, is easily the outstanding star. His interpretation of the Lord High Executioner is faultlessly played and his parodies on "I've Got a List" and "Madrigal" were the hit numbers of a superb performance.

Herbert Waterous, who can boast a splendid bass voice, played Pooh-Bah. Howard Marsh, as Nanki-Poo, handles his role well. The Mikado is exceptionally well portrayed by William Danforth and his solo number, "My Object All Sublime," called for many encores. The part of Pish-Tush was taken by Allen Waterous.

Dainty Hizi Koyke appeared in the role of Yum-Yum. She has a splendid soprano voice of unusual range and is naturally well suited to her part.

Katisha is played by Vera Ross and Ethel Clark and Mabel Thompson are Pitti-Sing and Peep-Bo.

School Children's Dental Clinic Slated for Today

Hundreds of Washington school children will receive free dental examinations today and tomorrow, which will be followed by treatment throughout the year until the defects are corrected, under plans worked out for the May Day child health program by the District of Columbia Dental Society. More than 100 dentists have volunteered their services for this work, Dr. Harold W. Krough, chairman of the May Day committee, said yesterday.

More than 600 children received this free treatment last year, Dr. Krough said, and from the number of dentists volunteering this year he hopes to see an even larger number receive treatment. Transportation for the children will be furnished by members of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Dental Society, of which Mrs. Charles T. Bassett is president.

SOVIET BAR IS URGED BY PATRIOTIC GROUP

Board of Coalition Favors Deportation of Alien Communists.

Continuance of America's refusal to recognize Soviet Russia was emphatically indorsed in a resolution adopted yesterday by the advisory board of the American Coalition of Patriotic, Civic and Fraternal Societies, meeting at the Carlton Hotel.

The resolution also urged the "strengthening of the immigration laws to prevent the admission of Communists into this country, and provide for the deportation of alien Communists now in the United States."

Earlier in the day the group, which embraces 78 organizations, was addressed by Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur, Senator Connally, of Texas; Senator Ashurst, of Arizona; Representative Albert W. Johnson, of Washington, and Mrs. William Sherman Walker, former chairman of the national defense committee of the D. A. R.

Secretary Wilbur said that "our ideal of majority rule" comes into conflict with the need "of control by the elected or selected expert, who alone is capable of guiding our involved and elaborate governmental mechanism through its many difficulties."

"This has brought to a point," Secretary Wilbur said, "where our American ideals must take a more practical form. There has been too much spread of power to those untrained for the task to be met. Theorists are on every hand. Propagandists shout from every newspaper column and from every platform."

He declared the United States is in the midst of a period in which "we must be practical, must meet issues as they are, not as we would like to have them."

First Lady Plants Girl Scouts' Tree

She Is Aided by Wilbur in Better Homes Week Ceremonies.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover, in her capacity as honorary president of the Girl Scouts of America, yesterday officiated at tree-planting exercises on the lawn of the National Girl Scouts' "Little House" at 1750 New York avenue northwest. The tree, a baby redwood from California, was planted as a feature of "Better Homes in America Week."

Assisting Mrs. Hoover were Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, and Mrs. Wilbur. Dr. Wilbur is also president of the Better Homes in America movement.

Others at the ceremonies included Mrs. William Brown Maloney, Dr. James Ford, Mrs. Frederick H. Brooke, Mrs. Henry H. Flather, Mrs. B. F. Cheatham, Mrs. Garrit S. Miller, Mrs. Adolphus Statton, Mrs. Bruce Horsfall and Mrs. G. L. Bowman.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

IT is reported from Hollywood that of all the foreign actresses imported to the film capital for screen roles, Ronald Colman's new leading woman is far and away the most exotic.

Anna Sten is, of all of them, the most nearly a "stranger in a strange land." Although Hollywood knows her through her work in several Russian and German films seen in this country, she knows little of Hollywood and practically nothing of its stars.

Born in Kiev, Russia, 22 years ago, Miss Sten is one of the first actresses to have risen to fame under Soviet rule. She was a child during the revolution. Her father later was killed in one of the civil wars that followed the downfall of the Czarist regime and her life became a real struggle in which thoughts of the theater had to be abandoned temporarily to give way to the quest of food for her mother and baby sister.

From dancing and pantomime in children's productions she came finally into the films through a Stanislavsky State-endowed company and at 15 was on the screen, although real success did not arrive until she joined the Sovkino companies. "The Yellow Ticket" made her famous.

After that, she and her director, Feodor Ossip were sent to Berlin to make more pictures for the Soviet. A change in plans permitted her to make "The Brothers Karamozov," for which she learned German in four weeks; then a French version, for which she learned enough of the language in two weeks. She knows no English and speaks only Russian and German. For her role in "The Way of a Lancer," she will be compelled to learn her lines in a language completely foreign to her. She has already proved her ability to mimic English speech without an accent.

Slender, rather tall, Anna Sten has silky yellow hair, blue-gray eyes and a fine, sensitive face. She is neither a sophisticated nor a worldly-wise type. In most of her previous roles she has played the seductive siren, but she has never worn pretentious clothes for them.

Her husband, Dr. Eugen Franke, a Russian, is with her in Hollywood. In Berlin he is an architect and lawyer. They have no children.

Miss Sten had never heard of Richard Barthelmess, who was on the boat and train that took her to Hollywood. Neither had she seen Garbo nor most of the Hollywood stars of today. She had never heard of Florenz Ziegfeld the glorifier of beauties, until she passed through New York.

She and her husband are sightseeing with eager curiosity in these first days in Hollywood—while Samuel Goldwyn is counting heavily on her to duplicate, once she has settled down to work, the success of Vilma Banky and other of his foreign discoveries.

Well, Sam has always been a pretty shrewd judge!

It may truthfully be said that what the famous Flonzaley Quartet did for chamber music, the Kedroff Quartet has done for vocal. There is no group precisely like them on the American concert stage today. It has required long years of practice and devotional work to achieve the heights they now have reached. Led by N. N. Kedroff, the quartet's founder, the sole aim of the four has been to attain perfection—that minute perfection that might mark the technically flawless playing of four stringed instruments—combined with unity of interpretation.

This famous ensemble of Russian singers will make their farewell concert appearance in America, in Washington this afternoon in the National Theater at 4:45 o'clock. The program is presented under the auspices of the Community Institute of Washington as an extra attraction of the spring music season in the Capital City.

It must have been at least three years ago when this column dwelt at some length upon the musical precocity of a youth by the name of Master Theodor Podnos, young son of Alexander Podnos, well-known Washington violinist and former conductor. Master Podnos had just won the Chauncey Brooks violin scholarship at the Peabody Institute Conservatory of Music in Baltimore.

The epilogue is to be written now. Last evening Theodore Podnos, aged 14, presented his scholarship recital at Peabody, having completed the three years' study of violin, under Frank Gittelson, star pupil of Carl Flesch and former student under Leopold Auer, piano and harmony. "Teddy" executed a program that would have done credit to an Elman, a Heifetz or a Kreisler in its intricacy and classic proportions. The composers represented were Grieg, Sonata in C minor; Vieuxtemps, Concerto in D minor; Sarasate, Romanza Andaluza; Mozart, Minuet, and Wieniawski, Russian airs.

The youngster was accorded an ovation for the brilliance of his execution and the keen interpretative intelligence displayed in the rendition of so commanding a catalogue of standard works.

While this musical achievement has been in progress, Teddy has kept abreast of his baseball playing, his fun with the kids in the neighborhood, and has successfully managed his regular school work, being at present a sophomore at Central High.

Here, if I may make the suggestion, is a youngster that will bear watching. When he is a celebrated concert artist you will be glad I told you.

The noted Ukrainian Chorus and Ballet, under the joint direction of Alexander Koshetz and Vasile Avramenko, will make several appearances in Washington in addition to its scheduled Bicentennial program in the Washington Auditorium Sunday night.

On Sunday afternoon at 3, they will give an elaborate presentation on the Monument Grounds, when Representative John W. McCormack, of Massachusetts, will deliver the introductory address. At the evening performance at the Auditorium, Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York, will be the speaker.

On Monday morning at 11, the chorus and ballet will present a performance especially planned for the entertainment of the patients at Walter Reed Hospital.

"On your toes!" is an admonition that few of us take very seriously. But Dick and Edith Barstow did. Dick and Edith have been playing at the Earle this week and demonstrating beyond peradventure of doubt that they are entitled to the claim of world champion toe dancers.

It has just been brought to my attention that it was Dick Barstow whom John Hix, the youthful draughtsman, pictured not so long ago in his "Strange As It Seems" series of cartoons, jumping from a height of 5 feet and landing on the tips of his toes. I understand Dick has been doing this for years and still retains all of his toes intact.

Well, he can have it!

So just as soon as we put in the eight more tons of coal, it turned hot again!

VINES AND ALLISON EXTENDED TO DEFEAT CANADIANS; NATS SHOW BATTING PUNCH IN 10 TO 4 WIN OVER MACKS

REYNOLDS AND WEST LEAD 15-HIT ATTACK; WALBERG BATTERED

A's Southpaw Yields 3 Runs in First Inning; Manush Gets Homer Inside Park; Nats Now in Second Place.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

CONNIE MACK'S henchmen seem to have the same effect on the Washington batters as a red rag does to a bull, the result being that the Nationals yesterday again showed power with the bat, hammering George (Rube) Walberg and Jimmy De Shong for 15 hits and a 10-to-4 decision. Oddly enough, it only has been in the last four games against the A's, all of which have been won, that the natives have shown any semblance of the punch promised by them in their training camp workouts. The victory, coupled with a loss by the Tigers, put the Nats in second place.

Carl Fischer, the young southpaw, started on the hill against the Men of Mack, but he came a cropper in the seventh and gave way to Fred Marberry, who finished out the string in fine order, retiring the seven men who faced him in quick succession.

While Fischer received credit for the victory, it was another Carl—Reynolds—who made the biggest hit with the fans. He cracked out three clean liner-singles his first three times up, was hit once, and then was robbed of a fourth safety by Al Simmons, who turned in the best catch of the day to rob Reynolds of a 1.000 mark for the afternoon.

Manush Gets Homer On Fine Sprint.

Sammy West also was credited with three safeties, with Buddy Myer, Joe Judge and Roy Spencer getting two each. Heinie Manush had to be satisfied with one, but it was a real clout and the big left-fielder broke some sprinting records in making a round-tripper of it. The sphere went almost on a line to the angle to the left of the score board and, even at that, Heinie might not have completed the circuit had Williams not made a double-pass to the weak-armed Boley after taking the return peg.

Despite the one-sidedness of the score, it was a ball game during the first half. The Nationals jumped into a three-run lead in the first and the A's reduced the margin one in the third. Then the Nats got this tally back in their half and started marking time. When the aliens counted once each in the fourth and fifth they were right on the natives' heels and it was here that the Nats showed they were not fooling and stepped out again, tallying three more runs in the sixth.

Fischer Replaced By Marberry.

When, with two dead in the seventh, Heving, who singled, doubled and tripled during the game, inserted his two-bagger and Simmons and Foxx followed with successive singles, Fischer was derricked and Marberry toed the slab and just breezed through over the balance of the route.

Myer opened the game for the home boys with a single to center and advanced on a passed ball. West singled him home, Cronin walked, and then came one-shots by Reynolds and Judge which scored a man each.

Two were out when the Mackmen broke the ice in the third, Haas' single and Heving's triple doing the damage. An error by Walberg helped the Nats retrieve this in their half. It was a weird heave over first while fielding West's scratch hit. Then up stepped Reynolds with his second single to let his fellow outfielder dent the dish.

Myer's Error Helps Macks to Run.

An error by Myer, which was sandwiched between singles by Foxx and Boley, gave the Mackmen another run in the fourth and they were only one down when Heving singled and Simmons tripled in the next session.

It was not until the sixth that the Nats stepped out again, although two singles were wasted in the fifth. Bluege led off with a single and quickly scored on Spencer's double. The latter advanced on Fischer's sacrifice and checked in after Haas' catch of Myer's long fly. Manush picked this spot for the insertion of his homer.

All of the other scoring was packed

Shikat Again Victor Over Pinetzki

Throws Polish Matman in Auditorium Feature.

THAT ponderous Polish pachyderm, Leo Pinetzki, brought his batting average against Dick Shikat up to .000 from .00 last night at the Washington Auditorium when he succumbed to the potent former mat champion after 22 minutes through the medium of a back body drop.

It was pretty much of a repetition of the last two shows the giant and the mastodon have put on. Shikat, 219 pounds, proved a mighty midget next to the lumbering 276-pound carcass which the North Pole carries around. Shikat worked mostly on the eight-foot arms that confronted him, and escaped even having his hair mussed by the clumsy weavings of the man mountain.

The only vestige of an advantage held by Pinetzki was the customary body flipping which proceeds the downfall of matmen. He threw Shikat around on some presentable flying mares, but as he lumbered forward to do the trick all over again, Shikat pinned the giant's arms and pulled him heavily over his head, grounding his yard-wide shoulders.

Bout Not Greatly Appreciated.

It was not very much appreciated. Most of last night's anxiety for the crowd of nearly 4,000 came in the Fred Grobmeier-George Manich match, which Grobmeier won in 28 minutes after both men lay stiff in the middle of the ring from their exertions. The two threw each other around incessantly during the entire stretch of the match. About five minutes from the end they were so wearied they lay on their backs apart from one another and Referee Bortnick was faced with the dilemma of making a decision, but a little at a time they got back on their feet and went on with the brawl. Manich gave up on a figure four scissors hold, helped along by a nice left to the jaw.

Cubs Beat Cards For 6th Straight

Stage 6-Run Rally in 7th for 12-7 Victory Over World Champions.

Chicago, April 28 (A.P.).—The Chicago Cubs failed to get their usual brand of good pitching today, but produced enough socking power in two innings to defeat the world champion Cardinals, 12 to 7, and run their winning streak to six victories.

GOMEZ HOLDS RED SOX TO 3 HITS

Southpaw Is Brilliant in Third Straight Victory, 5-1.

NEW YORK, April 28 (A.P.).—Vernon Gomez, the Yankees' Spanish southpaw, pitched a brilliant game today to defeat the Boston Red Sox, 5 to 1, for his third straight victory.

Gomez set the Sox down with three hits, struck out six and tossed out five more at first. He also drove in the final New York run with a double. Lou Gehrig drove home the first two Yankee tallies with a triple and single off Danny MacFayden.

Sharkey to Train At Pompton Lake

New York, April 28 (U.P.).—Jack Sharkey, of Boston, notified Madison Square Garden today that he had selected Pompton Lake, N. J., for his training camp, where he will prepare to meet Max Schmeling, heavyweight champion, in their title bout. Sharkey will begin training May 7 and Schmeling will arrive at his camp, near Kingston, N. Y., May 10. The 15-round bout is scheduled for June 16 at the Garden's new stadium on Long Island.

LEVINSKY TO CLASH WITH WALKER

By CHARLES DUNKLEY.

CHICAGO, April 28 (A.P.).—King Levinsky, in his march down the road that may lead to a world's heavyweight championship match, will encounter the fiery Jersey bulldog, Mickey Walker, in a ten-round battle tomorrow night in the Chicago Stadium.

The prospect tonight, judging from the advance sale, is that a crowd of 20,000, with possibility of a sell-out, will jam the stadium. Receipts may reach $75,000.

The bout is a milestone in the career of both Levinsky and Walker, a fight that neither can afford to lose. Sentiment favors Walker, but Levinsky will enter the ring with youth, height, weight and perhaps condition in his favor.

Walker's First Bout Since Last Fall.

That does not mean that Walker is not ready for a desperate encounter. It is because Levinsky's condition is known to be good, whereas Walker is engaging in his first important bout since last fall when he went fifteen rounds to a draw with Jack Sharkey, in a bout that the referee and the majority of the experts at the ringside thought Mickey had won.

Walker is depending upon his stout heart, plus his experience in ringcraft and his ability to punch powerfully with either hand to reward him with victory. Walker will rely upon a body attack, a style of fighting that may bother Levinsky.

Levinsky will go into the ring weighing about 197 pounds with Walker scaling 170. There is almost as much difference in their ages as there is in their weights. Levinsky is just 21 years old against Walker's 31.

G. U. PREP NETMEN WIN.

Georgetown Prep's tennis team got back on the winning bandwagon yesterday when it scored a 4-1 victory over Friends in a hotly contested series of matches at Garrett Park.

Collins, of Red Sox, Says Yanks and Nats Strongest

By GAYLE TALBOT.

NEW YORK, April 28 (A.P.).—On the theory that a fellow who has been punched about by three lodge brothers knows in his own mind which of the three hit him the hardest, John (Shano) Collins, of the Boston Red Sox, should qualify as an expert on the American League race.

He says the Yankees, then Washington, then the Athletics. The Yanks hurt the worst.

"What a murderous bunch that is," he moaned today. "They look like one of the hardest hitting teams our league has seen in years. Serve them anything but the very best pitching, and it's just too bad. Probably it will be too bad, anyway.

Yankees Require Little Pitching.

"The way they're hitting now, they don't need much pitching. If they keep it up, nobody's going to stop them. Give them one pitcher like Danny MacFayden, over there, and it would be just a breeze.

"The Senators? Well, they're going to make a real race of it, especially if their pitching holds up the way it has against us. They're a better balanced club than either the Yankees or the Athletics.

"As for the A's, I'm like the other managers—afraid to count them out. It's a cinch they won't stay where they are. They'll be in the fight, and it will be between those three. The others haven't a ghost of a chance."

Compares Own Club With West's.

In Collins' opinion, his own club is as strong as any of the Western entries, including Detroit and Cleveland. He believes the Sox will come right along, once they get away from the East's big three. He expects to finish as high as sixth, at least.

3,000 to Vie In Carnival At Penn

Decathlon Feature of Today's Events in Track Meet.

PHILADELPHIA, April 28 (U.P.).—Three thousand of the country's best high school, prep school and college athletes tonight anxiously awaited the starting gun of the thirty-eighth annual Pennsylvania relays, due to open tomorrow on Franklin Field.

The relays, official opener of the Eastern 1932 track and field season, will serve as a tryout for many of the Olympic aspiring youths who came here to compete in the two-day meet.

Among those whose recent work has stamped them as good bets to wear the stars and stripes at the Olympiad this summer are Jack Keller, Ohio State star defending his 120-yard high hurdles record; Clarence Munn, of Minnesota, shot-put champion; Earl Beatty, of Michigan Normal, holder of the 400-meter hurdles title; Joseph McCloskey, of Fordham, entered in the 3,000-meter steeplechase; Ted Lee, of Yale, in the Pole vault; Bill O'Connor, of Columbia, in the high jump, and George Williams, of Hampton, in the javelin throw.

Decathlon to Open Carnival.

The Decathlon, which has drawn eight all-around track and field stars, will open the carnival. In this event, Fred Klauer, of Colgate, who finished second last year, and George Munger, of Penn, who finished third, are expected to fight it out for the title with Joseph Ford, of Florida. Other entries in the Decathlon include Ray Moncus, of New Mexico; C. H. Saxe, of Colgate; H. Pohl, of Delaware; J. Delaney, of Villanova, and H. Brownlee, of Westminster College.

The outstanding event will be the 1-mile relay championship of America, which will bring together the same four Eastern teams which thrilled a capacity arena at the annual indoor intercollegiate championships this past winter.

New York University, intercollegiate champion, will be facing the same Pennsylvania four that finished a bare 2 feet behind them in that memorable indoor race which featured the running of such fine an-

Browns Triumph Over Tigers, 5-4

Detroit Outhits St. Louis but Blaeholder Keeps Blows Scattered.

St. Louis, April 28 (A.P.).—George Blaeholder allowed the Detroit Tigers eleven hits today, but the visitors were able to make them count in only one inning and the St. Louis Browns won, 5 to 4.

Three Tiger hurlers held the Browns to two less safeties, but concentrated hitting gave the Killifermen scores in two frames and the series opener, after they had lost three in a row to Cleveland.

Bruce Campbell, outfielder obtained from Chicago White Sox, made his first appearance in a St. Louis uniform, but he failed to connect in his four times at bat.

Allison-Van Ryn Pair In Net Doubles Today

Needing but one match to clinch victory in the first round of the American Zone of the Davis Cup play, Capt. Bernon S. Prentice, chief of the United States net forces, has named the national doubles champions, Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn, to represent the Nation in today's doubles match at Chevy Chase, at 2:30 o'clock.

Fighting for a chance to stay in the running, George H. Meldrum, veteran dean of Canadian tennis, yesterday nominated Dr. Jack Wright and Walter Martin to stop the rampaging Americans. Martin's aggressiveness was the basis for his selection over Marcel Rainville, admittedly one of Canada's two best singles players.

An exhibition singles match, participated in by Ellsworth Vines and Frank Shields is expected to follow today's doubles.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

THE Dominion of Canada, represented by the strong right arms and innate tennis sense of Dr. Jack Wright and Marcel Rainville, yesterday produced most unexpected competition for America in the first round of the Davis Cup matches, but the manner in which American tennis players hit tennis balls so that they stay hit gave this country both matches and a 2-0 lead.

Canada's most surprising opposition came in yesterday's second singles match when Dr. Jack Wright, rounding out a decade of Davis Cup service for his country, pressed our national champion, Ellsworth Vines, to five sets before yielding, 8—6, 3—6, 6—4, 3—6, 6—2, while a gallery of 2,000, largely made up of Washington's diplomatic and official life, alternately groaned and cheered at the spasmodic play the dour Californian produced during the match.

Allison Winner In Straight Sets.

America scored its first victory and, incidentally, the first Davis Cup victory, in a season which will bring more than 25 nations of the world into court conflict, when Wilmer Allison, leading citizen of Austin, Tex., defeated Canada's chief hope for future recognition in tennis, Marcel Rainville, 6—2, 6—4, 6—4, in a match which might well have been won a bit more decisively had the Texan chosen to storm the net and cut off the crafty returns of the diminutive Canadian on the fly.

Vines was alternately as brilliant as a 2,000-watt bulb and as listless as last month's lettuce while achieving his five-set victory over the dapper Dr. Wright. The 30-year-old great man of America's amateur players scored the enormous total of 65 burning outright placements and 14 more demiplacements, which Wright could only tip.

MARMION, AT $60 MUTUEL, WINS GRAW 3-YEAR-OLD RACE

Pending Runs Second to Outsider

Voltagreen Sets Own Pace to Win Sprint by a Length.

By WALTER HAIGHT
(Post Staff Correspondent).

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, April 28.—The Coldstream Stud's Marmion shocked some, surprised others, and meant $60 for each $2 bet to a select group among the 10,000 fans attending the races here today. Marmion picked no mean spot to display winning form and left Pending, English Knight and other big stake candidates struggling in the stretch.

Pending, the favorite, managed to salvage second money for the Greentree Stable, while the short end went to High Proof, the property of Charlton Clay.

The day was marked by much-to-do at the barrier, and the feature—the Elkridge—was no exception. Starter Milton finally got the field away in good fashion.

Portden, English Knight Set Early Pace.

Portden and English Knight did the bulk of the early front running. Marmion was laying in third place and Pending fifth as the boys banked the clubhouse turn. Pending began to move up going along the back stretch, while Mel Lewis, on Marmion, kept his charge steady.

The brakes went to the floorboard on English Knight at the far turn Portden was still in front. Marmion and Pending made moves on the stretch turn and Portden faded out of the picture. It was then Marmion and Pending, and Lewis managed to hold his advantage to the end. High Proof won the private battle with Daisaburo for third money.

Danny McAuliffe continued his clever riding by piloting Stroll Along home ahead of the 2-year-olds that faced the barrier in the opener. Stroll Along raced in front with Peeved until near the stretch turn where Peeved fell back. Keltwick and Gallic moved up in the stretch. Peeved came again and appeared at least second best before being bumped. Gilbert pulled up sharply to avoid falling.

Essare, veteran gelding which walks to the barrier in the morning like a cow and becomes a tiger in the afternoon, won the second race. Glenside was second and Tinita third.

Essare Delays Start Of Second.

Essare delayed the start for some five minutes, going through all the bad barrier manners in the book. Even after ordered to the outside, the gelding defied three assistant starters. A twitch finally did the trick. Essare was as fast as he was balky and won easily.

Squeeze Play, of the Goff entry, took the third from Sir Byron and Faylin in a stretch duel that saw the My Play gelding pull away at the finish to beat Sir Byron by a length, with Faylin in third place.

Voltagreen led from start to finish in the fourth race for the higher class platers. Sergt. Donaldson made repeated efforts to displace the Volta filly and lost second place to Fiddler in the last few yards.

War Saint proved a worthy favorite in the sixth, stepping down in front of Bagiel and Bob Shannon. War Saint was always a factor and drew away when Hanford asked.

The seventh went to Gloria Maris. Star Lassie was second ahead of Worthington.

Prince Hotspur In Fast Workout

Louisville, Ky., April 28 (A.P.).—The best speed exhibition of any Derby candidate training here was credited today to Prince Hotspur, nominated by the late Joseph Leiter, of Chicago. Prince Hotspur reeled off a mile and an eighth in 1:53 4-5, and finished handily. His time for the mile was 1:39 3-5. He was not extended to the limit.

W. E. Knebelkamp's Delivered, which has been suffering from a crack in the left foreleg heel for several days, was officially declared out of the Kentucky Derby today. Delivered will be thrown out of training for perhaps two weeks, but later may be prepared for the Latonia Derby.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ESSARE, $8.90, $4.40, $3.50; GLENSIDE, $4.70, $4.00; TINITA, $10.20.

ESSARE, unruly and delaying the start, broke from outside the barrier, was sent into the lead when entering the back stretch and, rated along while saving ground, was never in serious danger. GLENSIDE, following close up, went to the outside when making his effort and closed with good courage. TINITA, slow to get going, worked her way up on the outside and finished stoutly. TORCHFIRE, well placed in the early racing, weakened when the real test came.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SQUEEZE PLAY (entry), $5.30, $2.80, $2.30; SIR BYRON, $3.60, $3.00; FAYLIN, $3.80.

SQUEEZE PLAY, breaking from outside the barrier, was forced wide at the first turn, worked his way up gradually when reaching the back stretch, wore the leaders down midway of the final elbow and, holding on with good courage, outstayed SIR BYRON. Latter, rated close up and, going in good form, responded gamely and was wearing the winner down slowly. FAYLIN, a keen factor from the beginning, raced ALL COLUMBIA into defeat and held on well in the closing stride.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:20. Off at 4:22½. Winner, Nevada Stock Farm's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—VOLTAGREEN, $6.50, $3.40, $2.30; FIDDLER, $3.60, $2.30; SERGEANT DONALDSON, $2.20.

VOLTAGREEN, having the most early speed, went into an easy lead, was steadied along until straightened into the home stretch and had enough in reserve to withstand FIDDLER when shaken up. FIDDLER, given a breathing spell midway of the turn, came determinedly when put to a drive and was wearing the winner down slowly. SERGEANT DONALDSON, kept under pressure from the start, made a stout effort when approaching the home stretch and then finished gamely.

FIFTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,400; allowances. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:50. Off at 4:56. Winner, Coldstream Stud's ch. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MARMION, $60.00, $13.80, $5.50; PENDING, $2.70, $2.30; HIGH PROOF, $4.00.

MARMION, a stout factor from the start, and racing in improved fashion, wore the leaders down when entering the home stretch and, holding on gamely approaching the finish, outlasted PENDING. Latter, taken under slight restraint early, moved up on the inside and was in tight quarters rounding the second turn, secured racing room during the stretch run and closed willingly. HIGH PROOF moved up on the outside and closed gamely. DAISABURO broke very slow out of hand, trailed far back for six furlongs, swung wide into the home stretch and finished full of run.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:25. Off at 5:32. Winner, F. G. Two-dollar mutuels paid—WAR SAINT, $4.90, $3.10, $2.50; BAGIEL, $4.90, $2.80; BOB SHANNON, $3.00.

WAR SAINT, prominent soon after the start, displaced BOB SHANNON when leaving the back stretch, was kept under pressure and gamely withstood BAGIEL. Latter broke from the outside, entered contention midway of the far turn, came through on the inside of the leaders during the stretch run and was going steadily at the end. BOB SHANNON, hurried into the lead, continued with good courage when overtaken.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 6:00. Off at 6:03. Winner, Mrs. W. GLORIA MARIS, rushed stoutly to take command, was steadied in front, shook off a bold effort from FETISH and, kept under pressure, held STAR LASSIE safe. Latter worked her way up on the outside, responded with good courage and was racing stoutly at the finish. WORTHINGTON, sent into a forward position, finished gamely when placed to punishment. FETISH, prominent for the first seven furlongs, weakened during the final furlong. SILVERY appeared sore and was never able to reach a forward position. EAR FULL raced well. FRIAR CLIFF was outrun.

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK.

DEAR AL:

Missed a good bet on Peeved. The stewards called Jockey Eddie Watters to the stand after the race, but no action was taken. Keltwick bumped Gallic and Peeved in the stretch and erased their chances to win. Bill Irvine is undecided about sending Springsteel to the Derby. Boatswain is working fast at the Preakness route. Elmer Trueman has decided Ladino is not good enough for the Derby. Glenn Riddle Farms is Jockey Gilbert's new boss.

Provided you have the time and what it takes, get down on these.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—CORRYMEELA was made a favorite and ran a satisfactory race behind Tinema at Bowie in her only racing test. Unless there is something exceptional among the first-time starters, I expect to see the daughter of Colin get out of the maiden class. HUT broke far back last time and is

Old Line Nine Pummels White

Indians' Star Southpaw Wild and Ineffective.

Both Teams Ragged Afield; Bob Wilson Steals Home.

TWO wild southpaws started the ball game for Maryland and William and Mary yesterday at College Park, but only one of them participated in the finish, and he, strangely enough, took the beating.

Fortunately, Maryland had Steve Physioc, a right-hander, to replace Ray Davidson when the latter's southpaw shoots shot everywhere but the proper place, and Steve pitched right smartly the last seven and one-third innings, while his mates clubbed Carter White, the Indian left-hander, for a 14-to-4 victory. It was Maryland's fourth win in a row and balanced the Old Line ledger for the campaign so far.

Defensively, Maryland was no more effective than William and Mary, the Old Liners committing five errors. However, their fielding deficiencies were almost negligible as compared to White's ineffectiveness and his own poor support. The Indians also made five miscues, while White, in addition to granting 14 hits, hit one batter, walked five others and let loose three wild pitches. The one redeeming feature of his efforts was that he struck out nine.

Misses Madison and Holm Retain National Honors

OLYMPIC STADIUM, Los Angeles, April 28 (A.P.).—Two of the Nations' leading Olympic hopes, Miss Helene Madison, of Seattle, and Miss Eleanor Holm, of New York, successfully defended their national A. A. U. indoor women's swimming titles today in the opening events of the four-day races.

Miss Holm, representing the New York Women's Swimming Association, won the 300-yard medley test with ease, finishing ten yards ahead of her closest rival in 4 minutes 27 2-10 seconds.

Seattle Mermaid Nearly Beaten.

The Seattle mermaid, applicant for sixteen world's records, had a close call in the 100-yard free style race, defeating Miss Josephine McKim of the Los Angeles Athletic Club by less than a foot in 1 minute 2 4-10 seconds.

At the end of the first two events team honors were in a three-way tie. The New York Women's Swimming Association, defending its title, Washington Athletic Club and the Los Angeles Athletic Club each had six points.

Miss Holm took a slight lead in the first 100 yards of the medley, which was raced in breast stroke style, but built up a comfortable margin in the second 100 yards, swimming in back stroke fashion.

Crabbe Has Walkaway In 1,500 Meters.

Clarence (Buster) Crabbe had a walkaway in the 1,500-meter free style event for men in the Southern Pacific A. A. U. championships, winning by 40 yards from Manuella Kalili, his teammate of the Los Angeles A. C.

Tomorrow's events in the women's championships include the 400-yard relay and the 3-foot springboard diving in the afternoon and the 100-yard breast stroke championship in the evening.

Capital City Insect Teams Meet Tonight

The insect division of The Post's Capital City League will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the office of the Playground Department at the District Building, to discuss plans for the impending season. At least eight teams are expected to seek the championship now held by the Washington Orioles. The Post will again offer gold baseballs to the members of the winning team.

As in past season all league games will be played on Saturday. The race last season was one of the closest and most enjoyable in the history of the loop. Not until the final game was played did the Orioles clinch the pennant. Any boy who will not be 15 years old before midnight, June 1, is eligible to compete.

G. U. Prep Golfers Win From Mt. St. Joseph's

Georgetown Prep School's golf team resumed its winning ways yesterday, trouncing Mount St. Joseph's, of Baltimore, 10 to 0, in a match played at Garrett Park yesterday. The winners were never hard pressed by their opponents.

Finn defeated McCarrity, 6 and 5; Nee defeated Quinlan, 8 and 7; best ball, Georgetown, 7 and 5. Allen defeated Collins, 6 and 5; Donoghue defeated Sutter, 6 and 4; best ball, Georgetown, 4 and 3. Zubrod defeated Vaeth, 5 and 4; Carey defeated McCrohen, 8 and 7; best ball, Georgetown, 6 and 4. Dettweiler defeated Dougherty, 10 and 8.

C. U. Ends Grid Drills With Game Tomorrow

A regulation game of football will be played tomorrow afternoon between picked teams of the Catholic University squad in Brookland Stadium, starting at 2:30 o'clock. The public is invited free of charge to the game, which will mark the close of the Cardinals' spring gridiron practice.

IN THE WAKE OF THE GAME

"PROF." MONTE WEAVER and George Earnshaw, who met in a mound battle here last Sunday, which the former won, will be pitching rivals again this afternoon at Griffith Stadium. Weaver will be seeking his third straight victory over the Mackmen and, if he is successful, it will be the Nats' fifth in a row over the dethroned world's champs.

A large gathering is looked for today as ladies will be admitted as guests of the club for the first time this season.

The trade between the White Sox and Browns, which sent Pitcher Irving (Bump) Hadley and Outfielder Bruce Campbell to St. Louis in exchange for Infielder Ralph (Red) Kress, shows how fearful are American League magnates of taking a chance on helping a team which is rated high in the race. Last July, the Nationals offered the Browns Hadley and one of two or three utility men for Kress and Phil Ball couldn't think of such a deal. Now he goes through with it as soon as Hadley goes to another second-division club.

The Youngstown Club, which is a minor farm of the Nationals, has been promoted in standing. It has left the Middle Atlantic Class D League to enter the Central Class B circuit, a newly organized wheel which includes clubs in Ohio and Indiana.

Pete Ball, a lanky right-handed pitcher, who hails from Clarendon and who has been hurling for the St. Mary's Celtics, is trying for a berth with the Nationals.

Instead of practicing with the Nats yesterday morning, Shortstop Joe Cronin paid a visit to his physician and had his sinus trouble treated. He took Johnny Kerr, who has a mild attack of the same trouble, with him.

Johnny Heving caught for the Mackmen yesterday, Connie Mack giving Cochrane a rest. Sounds odd this early in the season, what?

Cronin went to deep short to end the third with a stop and rifle peg to nip Simmons at the doorway. Heving was crossing the plate at the time.

Dykes lost Judge's pop in the sun in the third, but recovered the ball in time to force out Reynolds at second.

Myer's boot in the fourth was costly. With Foxx on first, Dyke's hot grasser looked like a sure double-play ball until the second-sacker let it skid off his glove. The muff helped the A's score a run.

Williams wandered around in circles while chasing Manush's pop in the fifth, but finally snared the ball.

Manush did not have a chance afield until Williams lined to him opening the seventh.

In the eighth, Simmons came in fast to make a good catch of Reynold's near Texas Leaguer, which looked to be a fourth hit for him as the ball left the bat.

Bluege did not have a chance afield until he tossed out Heving to end the game.

play of tennis Vines committed the stunning total of 137 errors, including 10 double faults, a dubious feat which, combined with Dr. Wright's gallant steadiness in the face of withering fire, made up a match tense enough to hold interest through its entire duration.

Ten years seniority weighed heavily upon Wright in the fifth panting set when the American played his most consistent and sprightly tennis of the match to score victory by the count of 6—2. It was pretty close to the Vines of last year's glorious newspaper accounts, this fifth set, but through many other portions of the match the welter of tennis players in the audience took almost secret satisfaction from the manner in which the ranking No. 1 player of this broad land netted easy shots.

Never in his ten solid years of play has Dr. Wright produced the game he displayed yesterday, according to George H. Meldrum, captain of the Canadian net forces. Wright had the steadiness of a block of marble and utilized it throughout, bowing only when Vines would crackle over his shots with such furious speed and unerring placement that the combined alacrity of seven jackrabbits could not have come near enough to the ball to reach it with their combined ears.

Vines Unleashes Furious Rally.

Vines gave inclination of lack of interest early in the match when only by becoming thoroughly aroused was he able to take the first set by 8—6.

With the score 5—4 against him, Vines threw aside his cap and began to hit the ball unbelievably hard. He stowed away two overhead smashes that rattled the metaphors in the press box stand as they struck that frail edifice with lambasting speed. He broke his racquet on the second. Wright simply stood by as he tied the score, 5—5. Vines immediately sent four shots far out of court for 5—6, but volleyed like fury to tie it 6—6 on his own service. He ripped open Wright's consistent, high bounding delivery with a couple of backhand drives that caused followers of the game to swoon away in their bleachers and, suprisingly enough, held his service for 8—6.

The next three sets saw him touching the depths of despond and the zenith of zeal with a precision that bardered on the mechanical. He netted shots that would have caused Joe Doakes, 2d, to burn his racket, and he made shots that Tilden can only dream about. But facing him was a man who was running miles and working like a Trojan, and Wright was rewarded by winning two of the following three divisions of play.

It was all Vines in the last set.

chors as Harry Hoffman, of N. Y. U.; Billy Carr, of Penn; Bernie McCafferty, of Holy Cross, and Horace Whitney, of Colgate.

Big D. C. College Entry Today and Tomorrow

Capital college athletes will make a stronger bid for honors in the Penn Relays today and tomorrow in Philadelphia than at any time in the last five years. Georgetown is to be represented by 12 men participating in seven events; Catholic by seven men in five events and Maryland by five men in two events.

Al Kelly, Georgetown's former 70-yard indoor sprint champion, and Walter Kowalonek, a Hilltop sophomore, are entered in the 100-yard dash which has drawn a stellar band of runners. Vic Burke, captain of the 1931 Georgetown track team and the national 440-yard hurdles champion, is to compete in the 400-meter hurdles. In the relays, quarter, half, mile and sprint medley, Georgetown will have Burke, Jim Kelly, Mars, Briggs, Carlin and Connelly. The Hilltop also has entered a freshmen mile team, composed of Curry, Mitchell, Quirk and DiPasquale.

Catholic's squad headed by Capt. Gayle McGuigan will compete in the same relays as Georgetown. McGuigan is accompanied by Lyons, Barkley, McDonald, Hickey, Campbell and Fraatz.

Maryland will be represented by Willard Piggott in the 400-meter hurdles and by Quinn, Reichel, Sonen and Cronin in the mile relay.

EASTERN AND CENTRAL PLAY

School Title Likely to Hinge on Game This Afternoon.

THE most important game in the current high school series, and probably the most important in the last three years of scholastic baseball, will be played today at 3:30 o'clock at the Eastern Stadium when Eastern and Central battle for the series leadership and possibly the 1932 championship.

Really fighting for the title, which is something of a heritage to Eastern teams, the Light Blue is regarded as the underdog today. Central has won its only two games in impressive fashion. It stopped Business, no set-up, in the opening game, 10-5, and then eked out an 8-6 10-inning victory over Bill Payne and Western in its second.

Eastern's lone series victory was scored at the expense of Tech, and the Lincoln Parkers looked none too impressive in disposing of their rivals.

Two of the best of a fine looking crop of schoolboy pitchers will be opponents today. Lanky Dick Lanahan, whose southpaw twirling has held opposing sluggers spellbound for the last three years and who appears to be even better than ever this year, will do the flinging for Eastern. Emmett Buscher, a rugged youth, will toe the mound for the Mount Pleasanters. The largest crowd of several seasons is expected to witness the game.

NO HITS OFF HOFFMAN.

With "Heine" Hoffman, former Eastern High School ace, hurling no-hit ball, Second National Bank defeated the Bank of Commerce & Savings nine, 11-1, in the opening game of the Bankers League yesterday. The fray was halted at the end of the seventh inning because of darkness. Bennie Way shone at bat, connecting for four hits in as many trips to the plate.

DIAMOND DUST FROM THE SANDLOTS

JOE TUCCI put the thought that lurks in the minds of all umpires into words when he said that 75 per cent of the sandlotters now playing baseball are totally ignorant of some of the most important rules of the game. Tucci umpired a game recently in which a simple play occurred that upset the orderly proceedings of the fray.

Team A had a runner on second base. The batter knocked a ground ball between second and third, which the shortstop attempted to field. In advancing, the baserunner momentarily halted to avoid being struck by the ball and thereby retired. The shortstop became confused by his action, as the ball narrowly escaped hitting the runner, and made an error, both runners being safe. The manager of Team B, or the team in the field, immediately demanded that Tucci call the first baserunner out, contending that he was guilty of interference, and when Joe refused he immediately began to look around for a suitable tree from which to suspend Tucci's swarthy carcass.

The incident riled Joe no little. "Did they pay you for umpiring?" he was asked after the game. "Heck, no," he replied, "I didn't even get thanked."

And still they wonder why innocent spectators at sand lot games refuse to volunteer for this task, and why association umpires must be paid for their efforts.

It looks very much like the reign of the Fire Department team over their Police rivals will end this season when they meet in their annual game. Frank Watt, who twirled for Jersey City and the Philadelphia Nationals last season; Eddie Colliflower, another moundsman of no mean ability, and "Tubby" Ault, a first-rate catcher, will be pounding the bricks as coppers before very long.

"Lefty" McIntire, one of the more temperamental southpaws, and one who can throw permanent, finger or marcelle waves when he is in the mood, will wear the uniform of City Cab in the Capital City League this season.

"Tubba" Farrell's Rockville Athletic Association is out after big game. The team has booked two games with Federal Storage, one Saturday and the other Sunday. Federal Storage, one of the most promising of the unlimited teams, has the impressive record of 70-odd runs in a trio of games.

Earle Moser's eyes have failed to respond to treatment as well as expected and it is feared that he will not be back at the helm of the Federal Employe Unionists for another month. Earle, however, has arranged to have Bruce Kessler pilot the team until he returns. Kessler needs no introduction to sports followers of this city. He will assume his new duties at a drill to be held tomorrow at 2 p. m., on diamond No. 4 of the Monument Grounds. A game for Sunday is wanted with a team having a diamond. Those interested should call Metropolitan 0357, or Columbia 1669.

The Wonder Bread Midgets will cross bats with Thompson's Furniture Co. Midgets tomorrow at 1 p. m., on the South Ellipse diamond. All players are requested to report promptly at 12:30.

The Franc Jewelers will practice today at 3 o'clock on diamond No. 3 of the Monument grounds. Tomorrow they meet the Horning Jewelers on the same diamond at the same time.

The Sanico Bakers are seeking a game for Sunday with a strong unlimited club. Teams interested should call Manager Augie Geiger at Lincoln 1444 during the day.

MERGING THE ARMY AND NAVY.

THE House committee economy bill proposes to consolidate the Army and Navy Departments. No more drastic proposal has ever sent swivel chairs into a backspin.

• • • •

It is proposed that the Secretary of War and Secretary of the Navy be abolished and succeeded by a Secretary of National Defense. This job will obviously call for a man who has shown his ability to cheer both teams in the Army-Navy football classic and who looks well on horseback carrying a pair of oars.

• • • •

No Secretary of War? Who will open the meetings of the Daughters of the American Revolution? Who will review those parades of the Richmond Blues, Putnam Phalanx and the Old Guard? Who will answer editorial attacks on the President?

• • • •

No Secretary of the Navy? Who'll make the arrangements for all those newsreel battleship pictures? Who'll answer the accusations of the Navy League and American Defense Society? Who'll rebuke Admiral Sims?

• • • •

We'll just have to have a Secretary of War and Secretary of the Navy. What'll the annual Army-Navy football game seem like without them?

• • • •

The next step may be to merge the Army and Navy, requiring that every soldier learn to row a boat and compelling every sailor to sleep in a trench and like it.

• • • •

This idea of merging may go too far. It may result in a squadron of motorcycle policemen being assigned to escort the Pacific Fleet through the Panama Canal, and official orders designating the Mayflower for the position of honor in the parade of the Sixty-ninth Regiment up Main street.

• • • •

The whole idea comes as a terrible shock to established bureaucracy. Some of those boys have been occupying swivel chairs so long that their removal requires blasting operations.

• • • •

It is really an engineering problem to dislodge them intact.

• • • •

THE economy bill calls for the shakeout of the century. For one thing it takes away the Saturday half holiday from Federal employes and insists that they hold their basket picnics in the office.

• • • •

It calls for economy in the Government printing department, thus killing all chances of a colored supplement and cartoons in the Congressional Record.

• • • •

It even puts steamship inspectors back to work. Could injustice go any further?

ACACIA MUTUAL LIFE WILL PAY $1,281,000

Votes Sum as Dividends to Policyholders; Rapid Progress Cited.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

A dividend to policyholders for 1932 amounting to more than $1,281,000 has been voted by the board of directors of Acacia Mutual Life Association, William Montgomery, president, announced yesterday. He explained this dividend represents the usual average annual increase of approximately 6 per cent of that paid individual policyholders.

"It is extremely gratifying for Acacia thus to be enabled to give to its policyholders the substantial results which have come out of its earnest efforts during a difficult period," President Montgomery said.

"In the face of adverse business conditions generally, this action of Acacia must be viewed as most significant. We believe thoroughly that a continuation of Acacia's traditional policies of sound, careful management will enable the association to make further substantial headway during the current year."

Cites First Quarter Report.

Statistical proof of Acacia's uninterrupted progress is to be found, Mr. Montgomery indicated, in reports submitted to the directorate for the first quarter of 1932.

"It is of especial interest," the Acacia executive states, "that for the first three months of this year the association's assets increased by more than $1,000,000. Assets now total well above $48,000,000. Another significant figure is that covering income for the first quarter, which stands at more than $3,250,000.

"During that same period, more than $1,500,000 was paid to policyholders and to beneficiaries. It is noteworthy that of this total, more than $1,000,000 was paid to living members in cash values, matured endowments and the like. Clearly, the position of the association amply justifies the liberal dividend action of the board."

Report of State Heads.

In a joint report on the condition of Acacia, heads of insurance departments of the States of Indiana, Tennessee, North Carolina, Virginia and the District of Columbia make the following concluding statement:

"The association has enjoyed a healthy growth and the examiners wish to commend the management for the excellent results obtained. We believe the underwriting and investment policies of the association to be fundamentally sound and that its affairs are being faithfully, efficiently and economically managed."

Acacia, of which Mr. Montgomery has been directing head for almost 40 years, is a highly constructive force in the life of Washington. More than 400 persons are employed in its home office at First street and Indiana avenue northwest. More than 1,200 persons are on its staff throughout the country.

BETHLEHEM STEEL DEFICIT $3,685,769

First Quarter Operations Hit by Foreign Dumping, Grace Says.

New York, April 28 (A.P.).—The Bethlehem Steel Co. had an operating deficit, after interest charges, depletion and depreciation allowance, of $3,685,769 in the first quarter compared with a loss of $1,776,938 in the last quarter of 1931, and net income of $1,941,942, equal to six cents a share on the common, in the first three months of 1931. The corporation today declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the preferred stock. The common dividend was omitted four months ago. The preferred dividend is payable July 1 to stock of record June 3.

Bethlehem's first quarter income, before charges, was $1,431,657, compared with earnings of $3,485,700 three months ago and $7,551,977 a year ago.

Operations at 23.4 Per Cent.

Operations averaged 23.4 per cent of capacity in the first quarter, again 30 per cent during the fourth quarter last year and 50.8 per cent in the first three months of 1931.

Orders on hand March 31 were valued at $35,372,318, against $41,514,877 on December 31 and $65,803,609 on March 31, 1931.

Eugene G. Grace, president, said in regard to present business prospects: "It appears that the downward trend has been decidedly wrecked. I don't like the term 'hitting the bottom,' but it appears at the moment that business is no longer falling. Prices are holding very well. In fact, this is one of the encouraging features in the present situation."

Views on Wage Question.

Asked as to further wage reductions, Grace declined to comment beyond saying that the question has been discussed and that the Bethlehem executives were still discussing it.

"We are trying to keep as many workers at work as possible, he said, "but it can be seen that the situation is thin in many cases when we are operating at 20 to 22 per cent of capacity."

Grace added he did not think it would be proper for the steel consumers to anticipate any benefit from further wage adjustments.

Grace took occasion to point out that foreign steel was coming into this country in large quantities and being sold at prices "much below the cost of production."

"I hope that the authorities are getting wise to this dumping situation. For instance, tinplate bars and structural steel is being dumped in this country without any objection. This is taking the work out of the hands of America's workers. We are maintaining a relatively fine wage rate in this country. This foreign influx means a complete shutting down of many departments of the steel mills."

The largest shipper of foreign steel is Belgium, with Germany ranking second, followed by France, Sweden and Great Britain. Prices charged in America on these materials, Grace said, must be below production costs.

"It's a long time since the steel industry has had to face large European competition," he asserted. "The situation has, of course, been aggravated by the depression here."

The national budget, President Grace declared, can not be balanced through taxation alone, but it must be accomplished in part by cutting costs.

"Business can't contribute everything to this present situation," he said.

He characterized President Hoover's Government economy speech before the governors' conference as "fine and fundamental."

National Steel Corporation.

National Steel Corporation covered its dividend requirement by a small margin the first quarter of this year. The corporation showed net income of $592,799, equal to 27 cents a share. The stock is now on a $1 annual basis. A year ago net income was $1,926,000, or 89 cents a share.

E. T. Weir, chairman of the board, said buying of steel had increased slightly since the quarter ended and that operations were currently at a somewhat righer rate than prevailed last month.

Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Co. lost $21,360 in 1931, contrasted with net profit of $4,886,150 in 1930.

C. H. Ewing Heads Reading Company

Succeeds Agnew T. Dice, Deceased; Two New Directors Chosen.

Philadelphia, April 28 (A.P.).—Charles H. Ewing, vice president of the Reading Co., today was elected president. He succeeds the late Agnew T. Dice, who died suddenly on March 25.

Edgar D. Hilleary, vice president in charge of freight traffic, was made vice president in charge of traffic. Edward W. Scheer was appointed vice president in charge of operation and maintenance, succeeding Ewing.

C. Stevenson Newhall, of Philadelphia, and Irenee du Pont, of Wilmington, Del., were elected directors to fill vacancies on the board.

Scheer was formerly general manager of the Eastern lines of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, with offices at Baltimore.

Ewing, who is 66 and has been acting president since the death of Dice, entered the railroad's employ at the age of 17 as rodman.

Laskey May Take Job With Fox Film Corp.

New York, April 28.—Wall street heard today that Jesse Lasky, vice president of the Paramount Publix Corporation, in charge of production, who has taken a three months' leave of absence, may eventually become associated with the Fox Film Corporation, headed by Sidney R. Kent, a former Paramount Publix vice president.

The studio and film production departments of Paramount are now in charge of Vice President Emmanuel Cohen, it is understood.

Directors of the International Safety Razor Co., at their meeting today took no action on the dividend on the Class B stock due at this time. The regular quarterly dividend of 60 cents on the Class A stock was declared. On March 1 a dividend of 25 cents was paid on the Class B stock.

Hogs Selling at Loss, Hedging Market Quits

Chicago, April 28 (A.P.).—The Chicago Livestock Exchange has suspended trading by future deliveries of hogs until such time as "there is a demand for that sort of market," Charles A. Wilson, president, said today.

"This market was established as a hedging market for hogs," Wilson said, "and at present prices, sales can not be hedged. We will resume operations when there is sufficient demand. Hogs are now selling at a loss and it is impossible for traders to hedge their sales."

Trading in hog futures was established March 1, 1930, and was of good volume until September 1931. Wilson said, but then it fell off to such an extent that the market could not be operated further. Spot hog quotations in the Chicago stockyards today touched the 1899 price level.

Santa Fe Holders Strengthen Bonds

Vote to Back Up First Liens by Securities of Affiliates.

Topeka, April 28 (A.P.).—Four members of the board of directors were reelected at the annual meeting of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway Co. stockholders here today.

Those reelected are S. T. Bledsoe, James G. Harboard and Myer Hurley, all of New York, and Warren E. Brown, Wichita, Kans.

The stockholders voted to have modified the company's proposed first lien and refunding mortgage or deed of trust, to include stocks and bonds of Santa Fe affiliated companies recently formed. They also approved a proposal to acquire the capital stock of the North Plains & Santa Fe Railway Co., an affiliated concern which recently completed a 100-mile line from Amarillo, Tex., to the Texas-Oklahoma State line.

W. B. Storey, president, reported the number of Santa Fe stockholders had increased to 59,080, compared with 58,823 at the end of 1931.

SLUMP IN RAIL LIENS DRAGS BONDS LOWER

Speculative Issues Prove Vulnerable; Other Groups Steadier.

By VICTOR EUBANK.

New York, April 28 (A.P.).—While high-grade corporate issues maintained a relatively steady tone, a sharp drop in speculative railway liens dragged the bond market average down today.

Trading volume slowed somewhat in the decline, sales totaling $9,142,000 and the average for 60 principal loans lost seven-tenths of a point. This average is now within six-tenths of a point of the year's low level.

In spite of slightly better car-loading reports and substantial assistance rendered the various railways by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, holders of the lower priced transportation loans apparently grew discouraged, and in the last hour of trading many of them decided to "get from under."

The result was that the average for 20 selected railway bonds declined 1 8-10 points.

A flurry of selling appeared in the curb market, but was met with fairly good resistance. Most leading stocks closed irregularly lower.

Publication of additional earnings statements for March by utility companies disclosed a fairly sharp shrinkage in gross. Shares of several leading companies were offered for sale, but price changes were highly erratic.

Electric Bond & Share common reached 1¾ to 12⅞, but the company's $5 preferred stock rallied ⅝ to 36⅜. Georgia Power Co.'s March report registered a modest loss in gross earnings, but the balance, after taxes, was $33,000 higher than in March, 1931. While this was accepted as an indication that operating economies were offsetting a slight down trend in gross business, the company's preferred stock reacted 2 points on a small sale.

Losses of 1 point or more were registered by American Gas & Electric, Duke Power and Commonwealth Edison. Gains of about the same proportion were made by Columbia Gas & Electric preferred and Illinois Power & Light preferred.

Standard Oil of Kentucky, which announced a gasoline price increase, lost fractionally. Gulf Oil was off 1 point, Standard of Ohio was unchanged.

BANKS BUY HEAVILY OF U. S. SECURITIES

Add $113,000,000 in Week to Holdings; Money in Circulation Drops.

(Associated Press.)

Continued heavy purchases of United States securities by the Federal Reserve System was indicated yesterday in the weekly report of the Federal Reserve Board showing that on April 27 the system's hodings were $1,191,000,000.

The total was an increase of $113,000,000 over the previous week and $593,000,000 more than held a year ago. The banks the week previous had enlarged their total $93,000,000, making the total increase for the two weeks $206,000,000.

At the same time, the board reported a $27,000,000 shrinkage in money in circulation after a slight upward movement of $2,000,000 in the previous week. On last Wednesday money in circulation in the United States amounted to $5,398,000,000. This was $777,000,000 more than was in circulation a year ago.

Drop in Monetary Gold.

The report showed a further drop in the monetary gold stock during the week of $9,000,000, to $4,368,000,000. This made a total decrease for the last two weeks of $12,000,000. The total on Wednesday however, was $353,000,000 less than on the same date a year ago.

Total reserve bank credit on April 27 amounted to $1,785,000,000 an increase of $85,000,000 for the week and $849,000,000 in the last year.

The daily average volume of Federal Reserve Bank credit outstanding during the week ended April 27, was reported by the Federal Reserve Banks as $1,759,000,000. This was an increase of $46,000,000 compared with the preceding week and of $835,000,000 compared with the corresponding week in 1931.

Bank Credit Increases.

On April 27 total reserve bank credit amounted to $1,785,000,000, an increase of $85,000,000 for the week. This gain corresponded with one of $135,000,000 in member bank reserve balances and a decrease of $9,000,000 in monetary gold stock. It was offset in part by decreases of $27,000,000 in money in circulation and $4,000,000 in unexpended capital funds, and nonmember deposits, and an increase of $29,000,000 in Treasury currency adjusted.

Holdings of discounted bills declined $9,000,000 each at the Federal Reserve Banks of Cleveland and San Francisco, $6,000,000 at Atlanta, and $33,000,000 at all Federal Reserve Banks combined.

The system's holdings of bills bought in open market declined $3,000,000, while holdings of United States Treasury notes increased $10,000,000 and of Treasury certificates and bills $103,000,000.

CHRISTIAN SCIENTIST SPEAKS AT THEATER

Ralph B. Scholfield Quotes Many Passages From Book of Mrs. Eddy.

A lecture on "Christian Science: The Omnipotence of God" was delivered yesterday noon in the National Theater by Ralph B. Scholfield, C. S., of London, England. Mr. Scholfield is a member of the board of lectureship of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston. This lecture was under the auspices of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of this city.

The lecturer said, in part:

"In the Christian Science textbook 'Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures,' by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 345), there is the following remarkable statement, 'When the omnipotence of God is preached and His absoluteness is set forth, Christian sermons will heal the sick.'

"Christian Science takes the Old Testament definition of God as 'I am' and couples it with the terms, cause, intelligence, good, life, love. Does not this imply that God, the one infinite mind, is utterly free from conditions or limitations? In other words, God is absolute. Here let me read to you a few lines from the Christian Science textbook, on page 465.

Question of Prayer.

"'Question—Whta is God?'

"'Answer—God is incorporeal, divine, supreme, infinite mind, spirit, soul, principle, life, truth, love.'

"'Question—Are these terms synonymous?'

"'Answer—They are. They refer to one absolute God.'

"The question of prayer is a very important one in the teaching and practice of Christian Science. The one primal or infinite Love surely does not need to be reconciled to mortal shortcomings, does not need to be asked to do something. In defining the prayers of Jesus Mrs. Eddy writes (Science and Health, p. 12) that his 'humble prayers were deep and conscientious protests of Truth—of man's likeness to God and of man's unity with Truth and Love.'

"The manifestation by Jesus of the power and nature of God brings us to Mrs. Eddy's definition of Christ as (Science and Health, p. 583), 'the divine manifestation of God, which comes to the flesh to destroy incarnate error.'

"Though the Master passed from human sight the Christ, or divine manifestation of God, which he embodied, is with us still.

Treatment of Sickness.

"In her textbook (p. 560), Mrs. Eddy says: 'Abuse of the motives and religion of St. Paul hid from view the apostle's character, which made him equal to his great mission. * * * To understand Paul was to be ignorant of the divine idea he taught.' And we can say about our beloved Leader that no one can grasp the great import of her teachings if he either misunderstands her or abuses her motives and religion.

"As a result of her devotion to her life purpose thousands upon thousands have been lifted from the bondage of sin, disease and death. Why then do we suffer? Why do disease do great a part of human experience? Mrs. Eddy has said that it is all owing to 'fear, ignorance, or sin' (Science and Health, p. 411).

"In the treatment of sickness, the Christian Scientist is really trying to obey the First Commandment. Both the Old Testament and the New give us every indication that organic disease must yield to the law of God just as ready as functional disease.

"There is in Christian Science no mystery, no secret. It is the very opposite of mesmerism, will power or strained and nervous concentration. It is just the simple and honest recognition of the First Commandment that is, that there is but one cause, one power, one God, who is infinite Love."

WASHINGTON BOARD OF TRADE REPORTS ITS GREATEST YEAR

Officers Paint Glowing Picture of Organization at Annual Meeting.

10 DIRECTORS ELECTED; WILL ASSEMBLE TODAY

Senator David I. Walsh Talks on Depression and Urges Remedial Measures.

The most successful year in the 41 years' history of the Washington Board of Trade, financially and "every other way," was reported by George W. Offutt, the president, and other officers at the annual election meeting of the organization last night at the Willard Hotel.

Standing out, paradoxically, against the present period of economic stress, the reports showed that the organization has more money in its treasury, owes nothing, has more members and had fewer resignations and delinquencies last year than ever before.

The healthy financial condition of the Capital's largest civic organization is augmented by the success of its Greater National Capital Committee which has raised $60,000 to bring conventions to Washington and publicize the city throughout the country during the coming year.

10 Directors Are Named.

Ten new directors were elected to serve with 20 who remain in office. The new board will meet this morning to elect officers. The new members are: George Plitt, Ben T. Webster, Edward F. Colladay, Frank Hight, John T. Bardroff, Claude W. Owen, James B. Edmunds, Milton F. Schwab, George V. Graham and Harry Blake.

Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts, a member of the Senate finance committee, addressed the organization. Frankly admitting that he does not see where the money is coming from to balance the national budget, he described the present period in American history as "a gloomy story."

"What we have to do," he said, "is resuscitate private enterprise, and we can only do it by making the financial system of the country sound and the burden on industry light. We have to balance the budget in some way before this Congress ends, and it must be done at every necessary sacrifice—through reduction of Government expenditures, where necessary, and through taxation."

Picks Principal Mistake.

He cited as the principal mistake, and the chief cause of the depression, "the unsound and unethical methods pursued by many of the financial leaders of the country in their mad desire to accumulate wealth by gambling with the people's money."

Declaring that he does not know when unemployment will cease, and "dares any man to predict when it will," Senator Walsh described municipal public works programs as having only given temporary relief, and in many cases as having increased unemployment by "piling up taxes on homes," that the owners can not meet.

He referred to the effect on real estate values as "the most discouraging sign of the present period, as more distressing than the deflation in stock values, because home owners are unable to get a mortgage.

Bank Failures Checked.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation was described by the speaker as having given "a temporary check to the onward march of bank failures," adding that bank failures have decreased remarkably in recent weeks. He pointed out that Congress provided for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation "to help the unemployed and to save the deposits of the people and not to pay salaries of bankers."

Senator Walsh referred directly to Washington on two occasions. First he said the Capital is not in a position to appreciate the seriousness of the situation throughout the Nation; and, secondly, he expressed belief that the Senate will give an encouraging response to the request for $600,000 to carry on local relief work—"if it is found the item can be inserted without injury to the financial system, and if conditions really warrant it."

Howard Janitor Wins Exoneration

Judge Directs Verdict of "Not Guilty" After Hearing Evidence.

Holding that the government had failed to establish that Eugene Gough, head janitor of the Howard University, had been guilty of obtaining money under false pretenses, as was charged in an indictment in three counts, Justice F. D. Letts, in the District Supreme Court, yesterday directed a jury, hearing the evidence, to arise and return a "not guilty" verdict.

Gough had been indicted for obtaining money from Howard University for services done by his son, Samuel Gough, in a minor janitorial position. It was testified that while the son, under whose name the money was paid out, had not done the work, the father had done it, and that the university was not a loser in the transaction.

Assistant United States Attorney James R. Kirkland prosecuted the case and John H. Burnett acted as defense attorney.

Glass Bill Would Fix New Approach to Bridge

Senator Carter Glass (Democrat), Virginia, yesterday sought to amend the Arlington Memorial Bridge law, fixing the route to be followed by the Virginia approach to the span, in a bill introduced in the Senate.

Under the Glass plan, the Virginia approach would begin at Fort or Pershing drive instead of at the high-water mark of the Potomac River at Boundary Channel. The bill was referred to the Senate committee on public buildings and grounds.

File and Saw-Blades Found In Shoes Sent to Prisoner

Cleverly concealed in the faked soles of a pair of shoes sent to a prisoner held on a safe robbery charge, District jail officials yesterday found two small metal saw-blades and a file, thus frustrating a probable attempt at jail-breaking.

The shoes were mailed to William Davis, 36, of Elizabeth, N. J., who was arrested March 10, in central New Jersey in connection with the robbery of safes at the Wilkins Coffee Co. and Hahn's shoe store. Henry Davis, 28, was also arrested at the same time and both were indicted on the charges by the grand jury.

Practically all articles mailed to prisoners are subjected to examination with an X-ray machine at the jail, and this procedure led to discovery of the jail-breaking implements.

The soles of the shoes—a pair of black oxfords—had been ingeniously split, the tools glued in an aperture hollowed out and then expertly cobbled so as to give the appearance of not having been tampered with.

Members of the headquarters detective hold-up squad were immediately summoned by Maj. William Peak, superintendent of the jail, nd began an investigation. Whether the shoes were mailed from this city or from out of town could not be learned.

POLICEMAN HASTY FREED IN ASSAULT

Tenth Precinct Patrolman Acquitted of Striking Janitor Last July.

The steady succession of acquittals in the trial of policemen charged with maltreating persons remained intact yesterday, when Policeman Jesse F. Hasty, of the Tenth Precinct, was found not guilty in the court of Justice James M. Proctor.

Hasty had been indicted for assault with a dangerous weapon upon Ralph Ware, colored, assistant janitor of the Home Life Building. Hasty was alleged to have struck Ware with some kind of an instrument on July 4, last.

The incident occured at Thomas Circle, when a flag that had been placed in a street stand for a decoration, became the center of a debate between Ware and the policeman.

The acquittal means that Hasty will be restored to active duty today, and will collect back pay for the time that he has been under suspension. The case is the one in which Detective Sergeant William Messer, retired, received a nolle prosse several weeks ago.

Woman Is Found Dying From Acid

Mrs. Thelma Berger, 25 years old, of 28 I street northwest, was in a critical condition at Emergency Hospital last night as the result of what police said was an attempt to end her life by swallowing a quantity of acid.

The young woman was taken to the hospital from the Cavalier Apartments at 3500 Fourteenth street northwest, where she was discharged by an unidentified cab driver. Clerks, seeing Mrs. Berger in a semidaze and hearing her talk incoherently, called the ambulance.

A note was attached to her dress. It read:

"Tell Mrs. Miller, 28 I street northwest, to notify Jack. Yes, he is satisfied and I hope he will be happy. Thelma Berger."

Mrs. Miller, reached early last night, refused to comment. It was learned that Mrs. Berger had recently been reunited with her husband after a separation.

TYPOTHETAE OPEN NATIONAL SESSION

William Pfaff Presides as Printing Industry and Its Problems Are Discussed.

The midyear meeting of the United Typothetae of America was opened yesterday morning at the Willard Hoel, with William Pfaff presiding. The theme of the sessions is "Current Trade Problems and Their Solution Through Cooperation."

Among those who addressed the assembly yesterday morning were Public Printer George H. Carter, Philip P. Gott, manager, trade association department, United States Chamber of Commerce; Clark R. Long, assistant director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing; George S. Sloan, vice president of the First National Bank of Baltimore, Md., and C. William Schneidereith, of Schneidereith & Sons, Baltimore, Md. The theme of the morning session was "The Printing Industry Today."

The afternoon session was devoted to "Typothetae at Work," at which Julius S. Weyl, first vice president of the Typothetae of America, Philadelphia, and L. A. Braverman, president, Franklin-Typothetae of Cincinnati, gave addresses. The rest of the session was taken up with reports of committees on international activities.

The second joint session will be held this morning at the Willard Hotel, with the afternoon session in the general offices of the U. T. A. in the Tower Building, Fourteenth and K streets.

Addresses will be given this morning by William Pfaff, New Orleans, president of the association; J. Horace McFarland, Harrisburg, Pa., chairman, committee on legislation, U. T. A., and Jerome G. Daneker, Increased Sales, Inc., Baltimore, Md.

Unwilling Prisoner Fined on Two Counts

Judge Ralph Given yesterday ordered Matthew Small, colored, 27 years old, to pay a fine of $25 or serve 30 days in jail on a charge of assaulting Gregory Valindras, proprietor of a delicatessen at 365 G street northwest.

The judge was told that the delicatessen owner saw Small take a dozen rolls and run away with them. He was pursued and caught, and while Valindras was holding him for police, the colored man struck him. On the theft charge Small was fined $10.

Unauthorized 'Night Officer' Halts Motorists on Bridge

Washington's "Night Chief of Police" does not ride an army saddle horse or carry a searchlight and dirk knife. Approximately 20 motorists were apprised of this fact early yesterday, as well as four Fort Washington soldiers, who were escorted to the door of the District Jail by a modern Ichabod Crane who had every intention of seeing them incarcerate.

Shortly after midnight Fourth Precinct Police answered a hurry call to the jail, where they found a middle-aged colored man, a saddle horse (past middle age), and four frightened soldiers, in the hands of jail officials. Into their ears was poured a story that resembled scenes from Washington Irving's famous "Legend of Sleepy Hollow."

For more than half an hour, according to police, the beleaguering horseman had held away at the west end of Pennsylvania Avenue Bridge southeast. In one hand he carried a large searchlight, in the other a cruel-looking dirk knife, while in tones of authority he announced to his impatient audience—approximately 20 delayed motorists—that he was leading night official of the town, and crossing the bridge, for the present, was taboo.

But lo, the spell was broken by the appearance of the four soldiers in an automobile. Threatened, they gladly followed the rider to the jail where police took charge even more than the "authority" desired. Held with mental observation at the Fourth Precinct Station, the man gave his name as Claude Amos, colored, 43, of Meadows, Md. The horse belonged to his mother.

CITIZENS OBDURATE IN GAS TANK FIGHT AT UTILITY HEARING

CATHOLIC INSTITUTIONS ENTER STRONG PROTEST

Odor and Possible Danger of Blast Form Chief Basis of Objections.

The Washington Gas Light Co. yesterday submitted to the Public Utilities Commission an architectural design intended to beautify the proposed gas holder for the Northeast and in addition offered to reduce its capacity by half, thus cutting 25 feet from its height, and to make a public playground out of the unused portion of the Murphy tract at Riggs road and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks.

The compromise offer was made shortly before the adjournment of the two-day hearing in an effort to modify the almost united opposition of more than a half-dozen citizens' associations and the several Catholic educational and ecclesiastical institutions in the vicinity.

As explained by Walter M. Russell, chief engineer of the gas company, the gas holder would be encased in a handsome sheath of massive concrete, stucco or structural steel, and land adjacent would be landscaped. Exhibiting an alabaster model, he predicted that the holder would hold its own with any of the structures at Catholic University.

Reduction in Capacity.

By reducing the capacity from 10,000,000 to 5,000,000 cubic feet the gas company would be able to reduce the height of the holder from 155 to 130 feet and would thus diminish considerably the area from which the tank would be visible. To make amends for this loss in capacity the gas company would ask permission to construct another 5,000,000 cubic feet holder at its East plant, providing Virginia avenue could be closed.

The compromise obviously impressed the citizens, but not enough to cause them to withdraw their opposition. After a representative of the Catholic institutions had reiterated their opposition to the tank, William McK. Clayton, of the Brightwood Citizens Association, delivered the closing arguments for the citizens in an address that consumed three-quarters of an hour and at times waxed eloquent.

Quoting Scripture and verse and using figures of speech freely, Mr. Clayton attacked the gas company proposal in behalf of both private property owners and the Catholic organizations and warned the commission against deciding against such opposition. He proposed as a substitute plan that the gas company be permitted to construct the 5,000,000 cubic feet tank at the east plant, near the navy yard, and be denied its other application.

Clash of Representativees.

Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the commission, announced at the conclusion of the hearing that a decision might not be expected for some time as the members of the utilities body would first read the lengthy transcript.

A clash between representatives of the Catholic institutions and Mr. Russell occurred during the afternoon when the gas company's chief engineer tried to answer some of the arguments of the former. Chairman Patrick permitted him to complete his statement, however.

The Catholic speakers centered their opposition to the gas tank because of the odors they contended it would emit and because they said it would constitute a hazard to the lives of nearby residents. They frequently referred to a Pittsburg gas explosionn which cost 30 lives.

Technical Developments.

Officials of the gas company tried to minimize both of these objections on the strength of recent technical developments.

Although six alternate sites were offered by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission Wednesday, the argument yesterday was confined almost entirely to the Murphy tract and the Terra Cotta site near the B. & O. Terminal Yards.

Among the citizen delegates, other than Mr. Clayton, who spoke, were E. J. Brennan, of Michigan Park; W. H. Seaquist, of Manor Park, and T. W. Joy, of Chillum Heights.

BANKER SEES 5-DAY WEEK AS SOLUTION FOR ECONOMIC ILLS

Paul Mazur Tells Architects Its Adoption Would Revive Building.

FEDERAL INTERFERENCE IN BUSINESS IS SCORED

Ten Organizations to Confer Today on Development of Washington.

"The vicious spiral of deflation" can best be arrested by the adoption of the five-day week, Paul Mazur, investment banker of New York, said yesterday at a joint meeting of the American Institute of Architects and the Producers Council at the Mayflower Hotel. The meeting was held in connection with the sixty-fifth convention of the institute.

The five-day week would first be felt in the building industry, because the largest single deficit in the social economy occurs in home building, he said. The two-day week-end, Mr. Mazur predicted, would bring about the greatest period of building this country has ever seen. It would cause a wholesale exodus from the cities and make the United States a Nation of suburban dwellers, he said.

Limitation of designing and planning of Federal Building projects to civil service employes, as proposed in legislation now before Congress, was opposed in resolutions adopted by the architects yesterday. The proposal was termed uneconomic and a further invasion by the Government into the province of private business.

Resolutions Are Adopted.

The resolutions adopted were:

1. That the country will benefit by utilizing the services of the ablest architects and engineers in the Nation and that their employment will result in a more living and vital architecture.

2. That the employment of expert architects and engineers in private practice will bring to the Government not only the ability of men familiar with local conditions and customs, climate factors and methods of construction, but also men highly trained in design and capable to bring a fresh point of view into their problems.

3. That the growth of bureaucracy is an infringement of our ideal of encouraging private initiative, as it encroaches upon the professions of architecture and engineering.

4. That in times of emergency, speed, as well as efficiency, will result from the prompt allocation of various projects to architects and engineers resident in the States or general sections of the country in which public buildings are to be built.

Indorse Public Works Bills.

With these resolutions in mind, the architects indorsed amendments to bills now before Congress which would allow an administrator of public works to carry out their idea. The resolutions were presented by the committee on public works, headed by Louis LaBeaume, of St. Louis.

The institute will meet today with ten other organizations in a conference on the development of Washington, which is being held with the George Washington Bicentennial Commission.

The election of 20 fellows to the institute was announced. The new fellows are: William G. Kaelber, Rochester, N. Y.; James M. White, University of Illinois, Urbana; Frank A. Carpenter, Rockford, Ill.; Melville Clark, Chatten, Chicago; Herbert Edmund Hewitt, Peoria, Ill.; Reinhardt Dempwolf, York, Pa.; Henry Closson Hibbs, Nashville, Tenn.; Charles T. Ingham, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Dwight James Baum, New York; Richmond Harold Shreve, New York; William Harmon Beers, New York; G. Howard Chamberlin, Yonkers, N. Y.; Andrew J. Man Guilty in Slaying.

A jury in Justice F. D. Letts' court in District Supreme Court yesterday found William T. Jordan, colored, guilty of manslaughter in connection with the slaying of Daniel K. Watkins, also colored, on last December 12. Attorney John H. Wilson, who represented Jordan, claimed his client had shot Watkins in self-defense. Jordan was indicted for second degree murder.

Frankenstein View of State Decried by Peace Advocate

James Brown Scott Tells International Lawyers Government Not Artificial But "a Thing of Men, Women and Children."

"If we continue to look upon the State as an artificial person, instead of a thing of men and women and children, we may end by being the victims of our own Frankenstein, a soulless mechanical thing which inevitably destroys itself," James Brown Scott said last night at the opening session of the twenty-sixth annual meeting of the American Society of International Law at the Willard Hotel.

The speaker is secretary of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and director of its division of internatinoal law. His topic was "A Single Standard of Morality for the Individual and the State."

Following the talk, a discussion of the address was made by Charles P. Anderson, Charles Henry Butler, Frederic R. Coudert, Jesse S. Reeves and George Grafton Wilson.

A round table discussion will take place at the morning session today on "The Treaty Situation in the Far East." The director of the discussion will be John V. A. MacMurray of the Walter Hines Page School of International Relations, Johns Hopkins University, and former American Minister to China.

Other talks scheduled for today include "Treaties Made Under Duress," by Charles Henry Butler, and "The Doctrine of Rebus Sic Stantibus," by William C. Dennis and Joseph P. Chamberlain.

The organization's annual dinner will be held at 7:30 at the Willard Saturday with Dr. Scott presiding. The speakers will include Ambassador Tytus Filipowicz, from Poland, and Roland S. Morris, professor of International Law at the University of Pennsylvania and former American Ambassador to Japan.

HOOVER LEADERSHIP IS PRAISED BY DOAK

Work Toward Bettering of Conditions Told Young Republicans.

Describing President Hoover as a "leader of leaders," Secretary of Labor William N. Doak told members of the Young Republicans of the National Capital Republican Club last night that the President "is deserving of our high confidence and undeviating support."

"From the beginning President Hoover has given his time, his rare intelligence and his heart to an attempt to find solutions for the problems, and if the final solutions have not been found there has been, nevertheless, a great amelioration of conditions," the Secretary said.

The many problems facing the President were outlined by Secretary Doak, who briefly discussed the steps which the President has taken to help the situation.

Senator Simeon D. Fess, chairman of the Republican national committee, gave his seventh talk on the history of the Republican party. He covered the Roosevelt administration and touched upon the diplomatic problems involved in the construction of the Panama Canal and the solution of the so-called "Venezuela affair."

Man Is Awarded $3,500 After Crossing Deaths

A verdict for $3,500 damages was given Douglas Lemmons, former member of the District Fire Department, by a jury in Justice Oscar R. Luhring's court in District Supreme Court yesterday.

Lemmons sued the Pennsylvania Railroad Company for the deaths of his wife and child, who were killed when a train smashed into Lemmons' car, which he was operating, at Landover, Md. The railroad company claimed Lemmons failed to use the proper care in approaching the tracks, and he, in return, said the watchman at the crossing failed to give him a warning. Attorneys Alvin L. Newmyer and A. W. Jacobson represented Lemmons, who under the law, could only sue for the amount of financial loss he had actually sustained.

"L" Cars Should Park On Stand, Judge Says

Judge John P. McMahon yesterday expressed a doubt as to the legality of "L" tag automobiles securing exclusive privileges in front of several of the large downtown hotels. While he did not render a decision in an "L" case, he did remark that they were probably violating the law.

The question came up when Clare McK. Matthews, cab driver, was arrested for parking an "H" cab in front of the Mayflower Hotel. Judge McMahon asked if any other cars were parked there and he was informed that "L" cars parked there all the time. He fined Matthews $2 with the observation that he thought the other cabs were violating the law also.

Schoolboy Patrols Parade Tomorrow

Safety Movement Given Indorsement in Senate by Oddie.

Final arrangements were made yesterday for the big parade of schoolboy safety patrols to march on Pennsylvania avenue at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, it was announced by the Bicentennial Commission.

Headed by distinguished guests and officials, the parade is expected to be one of the features of the Bicentennial celebration. Outlining the movement to the Senate yesterday afternoon, Senator Tasker L. Oddie, of Nevada, declared:

"In calling this Bicentennial feature to the attention of the Senate, I do so for two reasons. First, that we may have a greater appreciation of what this safety patrol movement means to the boys and girls who daily attend school and, second, that by recognizing what has already been accomplished we may lend encouragement to the further extension of the safety movement."

DEPUTY POSTS $100 BOND ON 7 CHARGES

Judge Mattingly Also Fixes Sums for Other Officers in Prince Georges.

Bond of $100 was posted yesterday by Newton James, Prince Georges County deputy sheriff, who is under indictment for robbery, four counts of conspiracy, malfeasance in office and bribery. Thomas V. Garrison, son of the chief deputy sheriff, posted the same amount of bond on indictments for robbery and four counts of conspiracy.

The bond was set by Judge Joseph C. Mattingly, of the circuit court, when the two men surrendered themselves to Sheriff W. C. Hopkins yesterday. Constable H. E. Hodges, of Laurel, was held in bond of $200 for malfeasance in office, while $300 was required from Constables Harry Sweeney and William T. Hendley. Sweeney and Hendley are each named in two indictments for malfeasance.

Others who were indicted included Oliver P. Dennis, robbery of $40 worth of narcotics from a Hyattsville drug store; H. J. Annette, false pretenses, receving $25 from Noah Joffe, of Bowie, on a bad check; Willie Nichols, sale of liquor; Alonzo Simmons, Grantland W. Butler, George Pinckney, two statutory charges, assault and battery; Otis Wilson, larceny and receiving $8.60 stolen from Albert L. Fowler; James C. Gray, nonsupport; John Dickerson, two statutory charges and assault and battery on a girl under 14; William Jackson, assault with intent to kill and assault and battery on Policeman Oscar Beall; Gus Chaconas, two statutory charges and assault and battery; Eugene Digga, possesson of liquor.

Reduced Collateral Asked as Court Aid

Police Officials Believe $2 Forfeits Would Relieve Crowded Docket.

Faced with rapidly congesting dockets in traffic court, police officials yesterday sent to the Commissioners a proposed new list of collateral to be deposited for different traffic violations.

On overtime parking and a number of other frequent offenses, the collateral would be cut from $5 to $2. A collateral of $3 is to be asked in certain other offenses.

The original fixed schedule of collaterals calling for a minimum of $5 in a number of minor cases was adopted by the Commissioners several years ago upon recommendation of the Bureau of Efficiency.

It is believed by officials that the curtailed collateral fees will result in more arrested persons forfeiting rather than facing trial, thus relieving court congestion.

Girl, 4, Seriously Hurt When Hit by Auto

Serious injuries were suffered yesterday by Margaret Edith Deckelbaum, 4, daughter of Benjamin Deckelbaum, of 401 Fourteenth street northeast, when she was knocked down by an automobile in front of her home. She was taken to Casualty Hospital yesterday afternoon with possible left shoulder and skull fractures and concussion of the brain.

The child ran into the side of an automobile operated by Howard E. Scudder, 28 years old, of 1326 Orren street northeast, according to police. Mr. Scudder stopped and took the child to the hospital. Mr. Deckelbaum figured in the news on April 5 when he was held up in his grocery store by two armed men.

Opening of Mt. Vernon On Sundays Is Urged

A resolution asking the Mount Vernon ladies to keep the shrine open to visitors on Sundays and holidays was adopted yesterday at the meeting of the Central Business Men's Association at the Logan Hotel.

An active carnival committee was appointed, with Jack Mullane as chairman, to plan for a carnival in the business district of the city soon. An address was given by Paul Edward Garber, of the Smithsonian Institution.

Sentence Stay Given Driver For Pulling Gun on Thieves

It's a tough life, according to John R. Jackson, colored cab driver, yesterday as he drew a six months' suspended sentence for carrying a deadly weapon.

Early Thursday Jackson was confronted by two alleged robbers who thrust a pistol at him and demanded his money. He argued with them until they turned to look at an approaching car. As they did, Jackson pulled his own weapon and ordered the pair not to move until some one called police.

After booking the two men, James Grimes and Gladstone Nesbit, on charges of attempted robbery, police placed a charge of carrying a deadly weapon against Jackson. However, Judge Ralph Given gave the man a suspended sentence and let him go while his two captives were held for the action of the grand jury.

WASHINGTON YEAR CANTATA PRESENTED BY SCHOOL CHILDREN

SOME SINGERS APPEAR IN COLONIAL COSTUMES

Presentation to Be Repeated Tomorrow Night; Music Teachers Directing.

The first presentation of Ira B. Wilson's cantata, "Washington," in commemoration of the Bicentennial of the birth of George Washington, was participated in last night at Central High School by 1,200 children of the graded schools of the District.

The program was opened with the "March Militaire," followed with a waltz by a preorchestral group of 125 of the youngest school children, conducted by Miss Elsie Roebe. Mendelssohn's "War March of the Priests from Athalia" was then rendered by an intergrade festival orchestra of 60 pieces conducted by Mrs. Laura Fairchild Ward.

1,000 Sing in Cantata.

An intercity sixth grade chorus of 1,000 pupils sang four songs in the cantata on "Washington." The songs rendered under the direction of Dr. Edwin N. C. Barnes, head of the music department in the public schools of the District, were "Let Freedom Ring," "First in the Hearts of His Countrymen," "The Tale of the Cherry Tree" and "The Spirit of '76."

A minuet and a gavotte, including "George Washington," on his flute, were played by a double string quartet from the Intergrade Festival Orchestra in colonial costume.

Other Songs on Program.

The entire ensemble of 1,200 pupils conducted by Dr. Barnes, sang "The Liberty Bell," "Your Flag and Mine," "Valley Forge," "Long Live the President," "Mount Vernon" and "Salute the Flag." The festival was closed with the rendering of the "Star Spangled Banner."

The cantata was prepared under the general direction of Mrs. Lillian G. Brousseau and Mrs. Mary Garrett Lewis, assisted by Mrs. Ethel Connor, Miss Freda Cowhig, Mrs. Lillian Karn and the department teachers of music, with the cooperation of the Community Institute. It will be presented again tomorrow night at Central.

Conduit Road Name Change Asked by Citizens

Members of the Conduit Road Citizens Association last night reaffirmed their desire to have the name of Conduit road changed to "Washington avenue," despite the opposition to the proposition met at the last meeting of the Federation of Citizens Associations.

A request was addressed to the District Commissioners to have the streets around Sherrier place and Edmonds street northwest oiled. The association complained of the dust arising from holes in the street repaired with dirt. Two band concerts for the community house during the summer were requested of the Public Parks Commission.
